Big Newtonville Value Event Is Underway Today

Newtonville's gala Carnival of Shopping Values lifts the curtain today with all merchants in the district jammed with the greatest galaxy of bargains ever to be displayed at one time.

There's a special section starting on Page 11 of today's Graphic. Key figures in the enterprise, Justin Horan, of the Chamber of Commerce and Nate Lones, chairman of the promotion, see one of the most successful merchandising events in Newton history.

Public Schools Open Monday With Highest Pupil Population Ever

The largest number of pupils in history, 16,805, will report for opening day on Sept. 8 in the Newton Public Schools. This represents an increase of 3 percent over the opening enrollment last September, which totaled 16,295.

The 510 additional pupils, spread throughout the 12 grades, would fill an elementary building the size of the Cabot School. Preparations have been made, however, to accommodate the swelling student population.

Two new additions, six rooms at the Countryside School and four rooms at the Hamilton, will open for the first time on Monday and will relieve classroom pressures in the Highlands section and in Newton Lower Falls.

Girl, 17, Badly Hurt

A tragic accident in Maine has cost a 17-year-old Newton girl a leg and may result in the amputation of her remaining limb. Susan Wasson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Wasson of 162 Hunnewell avenue, Newton, is in critical condition at North Conway, N. H. Memorial Hospital.

The accident, which happened in nearby Fryburg, Maine, Saturday night, was the direct result of concern over a possibly injured animal. Susan and a friend, Marion Genaske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Genaske of 32 Hyde street, Newton, were driving from North Conway to Fryburg at about 8 p. m. when they thought they had hit a dog with their car.

Susan was standing behind the car when another vehicle came over the crest of a hill and smashed into her. Police said the impact of the accident dragged her 75 feet along the highway.

Both girls were in a state of shock when taken to the hospital. One of Susan's legs has

Balloting To Be Under Revised Ward System; Big GOP Vote Looms

Newton voters will go to their polling places next Tuesday to help settle a number of lively primary battles and to select the candidates who will carry the Democratic and Republican nominations into the final election two months hence.

The Garden City's polling places will be open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. so that Newton residents may cast their ballots either before they go to work in the morning or after they return home at night.

Because the division of wards and precincts is different than in last year's municipal election—with the city reverting back to its 1956 setup of seven wards—every voter has been sent a postcard by City Clerk Monte G. Basbas listing the polling places where he or she will vote next Tuesday.

Newton firemen rescued an invalid and her nurse after they were overcome from a mattress fire in a second floor bedroom of their West Newton home early Tuesday morning.

Firefighters had to force a door to affect the rescue, which came in the nick of time. Taken from their home at 66 Fairview Drive were Miss Meredith Landon, 40, an invalid, and Miss Elizabeth Enright, 50, her nurse.

Both were admitted to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital for

HELP Loans Available for College Sophs Faced with Financial Woes

HELP is now available to college sophomores of Newton whose pursuit of higher education has been jeopardized by lack of cash.

HELP is the Higher Education Loan Plan, under which students are enabled to obtain bank loans which would otherwise be unavailable to them, save at considerably higher rates.

Two Newton banks are participating in the program. HELP doesn't make grants to the students. This is how the plan works out:

dorsers and on more lenient repayment terms than are customarily available.

Newton residents should apply for these loans through the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company or the Newton National Bank.

To be eligible at the present time an applicant must be a resident of Massachusetts, enrolled in an institution that is in satisfactory standing, and have completed the academic requirements for the first academic year. Applications may be made at any time of the year.

Hot Fights for Nominations To Be Decided Next Tuesday

Interesting fights for party nominations for Congress, Attorney General, the Governor's Council, the State Senate and for county offices will attract a major part of the spotlight along Newton's political front as the candidates sweep into the final stages of their campaigning before next Tuesday's important primary.

Greatest attention will be centered on the outcome of the clash for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 10th congressional district and on the struggle for the Republican endorsement for the Governor's Council in the third councillor district where Christian A. Herter, Jr., is retiring from office.

Keen interest also has been aroused by the fights for the Democratic endorsements in the state senatorial district which includes Newton and in the third councillor district as well as by the drive of District Attorney James L. O'Dea, Jr., for Democratic renomination.

Make That Trip To School With Youngster Before Opening Day

If your child is one of the very young who'll be starting school in Newton next week, you could well read and consider some timely advice offered by Police Chief Philip Purcell and Safety Officer Charles E. Feeley.

Public schools of the city will open Sept. 8, although some classes are to report a day later.

Here's the advice of the police chief and his safety officer for the parents of the very young:

Parents should walk over the route to school with the youngster for several days before school opens.

Later the child should be allowed to go to school alone, with the parent following to ascertain whether the youngster follows the same route and observes safety practices.

It is also a good idea to check regularly throughout the year in the same fashion.

The time elapsed in making the trip to or from school should be noted, and parents should insist that the child keep to a time schedule to avoid play or lingering.

Parents should also discuss crosswalks, driveways and small streets; pedestrian crosswalks; traffic lights; school patrols and police officers and police women.

Thefts Reported Over Weekend

Newton police received reports over the weekend of several thefts from coin boxes at Norumbega Park and from a locker at the Woodland Golf Club.

The proprietor of Norumbega Park, Douglas Farrington, told police that three coin boxes in "Kiddieland" rides at the park were looted and about $20 taken on Saturday night.

Leading Democrats Endorse McCormack for Atty-General

A group of the most respected members of the Democratic party today urged the nomination of Boston City Councillor Edward J. McCormack, Jr., for the office of Attorney General.

McCormack, who has been conducting a vigorous pre-primary campaign throughout the State, is the official Democratic candidate for the office. He was named the official candidate at the party's State convention.

The prominent party leaders who have thrown their full support to McCormack, urging support for him next Tuesday, include:

Congressman Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, Jr., of Cambridge; Congressman Edward P. Boland of Springfield; Congressman Harold D. Donohue of Worcester; House Speaker John F. Thompson of Ludlow; Representative Charles J. Artisan of Allston, Majority Floor Leader in the House; Senator John E. Powers of South Boston, Minority Leader in the Senate; Senator Maurice A. Donahue of Holyoke; Suffolk County District Attorney Garrett H. Byrne; Executive Councillor Patrick J. "Sonny" McDonough of Dorchester; Middlesex County Sheriff Howard W. Fitzpatrick of Malden; Honorable Thomas H. Buckley of Abington, former State Commissioner of Administration and Finance; and the Honorable Jackson J. Holtz of Brookline, former State Representative and past National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans.

Councillor McCormack's candidacy is being strongly supported, too, by his famous uncle, Congressman John W. McCormack, Majority Leader

John L. Saltonstall Jr. Cites Extensive Federal Experience

Atty. John L. Saltonstall, Jr., of Brookline, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 10th District, today predicted victory in Tuesday's State Primary.

"I base my confidence in victory on the fact that as this primary campaign progresses I am receiving increasingly enthusiastic pledges of support from more and more voters," Saltonstall declared.

"Most of this promised support has come from regular Democrats but a great deal of it has come also from independents who, this year, are going to take a Democratic ballot because they believe in my candidacy," Saltonstall asserted.

"I am the only candidate in this contest who has had extensive experience in our Federal government in Washington. I have served five years in responsible positions under Presidents Roosevelt, Truman, and Eisenhower. This government experience includes service with the War Department, the National War Labor Board, and most recently in 1952-53 with the Department of the Army as Associate General Counsel."

For many years Saltonstall has been an active Democratic Party worker, having been associated in campaigns with the late Gov. Paul A. Dever and Senator Kennedy. In 1952 he served as state chairman of the Voluntary Citizens for John F. Kennedy. He also organized the Young Democrats of Middlesex County and the Brookline Democratic Club.

He has also been a leader in the civil rights movement for many years. He is currently serving as chairman of the Massachusetts Council for Civil Rights, was chairman of the recent Governor's Conference on Civil Rights, and was Co-Chairman of the National Convention of the NAACP in 1950.

The Red Cross, United Fund, United Labor Committee and the Girl Scouts are other organizations in which Saltonstall has taken an active part.

Farewell Party for Dr. Richter

Assistant Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Charles O. Richter were tendered a farewell party last week at the home of Mrs. Charles Goldrick, 289 Central street, Auburndale.

Mrs. Goldrick has served as secretary to Dr. Richter, who left this week for Niskayuna, N.Y., where he will assume his new duties as superintendent of schools in that town.

Two score attended the party, including members of the school office staff and their husbands. Also present was former Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Harold B. Gorse and his wife. Dr. Gorse also left Newton last week for New York City, where

Reopening of Charles River Is Indefinite

Guesses as to how long the fleet of the Newton Yacht Club and other pleasure craft along the Charles River will be bottled up pending repair of the Charles River Dam remained in the purely speculative area this week.

No one knew exactly and there were those pessimists among the boat owners who expected the snow to fall before the ancient locks will be functioning again.

Eleven years ago the locks went out of commission for the same reason—the collapse of one of its lifting wheels.

The MDC is now receiving bids for the replacement of the 50-year-old locks mechanism but the work cannot be undertaken until next March. Meanwhile, Newton sailors are hoping the temporary repairs will be completed before it's time to put their craft up for the winter.

Miss Burke Takes Up Teaching At Texas School

JEANNE F. BURKE

Miss Jeanne Frances Burke, daughter of George T. Burke, of 81 Wyoming Road, Newtonville, a 1958 graduate of Regis College, Weston, left by plane for El Paso, Texas, recently to take up her duties as a teacher at the Blessed Sacrament School in that city.

Under the voluntary plan of the Regis Lay Apostolate, reorganized recently by Pope Pius, the Newtonville girl will donate her year of teaching under the guidance of Father Hayes, pastor of the Blessed Sacrament parish.

Pass Civil Service Test

Two Newton residents passed a civil service examination to qualify for promotion to the position of office manager in the State division of employment security.

They are Parker B. Robinson of 48 Fessenden st., Newtonville, who placed second on the newly established civil service list, and Louis Nelson of 54 Jerome ave., West Newton, who is sixth on the list. There are 37 men on the list.

he will serve as president of the Educational Facilities Laboratory, a division of the Ford Foundation.

Former Registrar King Sets Fast Pace in Council Fight

Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King, Republican candidate for the Governor's Council in the third councillor district, has visited every city and town in the big district, conducting a vigorous and straight-forward campaign.

King has spoken before many organizations as well as at numerous house parties. Everywhere he went he was received enthusiastically.

His reputation as a proven public servant in State and town government as well as his service as director of the Children's Cancer Research and of Middle Camp, held the attention of every audience.

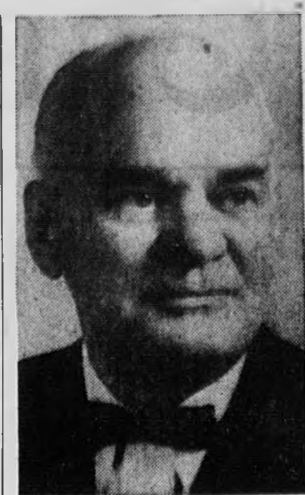

Rudy King, as he is well known throughout Massachusetts, has served as Representative, as Speaker of the House and as Registrar of Motor Vehicles for more than 13 years under six governors.

King's supporters point out that he has the respect and trust of all the leaders in the Republican party. They declare that as the campaign has progressed he has received the enthusiastic support of young Republicans throughout the district who value his friendship, experience, judgment and devotion to the Republican party.

Republican leaders and workers who are supporting King declare that his nomination would add strength to the entire Republican ticket in November. They state that there never has been any substitute for experience and integrity in office and that King has an abundance of both.

Mahan Stresses Youth In GOP D.A. Campaign

Attorney James F. Mahan of Cambridge, former FBI agent, former Assistant Attorney General and secretary to ex-Governor Christian A. Herter, is waging a vigorous campaign for the Republican nomination for District Attorney in Middlesex County.

In a speech here last night Mahan declared:

"The formula for future Republican success in county elections is the ability, youth and vigor of Republican candidates."

"Middlesex County voters are more independent than they are democrat or republican. The voters of the county are intelligent and therefore responsive to qualified, young, and vigorous aspirants to public office regardless of party. The voters want sound and efficient government and will support candidates who can provide it."

"My only opponent for nomination is over seventy-two years of age. He relies on his name alone to nominate him. He is using as an aid to himself, the words 'Former District Attorney' on the ballot although he was never elected to the office. He does not campaign. He attends no rallies or meetings. He does nothing in his fight for the nomination. Should he win the nomination—he will not be any more vigorous against the democrat nominee. We will not regain the important office of District Attorney in this manner."

"Up to about eighteen months ago the Republicans had administered the affairs of the District Attorney's office for over forty years with young and vigorous Republicans."

"The future of the Republican party in Middlesex County is on the block right now. September 9th, primary day will tell."

"Let's send forth young and able Republicans to recoup our losses and prepare for the future success of the Republican party in our county."

Monday morning all grades except the first will go on their regular schedule. First grades throughout the city generally will be in session mornings only for one or two weeks, after which they will begin meeting mornings and afternoons.

party so named. If you are an independent, you may ask for the ballot of your choice, and even though you vote on a party ballot in the primary, you may regain independent status by going to City Hall after the primary and having the party designation removed.

The Voters Service Committee of the League said this week that in order to keep party control in the hands of the voters, every citizen should use his opportunity to vote September 9.

Melia Given Strong Support In Contest For State Senate

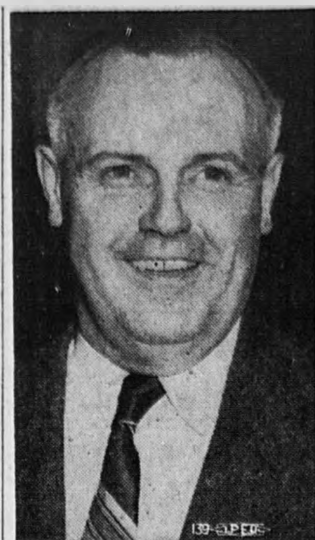

Supporters of John F. Melia, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate in the Middlesex-Suffolk senatorial district which includes Newton, continued their drive in his behalf as the campaign moved into its closing days.

Mr. Melia, who was successful in his initial bid for the Democratic nomination two years ago, predicted that he will poll an even larger vote in the coming primary.

Melia pointed out that in the 1956 election he received the largest vote ever given a Democratic State senatorial candidate in the history of the district.

Working closely with his seasoned campaign organization and staff, Mr. Melia expressed the conviction that his candidacy will succeed not alone in the primary next Tuesday but also in the November election as well and that he will become the first Democratic Senator in this district.

Mr. Melia, in thanking his supporters for their activity on his behalf in the past, renewed his plea for a concentrated effort throughout the district during the coming days, to insure that the voice of the Middlesex-Suffolk Democratic voters will be heard in the coming primary.

Big Squad Greets Coach As Tigers Open Practice Work

The work of molding the 1958 edition of the Newton Tiger football aspirant for gridiron honors began Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, when Coach Bud Hawkes greeted a squad numbering close to 100.

The boys were fully equipped as far as togs were concerned. They were issued the necessary paraphernalia in the spring for Coach Hawkes didn't want to waste precious fall practice time for such distracting tasks.

For the first week conditioning drills were in order, although the boys were subjected to a lot of work in pure fundamentals.

The task of Hawkes and his staff isn't made easier by the fact that the team had no spring practice. The work of cutting down the big squad to manageable proportions got under way almost immediately.

Biggest need in the face of the list of returning lettermen will be found in the backfield where both running backs and line-backers will be required to fill out vacancies created by graduation.

Bride Wears Grandmother's Bridal Gown

MRS. ADRISON AULT

Wearing the bridal gown originally worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. F. A. Wright of Kansas City, fifty-two years ago, Miss Janet Ruth Meade became the bride on August 23 of Addison Ault. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard P. Meade, of 2050 Dewey, Bartlesville, Oklahoma. The groom's parents are Prof. and Mrs. Warren O. Ault, of 22 Fairlee road, Waban.

The ceremony was performed at the First Christian Church in Bartlesville, with the Rev. George G. Beazly, Jr., officiating. Lighting the candles before the ceremony were Jim and Sally Meade, brother and sister of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Ault wore a Paris muller gown. The yoke and lower part of the skirt were finely tucked and lace, and embroidered over the dress. The blouse had large, puffed sleeves held just above the elbow by wide bands of lace and embroidery, which also adorned the high collar. The bridal illusion veil was caught to a pearl tiara. She carried white roses accented by pink sweetheart roses.

Miss Susan Meade was maid of honor for her sister, with Mary Ault, sister of the groom, and Glenna Durrill as bridesmaids. Thomas J. Clark served as best man, and ushers included Cornelius Ephraim Klotz, Robert Hartman, Lee Crawford and John Wells.

The bride will enter her junior year at Brandeis University this fall after having spent two years at Smith College. The groom was graduated from Amherst College and is now a graduate student at Harvard University. Following a wedding trip to Maine, the couple will reside at 301D Holden Green, Cambridge.

Assisting at the reception were: Miss Barbara Tooke, Miss Lisbeth Tooke, Miss Ann Clark, Mrs. Richard J. Bennett, Mrs. Howard Goad, Mrs. Emerich Guenther, Mrs. Howard R. Jones, Mrs. J. W. Tooke, Mrs. J. E. Mahan, Mrs. Grant Bailey, and Mrs. J. P. Jones.

Lawn Reception Follows Coogan-Merrill Nuptial

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Francis Coogan, of 219 Homer street, Newton Centre, and Upper Farm, N. Pomfret, Vermont, announce the August 30th marriage of their daughter, Eleanor, to David Oliver Merrill, of 26 Exeter street, Boston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Faxon Merrill.

The ceremony took place at the Memorial Church of Harvard with Dean Walter G. Muelder, of Boston University School of Theology, officiating. The wedding reception was held on the lawn of the bride's home. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a pale ivory peau de soie gown with appliques of velvet flowers and tiny seed pearls outlining the portrait neckline. It had a fitted bodice, three-quarter length sleeves and bustle back, and the skirt ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip illusion veil was attached to a circlet of orange blossoms and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and sprays of green ivy.

Kathleen and Susan Boman of Maryland were flower girls, with Rosaline Coogan, sister of the bride, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Virginia Gannon of Brooklyn, formerly of Newton Centre, Eloise Mary Gorton of Michigan, Mirilla Jona of New York City, Philadelphia Wehle of Philadelphia, with Mrs. Jack Winter Hall of Atlanta, Georgia, and Margaret Reed of Paris, France, as honorary bridesmaids.

Robert Louis Merrill of Manchester was best man for his brother, and serving as ushers were Walter Louis Brassett of Indiana, Peter Weston Coogan of Newton Centre, Edwin Valentine Erbe of Waterbury, Conn., and David Bert Hershenson of Cambridge.

Miss Florence Berlin and Miss Viola Gerlin who raised the groom were Belgian lace over beige organza and a rose crepe sheath, respectively.

Mrs. Merrill was graduated from Mount Holyoke in 1937, from the Radcliffe Graduate Department of Fine Arts in 1938; she spent her junior year in Paris with the Sweet Briar group. Mr. Merrill prepared at Roxbury Latin for Harvard College and is presently a graduate student in the Department of Art History at Yale. The newlyweds are honeymooning in Vermont and will make their home at 901 Howard avenue, New Haven, Conn.

College Sophs-

HELP is currently conducting a capital fund drive to raise a total $500,000 within the next four years to back more student loans.

With this additional financial assistance, HELP will be able to make loans to students totaling $6½ million.

Here is an example of HELP in action:

John Jones, 19, a Massachusetts resident, has finished his freshman year at an approved college. His father paid part of his tuition and other expenses and John earned the rest on full time summer jobs and part time work at college.

John goes to the bank in his home town and asks for a HELP application form. The bank checks on John as a credit risk and makes sure that the college thinks that he will get along academically. The bank then turns it over to the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation, HELP's parent organization.

If MHEAC decides John Jones is OK, it assures the bank that it will guarantee up to 80 percent of the money lent to John.

The interest is at the lowest rate for unsecured loans, plus a .5 percent charge for MHEAC expenses—this works out at about 4 percent at present. The lowest rate—called the prime rate—is that which is usually available only to large corporations with solid credit ratings. The biggest loan allowed to one student a year is $500.

Not only is the interest low, but also the students do not have to pay back a single penny until after graduation—three and a half years from the earliest date at which he can apply.

HELP has been in operation since March, 1957, and has already made it possible for 2177 Massachusetts students to borrow a total of $1,029,215. So successful has this project been that the directors are seeking means to augment the funds and extend the plan to even more college students in the future.

Students have been given assistance at Boston College, Boston University, Northeastern University, University of Massachusetts, Brandeis University and other institutions of higher learning.

Lt. James Glass carried Miss Landon out of the house and her nurse was saved by Lt. Thomas Lane and fireman Leo Murphy and John Dunn.

Police attributed the blaze to a candle left near Miss Landon's bed. The mattress was ignited and the fire spread through the room, filling the house with smoke and causing an estimated $2500 in damage.

Political Highlights

A hot three-way battle for the Democratic endorsement for Congress in the 10th district and the right to run against Congressman Laurence Curtis next November is boiling to a climax, with City Councillor Edward F. McLaughlin, Jr., of Jamaica Plain, Attorney Joseph J. Mulhern, Jr., of Jamaica Plain, and Attorney John J. Saltonstall, Jr., of Brookline the three contenders.

All three have put on vigorous drives and have spent long hours stumping across the district. All three have names which are well known to the voters.

At the outset of their race the three proceeded in polite, gingerly fashion, obviously taking some pains not to offend their opponents or to open any rifts for the final election. In the past week or two, however, as the tension has mounted and the primary has drawn closer, the campaigning has become more forceful.

McLaughlin has hammered repeatedly at the fact that neither Saltonstall nor McLaughlin ever has held public office or has run for office before. He has asked the Democratic voters whether they would select a candidate, who has never been tested in any elective office, to serve in the nation's greatest law-making body under present-day conditions.

The contest is a difficult one to analyze because Mulhern and Saltonstall are entirely untested as voters. Since neither has ever had his name on the ballot before, they have no past performances which can be used as a guide on what to expect Tuesday night when the primary returns are counted.

McLaughlin, of course, has been elected three times to the Boston City Council and has made a strong showing each time he has run. He has invariably rolled up a good vote in the seven Boston wards which are included in the 10th district. During his service in Boston's municipal government he has built up a reputation as a public leader of both real ability and high integrity. He is the only politically tested candidate in the field.

Both Saltonstall and Mulhern are what is known as "name" candidates.

Mulhern is the son of Joseph J. Mulhern, who for years has been a prominent leader in the Democratic party and has a wide circle of friends. The younger Mulhern is a former Assistant District Attorney.

Saltonstall is a second cousin of Republican Senator Leverett Saltonstall but is a staunch and all-out Democratic. He held appointive positions in the federal government in the Truman administration and early in the Eisenhower regime.

McLaughlin was a former Assistant U. S. Attorney before his election to the City Council.

This is by far the most rugged primary battle that has been waged in the 10th congressional sector since the district was created back in 1942.

Political experts will be watching closely the developments in the final stages of the struggle between Attorney Harris A. Reynolds of Wellesley and former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King of Mills for the Republican nomination for the Governor's Council in the Herter district.

This contest has aroused some feeling. Attorney Reynolds is being supported by many of the younger Republican leaders across the big councillor district which covers about an eighth of the State. Former Registrar King, who reached the mandatory retirement age earlier this year, is being backed by some of the older figures in the GOP.

Newton Alderman Joseph G. Bradley probably would have a good chance in the final election for the Executive Council in November if he can survive next Tuesday's Democratic primary.

Bradley has three opponents for the Democratic Council nomination. He must pile up a substantial plurality in Newton in order to capture the nomination. Bradley has put on an energetic campaign.

Four candidates are battling for the Democratic endorsement for the State Senate and the right to oppose Senator Donald L. Gibbs in the fall election. But the fight is considered to be between Robert W. Gallagher of Newton and John F. Melia of Brighton.

Melia won the Democratic nomination in that district two years ago but was defeated by Gibbs in the election. Gallagher has pitched his campaign to the claim that only a Newton candidate would have a real chance of unseating Gibbs.

Gallagher's prospects of gaining the nomination may be lessened by the presence of two other Newton candidates in the field. They are Lawrence C. Sullivan and Roland A. Barrette.

Some interest will be centered on the showing made by former Alderman Alfred R. Guzzi, prominent municipal employee leader, who is standing for the Democratic nomination for the House in the fourth Middlesex legislative district.

While Guzzi actually is certain of endorsement, his friends will be out to show that he has a chance of winning in November.

Democratic Attorney General Race Heads Primary Contests

In many sections of Massachusetts the two contests for places on the Democratic State ticket have been pushed into the background by the closer-to-home battles for Democratic and Republican nominations for Congress, the State Senate, the House of Representatives and a variety of county offices.

The most important fight to be decided, however, when the voters converge on their polling places for next Tuesday's primary will be that between Boston City Councillor Edward J. McCormack, Jr., and the former Governor's Councillor Endicott (Chub) Peabody of Cambridge for the Democratic endorsement for Attorney General and the right to stand for election against Christian A. Herter, Jr., next November.

Second on the list of things to watch in the primary day balloting will be the outcome of the strange race between State Treasurer John F. Kennedy of Canton and Woburn Mayor William G. Shaughnessy for the Democratic nomination for Treasurer.

The returns in that contest should pretty well determine whether Kennedy is one of the truly remarkable present-day vote-getters or the political accident that some of his critics claim.

Shaughnessy has campaigned at a tremendous tempo. Kennedy aside from the work he did in getting his nomination signatures to qualify for a place on the ballot, has done no campaigning at all in the strict sense of the word.

Mayor Shaughnessy carries the endorsement of the Democratic pre-primary convention. Kennedy didn't even attend the convention. If Kennedy wins again this time, as he may very well do, it will be quite an accomplishment.

As the returns are reported next Tuesday night, the political experts also will be studying the complimentary vote totals seeking some indication as to how the political storms in the wind are blowing.

Unwarranted importance may be attached to the number of so-called blanks. A great many people who go to the polls to vote in contests which arouse their interest just don't take the time or trouble to cast complimentary votes for candidates who have no opposition.

Senator Kennedy is almost certain to roll up the biggest complimentary vote of anyone on the Democratic ticket and probably on either ticket.

Because there are no fights for places on the GOP State ticket, the Democratic turnout Tuesday undoubtedly will be substantially larger than on the Republican side. The fact, however, that three GOP Congressmen are retiring from office and that lively fights are being waged for the seats they are leaving, should serve to bring out a creditable GOP vote in some areas. But the truth is that many Republicans have got out of the habit of voting in primaries.

Councillor McCormack, nephew of Congressional Majority Leader John W. McCormack, is picked by political observers to win the Democratic nomination for Attorney General in fairly decisive fashion.

Peabody has waged a forceful, hard-hitting campaign which has been pitched largely on the claim that he can win in November and that McCormack can't. The former Harvard football hero is being backed vigorously by the ADA.

He has the support of a large, energetic and devoted organization of followers and shapes up as a very formidable contender.

McCormack carries the endorsement of the Democratic pre-primary convention. Two years ago, he failed to get the convention endorsement but still won in the primary over former Representative Joseph D. Ward of Fitchburg, an extremely popular candidate and a good campaigner.

The indications are that McCormack is a stronger candidate today than he was in 1956 and that he has profited from stumping across the Commonwealth in the last State primary and election campaigns.

During the past few days the fight between McCormack and Peabody has taken on overtones of real bitterness.

At the outset of his campaign, following the Democratic convention McCormack obviously was determined to ignore Peabody and concentrate solely on his own qualifications. He followed that course for several weeks.

A few days ago, however, he changed his tactics. Clearly angered by the repeated assertions by Peabody that he (McCormack) could not defeat Herter in November, McCormack lashed back in a counter-attack.

He declared that Peabody has conducted only one primary and one election campaign for the Executive Council, that Peabody made a mediocre showing in his one primary run and that when Christian A. Herter, Jr., announced his candidacy for the Governor's Council in the district Peabody was representing, Peabody "abdicated" his seat and did not run for reelection.

The verbal interchange between McCormack and Peabody, while giving a definite tone of bitterness to their fight, also has served to focus additional attention on it.

Middlesex County Is Scene Of Hot Primary Campaigning

Several interesting primary contests now being waged across Middlesex County will be settled by the voters in the privacy of their polling places next Tuesday.

District Attorney James L. O'Dea, Jr., of Lowell is being challenged by former Assistant Attorney General Andrew T. Trodden of Cambridge in what looms as the top county fight.

Trodden, a former lieutenant on the State police and a former member of Attorney General Fingold's staff, has the support of some of the candidates who were defeated by O'Dea two years ago.

O'Dea, however, appears to have solidified his position during the nearly two years he has served as District Attorney and is generally expected to beat back the drive by Trodden and gain reelection.

Register of Probate John V. Harvey of Belmont, who is standing for Democratic nomination for the office to which he was appointed by Governor Furcolo, has an even dozen opponents in the field against him, the strongest of whom appears to be former Democratic State Committeeman John B. Carr of Somerville.

The big field, the fact that the vote will be widely split and that Harvey has five adversaries from Cambridge and five from Somerville, all serve to make his campaign task an easier one.

County Commissioner Thomas B. Brennan of Medford, standing for Democratic renomination, is in much the same position with 12 candidates running against him.

One of the strange aspects to the present primary campaign is that the contest for the GOP nomination for District Attorney in Middlesex County, once a stronghold of Republicanism, has aroused only scant public interest. The rival contenders are William G. Andrew and James F. Mahan, both of Cambridge.

Three candidates bidding for one Republican nomination for County Commissioner are Jesse A. Rogers of Arlington, John F. Cahill of Belmont and Frederick Lowe of Lowell.

Two contenders for the GOP endorsement for Register of Probate and Insolvency of Middlesex County are Winston W. Bell of Cambridge and Warren J. Fitzgerald of Belmont.

O'Dea Outlines His Public Records As District Attorney

District Attorney James L. O'Dea, Jr., outlined his program of progressive achievement when he appeared as the guest of honor at a reception in his honor today at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Rand of 199 Temple street, West Newton.

O'Dea, campaigning for renomination and re-election to the post he won two years ago, cited among his accomplishments during that time:

Formation of a training school at the famed Judge Baker Clinic for police officers interested in handling and preventing juvenile problems—a program which has won national attention as the first of its kind.

Establishment of a panel of experts to make recommendations on certain juvenile cases reaching superior court, with a rigorous rehabilitative regimen set up by the panel to divert the youth from delinquency to constructive citizenship.

Launching an internship program for law school graduates, the first of its kind in a county prosecutor's office, whereby students learn prosecuting procedures first hand while receiving degree credit and providing the county with valuable unpaid assistance.

Slashing the backlog of cases when he assumed the office from hundreds to a handful; setting up two part-time offices in Framingham and Lowell to speed pre-trial procedures and cheap county costs in witness fees and travel expenses.

Cracking down on dope peddlers in the county; setting up a quick follow up prosecution of runaway parents saving the county and cities considerable welfare funds; accentuated drive on death drivers with a corresponding increase in convictions.

O'Dea, who was named the "Exemplary Catholic Graduate of 1957" by the Greater-Boston Graduates Club, and who was graduated from Notre Dame magna cum laude and from Harvard Law School, was introduced by Atty. George Cahill.

Gallagher, who has been active in numerous Democratic campaigns for the past two decades, strongly expressed the conviction that he is the Democratic candidate who can win election to the State Senate from this senatorial district in November.

In a letter sent to Democratic voters in Newton and other parts of the senatorial district, Gallagher stated:

Mrs. Furcolo Keeps Food Needs Simple for Teens

"Keep it simple," is Kay Furcolo's solution to summertime outdoor eating and to the problem of satisfying the young, healthy appetites of her three oldest boys and their teenage friends whom the boys entertain at record hops or barbecues at the Furcolo home at 9 The Ledges Road, Newton Centre.

She keeps a practical eye on the week's best buys in the market. Economically priced broilers, brushed with butter or oil, sprinkled with seasoned salt and pepper, and broiled slowly over hot coals, are served often.

A taste tempting substitute for the usual garden salad, when fruit is in season and inexpensive, is a frosty melon plate. This is made of chilled rings of cantaloupe or honeydew melon on a bed of crisp lettuce, with diced oranges, sliced bananas and green grapes, filling their centers. Kay serves a simple Hawaiian dressing, made by blending together equal parts of mayonnaise, light cream, and crushed pineapple, with it.

Cucumbers, Swedish style, are a popular item in the Furcolo household the whole year round. Kay scores the cukes (with the lines of a fork, of course, slices them paper thin, and marinates them in a mixture of equal parts of salted water and vinegar plus two tablespoons of sugar. They're a cool item when chilled in the refrigerator, drained and served ters of cheddar cheese slices, bologna, cold ham, crisp bacon, sliced tomatoes, and peanut butter.

Angel cake is the standby dessert at all times. Kay whips it up herself, or, if pressed for time, uses a packaged mix. Her strawberry icing for a 10-inch cake is special, easy to make, and has just the right consistency for angel cake. All it requires is two beaten egg yolks blended with two tablespoons of soft butter. Three cups of sifted confectioner's sugar and one third of a cup of crushed frozen strawberries are added alternately to this mixture. Kay cautions that a few additional berries may be needed to make a glaze that will run down the side of the cake.

Mark likes to preside as chef at his barbecue parties but it's Kay, behind the scenes, who prepares the fundamentals for her special shish kebab, Zippy hamburgers, and the sauce for the Fiery Franks.

The recipes follow:
SHISH KEBAB
Mix in bowl
3 lbs. lean lamb, cut in 1 1/2 inch cubes
2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 minced garlic clove
1 chopped onion
Add:
3/4 c. olive oil
1 cup tarragon or elder vinegar
Marinate and refrigerate overnight. When ready for use, drain and save sauce for basting. Prepare 1/2 pound mushroom caps, quarter 3 medium tomatoes and cut 2 green peppers into 1 inch squares. Arrange meat, mushroom caps, tomatoes and green peppers in that order on long skewers. Broil and baste several times.

FIERY FRANKS
Slash 6 frankfurts at 1 inch intervals and let stand 15 minutes in sauce made of 1 cup catsup
1 tbs. Worcestershire sauce
1 tbs. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. tobacco sauce (optional)
Grill franks, basting with sauce. Serve on toasted rolls with portion of 1 finely diced cucumber to cool the "Fiery Franks."

ZIPPY HAMBURGERS
Combine
1 pound ground beef
1 small chopped onion
2 tbs. chili sauce
1 tsp. horseradish (optional)
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Shape into four large patties and refrigerate. Broil in folding hand grill. Serve on buttered toasted rolls. Kay's favorite accompaniment to this item is chilled, sliced tomatoes, marinated in French dressing, and sprinkled with chopped scallions. When Boston baked beans, coconut layer cake, and iced tea are added, the spread is complete and completely satisfying.

New Teachers At Newton College

Mrs. Kimball studied at the University of Paris and at Smith and Radcliffe, where she is a doctoral candidate. Miss Jackson holds degrees in fine arts from Indiana University, and Miss Donlan, a former member of the Boston school system, holds the master's degree from Boston University.

Reynolds Stumps 3rd District In Councillor Fight

Attorney Harris A. Reynolds, Republican candidate for Governor's Councillor in the third councillor district, declared last night in an address in Framingham that the GOP stands at the crossroads.

Speaking before the Framingham Republican Town Committee, Reynolds told his audience that the future of the Republican party lies in youth and ability.

He said that his opponent, Rudolph F. King, made a good record but has passed the mandatory retirement age of 70 and is receiving a state pension.

"With the wisdom, advice and counsel of our seasoned Republican leaders, and with my own vigor and experience, I shall carry the fight in the District to retain the Councillor seat and to help assure Republican victory everywhere," Reynolds said.

Reynolds pointed out that, in campaigning throughout the Councillor District, he has received the endorsement of every town committee before which he has appeared.

Attorney Reynolds, age 44, is a former Assistant Attorney General, former Special Counsel to the Massachusetts Crime Commission. ## Do we have to make so many stops?

Naturally, I enjoy a ride in the fresh air whenever I get the chance. But, oh, how I dread those days when Mommy goes all over the place to pay bills. Just as we get rolling fine, we stop at the telephone office. We just get started again, when we stop at the gas company. Then, it's the electric company; the mortgage payment; the car payment. It just goes on and on. It makes me cranky, and Mommy gets edgy, too. That's because she gets so tired. If I could only talk out loud, I'd tell her about the convenience of a Newton-Waltham Bank checking account. She could pay all her bills by mail, and I'd get to ride around in comfort. That makes sense to me.

PROTECT OUR CHILDREN... drive carefully!

It Can Happen To You

It's September again.

Those schoolhouses you've been passing for weeks look alive now. They are. They're filled with kids. They're filled with youngsters who'll be tomorrow's doctors and scientists; clergymen and lawyers; bus drivers and telephone men; nurses and salesladies.

And if you happen to drive by at the right time those schoolyards which were barren and lonesome all summer will be filled with Young Americans. They'll be making a lot of noise—as they race about and laugh with wild abandon.

Some of them won't grow up to be big league ball players; intrepid explorers or just plain workaday folk. A precious few won't even be around when they're passing out the final marks next June.

We say precious few because they are precious.

They will be the boys or girls who'll meet sudden death or crippling injury on the highways in the months just ahead.

It's kind of a sobering thought, isn't it?

Yet, there'll hardly be a schoolhouse in the entire Greater Boston area next June which will be able to report—"Not a single one of our children was hurt in motor vehicle accident."

On the other hand there'll hardly be a city or town in that far-reaching area that will not have one or more automobile operators who'll be forced to go to bed every night of his or life with a haunting memory.

That memory will be—"My car struck a little school child."

Some of the accidents which will take those children out of classrooms forever, will be the fault of the children themselves.

Some of the accidents which will send some motorists to bed with the harrowing thoughts of a few brake-screaming moments for the rest of their lives—won't be responsible for the accidents.

However, the accidents will occur.

You can be as certain of that as you can be of the listings of the rising and setting of the sun on Page One of your daily newspaper.

Bitter experience and long years of keeping score by police and safety officials only serves to underscore their inevitability.

Yet—does it have to be your child?

Does it have to be you, the motorist?

Stop to think.

If you are a parent you can go a long way toward making certain that your child will be receiving his marks next June. You can do so by assisting the authorities in drilling into the child the absolute need for caution and obedience to the principles of safety on the modern highway.

The authorities are doing and will continue to do an excellent job. That includes the child's teacher; the police officers, both those assigned to safety education and those whose duties are general; the registry of motor vehicles.

They need your help, however.

This year 175,000 "tiny-tots" will be starting to school for the first time. Their teachers will not only be striving to inculcate into their minds the opening steps of what we call formal education. They'll be telling them about street crossings and lights and signals and the need to look both ways.

They'll need your help in helping those young minds to appreciate the terrible danger that lurks on today's streets.

And just as the older child will forget this lesson or that lesson of the classroom, they'll forget the risk that goes with darting into the street for an overthrown ball.

Even at the risk of over-emphasis, it's up to you to point out those dangers as often as necessary.

If you're the motorist you know all the so-called bromides about the need of safe driving today.

If you've driven any real length of time you've passed auto wrecks on the road. If you ever glance at a newspaper you know that no edition goes by without the report of a highway accident.

You've heard it all before.

Those whose cars will strike children will have heard it all before.

Yet, it would be a good idea to remember that right about this time of the year there are 1,000,000 children who'll be going to and from school in Massachusetts.

Some of them are going to be careless about crossing streets. Some will be darting out from behind parked cars. Some will seem to come from nowhere.

You can save yourself many a sleepless night in the future—if you realize that in the long run there's no such thing as too much safety on today's highways.

May You Never Have To Answer This Question!

Mulhern Reports 500 Prominent Democrats Back Him for Congress

Attorney Joseph J. Mulhern, Jr., announced today that 500 prominent Democrats had issued a two-page statement predicting that he "will easily win the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 10th congressional district."

The statement cited Mulhern's legal record as Assistant District Attorney of Suffolk County, his knowledge of tax problems and his understanding of the problems of the people of the 10th district as some of the reasons for the support given him.

The statement read in part: "Joseph J. Mulhern, Jr., has long had an outstanding record of public service. He is one of the few men in this country who has a graduate degree of master of laws in taxation. He has taken stands honestly and with conviction on the major issues likely to come up before Congress next Fall. He is one of the outstanding men to run for political office in the recent history of Massachusetts, and the only one of the three candidates who can unseat the present Republican incumbent in November."

"For these and other reasons," the statement continued, "we the undersigned predict that the voters of the 10th congressional district will nominate Joseph J. Mulhern for the Democratic nomination for Congress on Sept. 9. We further predict he will score a decisive victory in November over the Republican incumbent and give the 10th congressional district a Democratic vote in Congress."

Among those signing the victory statement were eight present members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives from the 10th congressional district. They were the following representatives: George Greene of Roxbury, Richard Caples of Allston, James H. Kelly of Roxbury, David J. O'Connor of Roxbury, Robert Q. Lane of Brighton, Edmund V. Lane of Brighton, Joseph M. O'Loughlin and Edmund J. Donlan, both of West Roxbury, and Leo Sontag of Roxbury.

Among the other signers were ex-Representative Louis Nathanson of Roxbury, former Assistant District Attorney Garrett H. Byrne, Jr., Edmund J. Giblin of Jamaica Plain, chairman of the Ward 12 Democratic Committee, Oswald Thomas, Mrs. H. C. Turner, William B. Akers, Jr., Manuel V. McKenney and Mrs. Helen Butler.

Mulhern also reported that he had received endorsements from 50 labor leaders in and around the 10th district. They included:

Lou Govoni, president, Local 277, Hotel and Restaurant Workers; John McNamara, president, Firemen and Oilers Union; John F. Haggerty, president, Laborers Union; George Donovan, president, Laundry Workers; Jim Moran, president, Iron Workers and Sgt.-at-Arms, Boston Central Labor Union; past president, Edward J. McDonald and shop steward John F. King, Local 1505, I.B.E.W.; Raytheon-Newton; John Donovan, president, Telephone Workers, and Jim Broeyer, vice-president, Mass. State Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO.

A group of "Roxbury Women for Mulhern" also openly endorsed Attorney Mulhern while announcing news of a mammoth tea and reception to be held in the candidate's honor at Fenway Manor, Tremont st. and Huntington ave., Sunday, at 3 p. m. These ladies include Mrs. Betty Roth, tea chairman; Helen Sullivan, coordinator of the reception; Abigail Brennan, Eileen Fitzgerald, Mrs. Rita Grant, Mrs. Charles Lindsay, Mrs. Rose Cummings, Mrs. Patricia MacDougall.

Among the 500 signers were 213 veterans, 56 people over retirement age, members from each of the seven Boston ward committees within the district, 257 members of fraternal organizations, and a total of 50 men presently holding public office, Mulhern stated.

Temple Emanuel Registrations Start on Sunday

Registrations for the coming season of the Temple Emanuel Religious School, in Newton, will take place on Sunday morning, September 7, from 9 o'clock until 12:30. This is for new students and for those transferring from one department to another.

Hebrew school classes will open on Monday and Tuesday, September 8 and 9, depending upon when a student's class is scheduled. Hebrew high school classes open on Thursday, September 11 at 7 p.m. Sunday school classes open on October 12th.

A dual curriculum is featured at Temple Emanuel religious school. It is designed to allow for students' individual needs. Students following the intensive curriculum prepared by the Bureau of Jewish Education in conjunction with the Hebrew Teachers and Principals Association, are eligible upon graduation, to take the entrance examination for the Prozdor of the Hebrew Teachers College. Graduates of the three-day-a-week department are eligible to continue their studies in the Temple Emanuel Hebrew high school.

McLaughlin Says Experience Vital Requisite for Congress Candidate

City Councillor Edward F. McLaughlin, Jr., of Jamaica Plain today asked the Democratic voters of the 10th Congressional District whether they would select a candidate, who has never been tested in any elective office, to serve in the great law-making body of their national government.

McLaughlin declared that is the basic issue involved in the contest for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 10th district.

"In these times, when great responsibilities fall upon the members of the United States Congress, experience in government should be the first fundamental requisite for a congressional candidate, McLaughlin asserted.

Councillor McLaughlin emphasized that he was not reflecting upon the character of either of his two opponents for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

"But the fact is," he added, "that neither of my opponents has ever held elective office; nor, in fact, has either of them ever previously run for public office or served what could be construed in any sense as a political apprenticeship.

"Before a man is appointed to a position of great trust and responsibility in business or professional life he is expected to prove himself in a lesser position," McLaughlin stated. "That rule certainly should apply to the United States Congress."

In one of his closing statements of the primary campaign, as he submitted his candidacy to the Democratic voters of the 10th congressional district, McLaughlin urged them to study the records of all three candidates and then answer two questions:

1. Which of the three Democratic candidates is best qualified to serve the people of the 10th Massachusetts district in the Congress of the United States?

2. Which of the three candidates would have the best chance of winning election next November?

McLaughlin pointed out that all three candidates are lawyers, that all three have held appointive positions but that he alone of the three has served in an elective office in government.

For the past five years," McLaughlin said, "I have served as a City Councillor in Boston's municipal government.

"I believe that I have demonstrated my ability, my integrity, my sincerity of purpose and my capacity for public service," he stated. "I hope I have shown that I am deserving of promotion to a higher office in our Congress."

"In 1953 the people of Boston elected me as one of their Councillors," he continued. "In 1955 they reelected me, and in 1957 they reelected me again on the basis of the record I had made.

"Each time I have run I have received a higher percentage of the vote than I did in the previous election," McLaughlin declared. "As to my vote-getting ability I am happy to report that in the seven Boston wards my average vote has been in the top three of the Council candidates."

McLaughlin said he sincerely believes that he can be elected to Congress in November if he is given his party's nomination in next Tuesday's primary.

"I do not believe that in these times," he asserted, "a candidate who has never held elective office and who has no public record on which to be judged can be elected to Congress."

"On that basis," Councillor McLaughlin said, "I most respectfully submit my candidacy for Congress and my record of public service to the Democratic voters of the 10th congressional district and ask their consideration when they go to their polling places on Tuesday next."

Councillor McLaughlin is married and the father of five children.

He was educated at Boston Latin School, Dartmouth College, the Tufts School of Business Administration at Dartmouth and at Northeastern University Law School.

In private life he is an attorney. Before his election to the City Council he served as Assistant United States Attorney and participated in the prosecution of a number of major cases.

A naval veteran of World War II, he served in the South Pacific in the famous P.T. boat squadron in which Senator John F. Kennedy was a member. It was there under the Japanese guns that the close friendship began which still exists between Kennedy and McLaughlin, and Councillor McLaughlin has taken a prominent part in all of Senator Kennedy's campaigns.

when you're looking for the RIGHT INSURANCE

How can you find just the right fire, automobile or liability insurance—the policy that provides exactly the amount of protection you and your family need, at the most reasonable rates? Obviously you don't want to search through the maze of insurance policies offered by all the hundreds of insurance companies in the United States. On the other hand, you don't want a high-pressure salesman to try to convince you that his company's particular policy is the only one you should consider. The answer is: Choose an impartial, local insurance agent. He is an experienced specialist, qualified to study your needs and tell you which policy of which insurance company suits you to a "T". Whenever you are thinking about insurance, select your nearby agent who displays this seal.

Primary Fights-

gold is expected to result in a bigger Republican turnout in Newton than otherwise would have been the case.

Two contests will be settled for places on the Democratic State ticket, one for the party's nomination for Attorney General and the other for the endorsement for State Treasurer.

Only one House contest will be decided by Newton voters in the privacy of their polling places. That is in the fifth Middlesex district where James R. Goldman of 49 Chinlan path, Harold Rosenwald of 14 Greenwood street and Robert Shaw of 64 Great Meadow road, all of Newton, are vying for two Democratic nominations for the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Dennis Desmond

Dennis Desmond, 56 River street, West Newton, died at the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital, Brighton, after a lengthy illness. He was 75.

Born in County Cork, Ireland, he had been a resident of West Newton for more than half a century. Prior to his retirement in 1948 he was in the employ of the B. S. Hatch Coal Co., West Newton.

He was the husband of the late Catherine (Hayes) Desmond.

He leaves two sons, State Police Sergeant Daniel J. Desmond of West Roxbury; Edward D. Desmond of West Newton, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary L. Rose of Waltham. A sister, Miss Mary Desmond of West Newton, also survives.

A Requiem Funeral Mass was sung at St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, Interment was at St. Patrick's Cemetery, Stone-

Boston City Councilor Edward J. McCormack, Jr., and former Governor's Councilor Endicott Peabody of Cambridge are the Democratic adversaries for the right to run as their party's nominee for Attorney General.

Opponents in the Democratic State Treasurer fight are Treasurer John F. Kennedy of Canton and Mayor William G. Shaughnessy of Woburn.

Only one House contest will be decided by Newton voters in the privacy of their polling places. That is in the fifth Middlesex district where James R. Goldman of 49 Chinlan path, Harold Rosenwald of 14 Greenwood street and Robert Shaw of 64 Great Meadow road, all of Newton, are vying for two Democratic nominations for the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Former Alderman Alfred R. Guzzi of 9 Joseph road and Francis M. Morris of 10 Harding street, both of Newton, are unopposed for the two Democratic nominations for the House in the fourth Middlesex district.

All four Newton members of the House of Representatives — George E. Rawson of 22 Marlboro street and John W. Whittemore of 43 Otis street in the fourth Middlesex district and Representatives Arthur G. Heaney of 390 Dedham street and Irene K. Thresher of 667 Chestnut street in the fifth Middlesex district — are unopposed for Republican renomination.

A brisk four-way fight for the Democratic endorsement for the State Senate in the Middlesex-Suffolk district, which takes in Newton, will be settled by the voters Tuesday. Three of the contenders are from Newton and one from Brighton.

They are Robert W. Gallagher of 39 Tennyson road, Roland A. Barrette of 285 Franklin street and Lawrence C. Sullivan of 11 Bowers street, all of Newton; and John F. Mella of 27 Fanelli street, Brighton.

GOP Senator Donald L. Gibbs of 37 Claremont street, Newton, is unopposed for Republican renomination and in November will meet the winner of the four-cornered Democratic contest.

Republican Congressman Laurence Curtis, whose district takes in Newton, is unopposed in the GOP primary and assured of renomination.

Three Democratic candidates are engaged in a lively battle for the right to challenge Curtis in November. They are Boston City Councilor Edward F. McLaughlin, Jr., of Jamaica Plain; Attorney Joseph J. Mulhern, Jr., of Jamaica Plain, son of the well known Boston Democratic figure; and Attorney John L. Saltonstall, Jr., of Brookline.

Newton Republicans have split over the fight between Attorney Harris A. Reynolds of Wellesley and former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King for the Republican nomination for the Governor's Council in the third councillor district where Christian A. Herter, Jr., is relinquishing his seat to stand for higher office.

Alderman Joseph G. Bradley of 9 Church road, Newton, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Executive Council in the same councillor district. Three other candidates in the field with him are Kenneth J. Brophy of Waltham, Edward J. Cronin of Watertown and Frederick M. Donovan of Brighton.

Middlesex County District Attorney James I. O'Dea, Jr., of Lowell is being challenged in the Democratic primary by former Assistant Attorney General Andrew T. Trodden of Cambridge.

Local Residents Organize To Save Home of Hymn "America" Author

A once proud dwelling, now unkempt, slowly falling into complete disrepair and surrounded by weeds and a rash of wild grass and trees, presents a sad picture of neglect at 1181 Centre street, Newton Centre.

To the uninformed passerby, it is a ruin, and eye-sore and a long-overdue target for a building wrecker. But the old structure holds a patriotic secret for it was, for many years the home of Dr. Samuel Francis Smith, a Newton clergyman and author of the immortal "America", one of the most famous of our national hymns.

Aroused local citizens have organized in a city-wide move to save the 100-year-old building and restore it as a national shrine. They will meet next Thursday at Playground House, Tyler Terrace, Newton Centre, to plan the campaign.

If sufficient support is forthcoming, the house will be purchased and converted into a—RESIDENTS RALLY—

DESTINED TO BE SHRINE—This shabby, unkempt ruin once was the home of Dr. Samuel Francis Smith, the author of "America" one of our national, patriotic hymns. Located at 1181 Centre street, Newton Centre, a move is underway to save it and preserve it as a shrine.

Four Hurt In 2 Accidents

Two automobile accidents left four persons injured in Newton early this week, according to reports received by the police traffic division.

Philip R. Molloy, 38 Preston road, Somerville, was injured when his car was struck in the rear by an auto operated by Samuel J. Costa, 24 Hobbs road, Wellesley.

A collision of two cars at Prince and Chestnut streets in West Newton injured three persons. Mrs. Esta R. Cimmo, 41, of 200 Mill street, Newtonville, driver of one of the cars, complained of a back injury and her daughter, Muriel, 6, was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital for a checkup.

The driver of the other car, John P. Fenno, 29, of 63 Auburn street, Auburndale, driver of the other car, complained of a neck injury.

New Police Assignments Are Announced by Chief Purcell

Letter Carrier Is Bitten Twice

Frederick L. Sweeney, Jr., a letter carrier in the Auburndale section, is probably being converted into an ardent supporter of the move for a leash law for Newton's dogs. Sweeney was bitten twice while delivering mail on his route, once on Islington road and a second time on Freeman street. Officials at the Auburndale postal station recorded a formal complaint with police concerning the nipping canines.

Police Chief Philip Purcell put into effect this week a new assignment schedule affecting a score of police department members.

The assignments fixed the working schedules of a new captain, three recently named lieutenants, five new sergeants and several patrolmen.

Captain William J. Blake, recently appointed to succeed retiring Captain Daniel E. Crowley, will assume the latter's duties in the inspector's division. Also assigned to the inspectors' division are Sergeant Walter D. Drew and Patrolman Thomas N. Dargan.

Lieutenant James W. Corcoran, in charge of the night platoon for several years, has been assigned to the traffic division.

Longer School Day At Three Junior Highs

Three of Newton's five junior high schools have embarked on programs built around a longer school day. As of Monday, pupils at Day, Meadowbrook and Weeks began a seven-period schedule about one hour longer than the previous school day.

Classes run from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Day; from 8:50 to 3 p.m. at Meadowbrook, and from 8:50 to 3:05 p.m. at Weeks. The city's other two junior highs are continuing to operate on the same schedule as last year. Bigelow hours are from 8:45 to 2:50 p.m. and Warren runs from 8:30 to 2:30 p.m.

The added hours will enable the schools to conduct an enrichment program and to carry on an improved academic schedule with an emphasis on tutorial and remedial work where indicated.

Traffic Barred Near High School During Classes

The Board of Aldermen have voted to close traffic on Elm road, between Walnut street and Kimball terrace, Newtonville, for an extra hour during those days when Newton High School is in session.

The street will be closed to all vehicles, except school buses, from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on school days under the newly amended ordinances.

Bradley, Gallagher Defeated; King, Saltonstall, O'Dea Win Endorsement

GOV. FOSTER FURCOLO

CHRISTIAN A. HERTER, JR.

Governor's Councillor Christian A. Herter, Jr., of Newton, Republican nominee for Attorney General, proved the top vote-getter on the Garden City's returns in Tuesday's primary.

Another Newton resident, Governor Foster Furcolo, made an extremely strong showing in the city where he now resides, rolling up an even bigger complimentary vote here than did U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy.

The resounding plurality Newton gave Attorney John L. Saltonstall, Jr., in the three-way race for the Democratic congressional nomination enabled Saltonstall to sweep home a winner and gain the right to oppose Congressman Laurence Curtis in November.

Curtis, incidentally, was second only to Herter as a vote-puller in Newton.

Two of Newton's candidates in Tuesday's primary made powerful runs in their home city but faltered in other sectors in their bids for Democratic nominations for the Governor's Council and the State Senate.

Aldermen Joseph G. Bradley of Newton, seeking the Democratic endorsement for the Executive Council, piled up a tremendous plurality in the Garden City.

Bradley rolled up 3237 votes in Newton to 578 for Edward J. Cronin of Watertown, 225 for Frederick M. Donovan of Brighton and 206 for Kenneth J. Brophy of Waltham.

The lead Bradley achieved in his own city, however, was not sufficient cushion to withstand his losses elsewhere in the big district, which covers about an 8th of the entire State.

Cronin, obviously profiting from the fact that his name is the same as that of the present Secretary of State, came out of that contest the winner.

Robert W. Gallagher of Newton made a strong bid for the

43 Breaks Solved With Arrest Of Three Boys

A total of 43 burglaries in Newton homes, stores, schools and libraries were written off the books with the arrest of three boys, the oldest 16, police said Tuesday. The trio, aged 14, 15 and 16, were turned over to their parents pending a hearing in the juvenile session of the Newton District Court on September 16.

A stolen watch was the tip that led the police to the suspects.

Sgt. John J. Regan and Inspector Francis W. Turner questioned the youngest boy in connection with a recent burglary in Newton Centre, but the youth denied any connection with the case until police found a watch in his pocket which was taken from the home of Hildgard Hanson, 17 Paul street, Newton Centre, last February.

The other two boys were picked up at their homes and the 15-year-old reportedly admitted to 40 burglaries, while the 16-year-old is alleged to have admitted eight breaks and the original suspect acknowledged taking part in five burglaries, according to police.

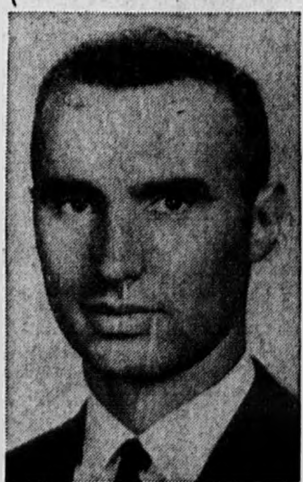

Several other boys are also reported to have been involved in some of the breaks.

A total of $1000, mostly in small sums of money, made up the loot collected by the youngsters in their brief but active foray into burglary. The

Escapes Injury

A 17-year-old Newton driver escaped injury early Monday morning when his car left Route 128, careened up an embankment, and plowed into the Kendrick street bridge. The car was demolished. Police, who said the accident happened at 1:10 a.m., identified the driver as George R. Vachon of 37 Jasset street, Newton.

Appoint Top Level School Officials

Two major appointments were announced today by the Newton School Department, as Eric N. Dennard, formerly of Waco, Texas, settled into his new role as the city's Superintendent of Schools.

Appointed assistant to Dennard to handle some of the myriad duties that fall upon the school superintendent in a city the size of Newton was Dr. Charles E. Brown, who will also serve as secretary to the Newton School Committee.

At the same time it was announced that Raymond F. Cook has been named administrative assistant in the Newton school department and will share with Dr. Brown some of the responsibilities formerly shouldered by Dr. Charles O. Richter. A former principal of the Emerson and Hamilton Schools, Cook will be in charge of elementary personnel.

Brown, a former math and science teacher at Day Junior High School, has been administrative assistant in the department's administrative offices since February, 1957.

A native of Wallingford, Conn., Brown graduated from the public schools there before coming to Massachusetts to attend Springfield College. He was graduated with a B.S. de-

Former Boston Post Political Editor

Primary Produces Surprises Furcolo, Gibbons Both Strong

Tuesday's primary produced more than its share of surprises, as the balloting in many instances followed unexpected and even startling patterns.

Former Speaker Charles Gibbons made a tremendous showing in winning the Republican nomination for Governor on stickers, if one considers the number of stickers that must have been passed in the wrong places or were not marked with pencil crosses and consequently could not be counted.

But Governor Foster Furcolo demonstrated that he has lost little of his vote-pulling ability as he piled up a big complimentary vote which showed practically no evidence of any dissatisfaction on the part of Democratic voters with the manner in which he has run the State government.

Boston City Councillor Edward J. McCormack, Jr., won the Democratic nomination from former Governor's Councillor Endicott (Chub) Peabody after an unexpectedly bitter struggle.

Now McCormack, nephew of Congressional Majority Leader John W. McCormack faces an election battle with the man who looms as perhaps the strongest vote-getter on the Republican State ticket, Governor's Councillor Christian A. Herter, Jr., of Newton.

Herter's feat in leading the GOP slate in many sections of the Commonwealth, despite his position on the ballot, was an impressive one, indeed.

The victory scored by the amazing State Treasurer John F. Kennedy in achieving renomination was surprising only in the width of the margin by which Kennedy beat back the challenge of Mayor William G. Shaughnessy of Woburn.

Political experts learned the hard way the folly of under-estimating Treasurer Kennedy and this time anticipated another triumph for him.

Kennedy won decisively over Shaughnessy, notwithstanding the fact that he boycotted the Democratic pre-primary State convention, spent less than $100 on Democratic endorsement for the State Senate in the Middlesex-Suffolk district.

But the fact that two other Newton candidates were in the field and cutting up the Garden City vote proved too much of a handicap for Gallagher to overcome, and he was defeated.

by John F. Mella of Brighton. Gallagher polled more votes in Newton than his two closest opponents combined. However, that wasn't enough to match Mella's big plurality in Brighton.

The Newton totals in that race were 1978 for Gallagher, 999 for Lawrence C. Sullivan, also of Newton, 783 for Mella and 633 for Roland A. Barrette of Newton.

Newton Republicans sent Attorney Harris A. Reynolds of Wellesley out of this city with a substantial lead over former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King of Mill's in their contest for the GOP nomination for the Governor's Council in the third councillor district.

Elsewhere in the district, however, King forged ahead to top Reynolds for the endorsement. Important factors in that fight were that King's name is extremely well known to the voters and that Harris does not live in the district in which he was standing for endorsement.

District Attorney James L. O'Dea, Jr., carried Newton better than 3-1 over former Assistant Attorney General Andrew T. Trodden of Cambridge and he won Democratic renomination. The totals were 3770 for O'Dea and 1007 for Trodden.

In Newton's only House contest Harold Rosenwald of 14 Greenwood street and Robert Shaw of 64 Great Meadow road won the two Democratic nominations for State Representative in the fifth Middlesex district. Shaw won by a scant 37 votes over James R. Goldman of 49 Chinian path. The totals in that contest were 1311 for Rosenwald, 1071 for Shaw and 1034 for Goldman.

Former Alderman Alfred R. Guzzi made a good showing on the Democratic side in the fourth Middlesex district as he and Francis R. Morris of 10 Harding street were nominated as the two candidates to oppose Republican Representatives George E. Rawson and John F. Whittemore in November.

Register of Probate John V. Harvey polled more votes in Newton than did his 12 opponents together as he swept to an easy victory in his run for the Democratic endorsement for the office he now holds.

County Commissioner Thomas B. Bennan of Medford, standing for Democratic nomination, also received a good vote here, running far ahead of the nearest of his 12 adversaries.

Ex-Mayor Edward J. Sullivan of Cambridge was the high vote-getter in Newton in the nine-candidate race for the Democratic nomination for clerk of courts.

The Democratic vote for Register of Deeds was widely split among the 13 aspirants, with Edmund C. Buckley of Cambridge, who had first place on the ballot, going out of Newton with a small lead.

The sticker drive for Gibbons was extremely well organized in Newton. The work that was done by the Republican organization in the city was reflected by the fact that Gibbons received 8198 votes here, more than did Vincent Celeste, the GOP candidate for U. S. Senator, whose name appeared in first place on the Republican ballot.

Even though Attorney General Fingold was dead, 260 Newton residents cast their votes for him as a complimentary gesture.

Local Science Teacher Given National Honors

Millard Harmon, tall personable, Newton junior high science teacher, is one of four "Unusual Methodists" lauded in the October issue of "Together", the Methodist national magazine.

Mr. Harmon was one of America's Ten Outstanding Young Men in 1956. He is the author of scores of articles and has lectured in universities in the United States and in Europe.

When he and his wife, the former Ruth G. Aanes, of La-Cross, Wis., were in Germany they became friends of the principal of the school in Peckelsheim. Upon their return to this country, they learned that the school had been closed because the building was unsafe.

The Harmons formed a non-profit organization to raise funds to help build the much-needed school. Their venture was highly successful and the school was dedicated July 9, 1957.

For his work in promoting American educational systems abroad, Harmon was cited by President Eisenhower.

He served with the Air Force in World War II and was an Air Force Reserve officer when he terminated his service associations in 1953.

The Harmons have four children, Roger Dean, five-and-a-half; Mary Alice, three-and-a-half; Ann Louise, one-and-a-half; and the most recent arrival, little Kirk Thomas, born only August 20.

Harmon has been, as he puts whose friends made an 11th hour bid to take the gubernatorial endorsement from Gibbons, drew only 120 votes in Newton while Assistant Attorney General Joseph P. McKay received a scant 11 votes.

State Senator Donald L. Gibbs, standing for renomination, polled a fine complimentary vote, rolling up a bigger total than any member of the Republican State ticket except Herter.

Representative Irene K. Thresher was the high vote-getter among the four Republican legislators now representing Newton. All four were unopposed, and in all instances their vote totals were strictly of a complimentary nature.

In the fifth Middlesex district Mrs. Thresher received 3739 votes, while Representative Arthur G. Heaney drew 3671.

The GOP totals in the fourth Middlesex district were 3058 for Representative John W. Whittemore and 2885 for Representative George E. Rawson.

William G. Andrew topped James F. Mahan in Newton in their contest for the Republican nomination for District Attorney. The vote was 3563 for Andrew and 3247 for Mahan.

Register of Deeds William B. Bailey, seeking Republican renomination, defeated George L. Leavitt, Jr., by a wide margin in Newton.

Fitzpatrick Will Enter Notre Dame

Jim Fitzpatrick, outstanding all around athlete at Sacred Heart High School, will enroll as a freshman at Notre Dame University in South Bend, Indiana, on a half-scholarship.

Jake Kline, baseball coach at Notre Dame, telephoned Fitzpatrick to tell him that a scholarship had opened up there as a result of the action of a senior in leaving college to play professional baseball.

Fitzpatrick, who stars at both baseball and basketball, has received two other awards to assist him in obtaining a college education. One is from the William C. Cullen Memorial Fund which provides an annual stipend. The Elks also gave him $500.

Yellow Rose and Texas Music Greet School Superintendent

A yellow rose at his luncheon plate and a rousing rendition of "Deep In The Heart Of Texas" by the entire public school faculty served notice to Newton's new Superintendent of Schools Eric N. Dennard this week that he was royally welcome to the Garden City.

At a luncheon at Meadowbrook Junior High at which the city's 170 new teachers were the guests of the Newton Teachers Federation and the School Department, the storied yellow rose of Texas decorated the ex-Texan's place.

And at a general faculty meeting attended by over 800 teachers, James V. Remley directed one and all in a spirited vocalization of the famous "Heart of Texas" song.

At the luncheon, new teachers from points as far west as California, north to Alaska, and south to Puerto Rico, were in turn welcomed by Dennard and by President Harold Hawkes of the Newton Teachers' Federation.

Part of an orientation program for new teachers, the luncheon was arranged by Mrs. Dorothy Huss of the high school faculty, assisted by Miss Ephrosyne Georgas, chairman of the Federation's social committee; S. Everett Pollard; Mrs. Diane S. Walt; Miss Rose Pillsbrosian; Mrs. June B. Zervas; Miss Evelyn R. Ham; Miss Rachel A. Johnson; Miss Jane Conrick; Miss Carolyn Huss and Mrs. Sadie M. Perkins, executive secretary of the Federation.

At the general faculty meeting, Dennard was introduced to the Newton teachers by Haskell

Freeman, chairman of the Newton School Committee. Also honored and formally introduced were Miss Ruth Chadwick, new principal at Hamilton School; Joseph A. Gattuso, who has been named acting principal at Emerson School; and Donald Welch, new principal of Claflin School and former superintendent of schools at Plymouth, Mass.

Lay That Pistol Down, Warns PD

A Newton National Guard officer was warned Sunday by Needham police after residents near the Newton waterlands complained that gunfire was shattering the calm in the neighborhood.

Investigating officers discovered the "weekend warriors" conducting full scale maneuvers, blissfully unaware that Needham is not the type of community where guns are fired indiscriminately or, more important, without the knowledge of police.

The officer in charge told police that he had informed the Newton Police Department of the impending mock battle, and said that in the future the Needham police would also be told of any planned National Guard activities involving the use of firearms.

Road Tragedy Claims Life of Newton Girl

Miss Susan Wasson, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Wasson, 162 Hunnewell avenue, Newton, died at North Conway, (N.H.) Memorial Hospital of injuries suffered in a tragic highway accident at Lovell, Me.

Funeral services were held at the Elliot Church, Newton, with the Rev. Ray E. Eusden, minister, officiating. Interment was at Newton Cemetery.

The girl, who had planned to enter Lasell Juniors College this month, succumbed to multiple injuries three days after the Lovell accident.

With Miss Marion Genaske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Genaske, 32 Hyde street, Newton Centre, she was driving toward Fryeburg, Me., when the two girls thought their car had struck a dog on the village highway.

Miss Genaske was driving. Miss Wasson got out to investigate. As she stood at the rear of the parked car a machine operated, according to police, by Norman Watson came over the crest of a hill and crashed into the girls' car.

The two machines were plunged ahead by the impact. Miss Wasson was dragged along in the wreckage. One of her legs was amputated.

Her death marked the 115th motor fatality on Maine roads this year.

Miss Genaske suffered shock and a shaking up. Mrs. Norman Watson, riding in the front seat with her husband, suffered facial injuries and was hospitalized.

Miss Wasson graduated from the Cambridge Academy in June.

She is survived by her parents and two sisters, Brenda, 19, and Judith, 22, and a grandfather, Robert A. Wasson of Bartlett, N. H. Her uncle, Frank Wasson, is a former sector director of the State Civil defense Agency.

Colorful Program for 150th Anniversary of Theological Seminary

The Andover Newton Theological School will climax its 150th anniversary celebration next Thursday on its 40-acre hilltop campus at Newton Centre.

It is the oldest Congregational and one of the oldest Baptist seminaries in America.

Featured as the main speakers will be Norman Cousins, of New York, editor of the Saturday Review, and Rev. Dr. Edwin Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches.

Others participating in the exercises will be Governor Foster Furcolo, United States Senator Leverett Saltonstall, Rev. Dr. Herbert Gezork, president of the school; the Rev. Dr. Roy Pearson, school dean; and Dr. Claude Fuess, formerly headmaster of Phillips Academy and chairman of the schools' anniversary celebration.

Representatives of 128 colleges, universities and seminaries will take part in a colorful procession during the afternoon, preceding the special outdoor program.

The anniversary exercises will be held on the school's quadrangle under a canopy. One of the features of the event will be the singing of "America" which was written by an alumnus of the school's Class of 1834, the Rev. Samuel F. Smith. He wrote the inspired hymn while a student at the Andover Theological Seminary in 1832.

Longer Day.

At Day and Meadowbrook, the program is being carried out as a part of SUPRAD in conjunction with Harvard and the Ford Foundation.

Prior to this year, classes at three of the city's junior high schools ran from 9 a.m. to 2:15 p.m.

Under the new arrangement at Weeks, for example, the day will be divided into 60-minute classes, with some 30-minute subdivisions, rather than 45-minute segments as formerly. This results in a six-period day replacing the seven-period day, but in no subject has the total number of weekly minutes been lessened and in many there have been increases.

It is felt that the change places the junior highs more in keeping with high school practice and makes scheduling of pupils and teacher time more efficient.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays at Weeks, during the last period of the day, each pupil will be assigned according to his needs or interests, to small groups engaged in remedial reading, grammar, tutorial math, advanced math, science lab, advanced music, creative writing, advanced literature, foreign language, etc.

The remaining three days of the week the sixth period will be more flexible to allow pupils to meet, either through voluntary or requested action, with their own individual subject-matter teachers for work in those courses, or for supervised study.

The overall plan is intended to provide a more selectively intensive academic program for each individual, beyond that possible in the regularly scheduled day.

- Political Highlights -

his campaign—that was for beer and sandwiches for the volunteers who assisted in getting his nomination signatures—and did no campaigning after filing his nomination papers last July.

Treasurer Kennedy is a political phenomenon who happens along once in a generation. This is the last time he can run for State Treasurer, if he is reelected in November, but Democratic leaders would be deluding themselves if they were to minimize his chances of attaining nomination for higher office two years hence.

With the exception of U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy who certainly will generate strength to the Democratic campaign, Democratic voters have nominated exactly the same State ticket which carried their party's standard into the election battle two years ago.

It is a strong, fairly well balanced slate. Every member on it except McCormack has won a State-wide election in the past, and McCormack has been the victor in two strenuously contested primary races.

The Republican campaign obviously will be built around Gibbons and Herter who came out of Tuesday's test with banners flying.

Political seers will be pondering over Tuesday's primary returns for some days to come, grasping for straws in the wind which may serve to indicate what may be expected next November.

One huge straw in a political wind of gale proportions came when Maine's election Monday showed that a Democratic tide is running, and it presumably is nationwide.

It wasn't so much that Governor Edmund Muskie was elected to the U. S. Senate from the Pine Tree State. Rather it was the gains the Democrats registered in Maine, including the election of a member of their party to succeed Muskie.

One of the surprises of the Democratic voting in the Massachusetts primary was that Governor Furcolo ran ahead of U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy in many cities and towns.

Kennedy is regarded as the present-day champion vote-getter in the Bay State, and there is a good likelihood that he will prove it on Nov. 4. He also, of course, is considered the leading Democratic Presidential prospect for 1960. He had the first spot on the Democratic ballot. But in many sections Furcolo polled a bigger vote than Kennedy did.

In carrying Gibbons to a sweeping victory to take the place of the late Attorney General George F. Ingold as the Republican candidate for Governor, the GOP machine gave a convincing demonstration of what it can do once it swings into action. Gibbons' showing is all the more impressive in view of the fact that his sticker campaign was organized in the space of less than a week.

Except for Herter, and possibly even including Herter, the other members of the GOP State ticket polled just about the complimentary vote it was expected they would.

Herter has what is known as a magic political name. In addition, he is an extremely attractive and personable candidate in his own right. There is no doubt but that he will be a formidable contender in the November election.

The fight between Herter and McCormack will be one of the highlights of the coming weeks, overshadowed only by the battle between Furcolo and Gibbons.

Peabody made a stronger run against McCormack than was generally anticipated. Peabody, as reported in this space, was a very potent candidate and has the backing of an organization of energetic and devoted supporters. McCormack had to be strong to defeat him.

Along down the line in the contests below the level of the State ticket there were also some startling upsets.

One of them came in the 10th congressional district where Attorney John L. Saltonstall, Jr., of Brookline squeezed through to win a tight race over Attorney Joseph J. Mulhern, Jr., and Boston City Councillor Edward F. McLaughlin, Jr., for the Democratic nomination and the right to run against Congressman Laurence Curtis in November.

Either Mulhern or McLaughlin probably would have defeated Saltonstall in a two-man race. But Mulhern and McLaughlin cut deeply into each other's strength in the Boston end of the district, enabling Saltonstall to edge home a victor on the strength of his pluralities in Newton and Brookline.

An interesting fight for Congressman Richard B. Wigglesworth's seat is now shaping up in the 13th congressional district between Republican Representative William W. Jenness of Quincy and former Representative James A. Burke, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor in 1954.

The big Quincy vote enabled Jenness to defeat ex-Representative and former Attorney General Harold Putnam for the Republican nomination in the 13th district.

Burke showed balanced strength as he topped a field of eight opponents for the Democratic endorsement. If the Democratic trend is strong enough, Burke could make a real run for the Wigglesworth seat.

Among the surprises of Tuesday's voting must be counted the poor showing made by former State Public Works Commissioner John A. Volpe as his followers made an 11th hour attempt to wrest the GOP gubernatorial endorsement away from Gibbons.

Volpe's Attorney Challenged Legality of Bid By Gibbons

Former Public Works Commissioner John A. Volpe apparently made a much stronger behind-the-scenes fight for the right to run as the Republican candidate for Governor than is generally realized.

Research Volunteers Hold First Meeting of Season

The Newton Branch for Cystic Fibrosis Research began its 1958-59 season with a board meeting on September 10 at the home of Mrs. Mervin Gray, 102 McCarthy road, Newton Centre.

Mrs. Milton Gray, president, announced that this is the first of many functions planned for the coming year. Membership chairman Mrs. Myron Atlas promised an active all-out membership campaign to interest more women of the community in the problems of Cystic Fibrosis.

The organization believes that public education and medical research are greatly needed in the fight against this incurable disease which hampers the respiratory and digestive systems of more than 7000 newborn children every year.

To launch the Newton Branch for Cystic Fibrosis Research for this season, a membership tea will be held at Meadowbrook Junior High School in Newton on Wednesday, October 1. A fashion show of glamorous fall clothes and accessories will be modeled by members of the group.

Mrs. Lewis Rossman, assisted by Mrs. Peter Powers, is in charge of the program. Betty Goodman, well known women's news reporter, will be the commentator. Chairmen of hospitality and refreshments are Mrs. Richard Englander and Mrs. Alan Edelstein; chairmen of decorations are Mrs. Harry Clayton and Mrs. Melvin Berger; chairman of the models are Mrs. Stephen Gordon and Mrs. Myron Atlas.

Attorney Joseph Tauro of Swampscott, who first raised the issue as to the legal right of Speaker Gibbons to seek the GOP gubernatorial endorsement, is Volpe's lawyer.

While there is no evidence that Tauro was acting in behalf of Volpe when he went to Republican headquarters to question the legality of making Gibbons the candidate for Governor, it is difficult to believe that he would have done so without Volpe's knowledge and consent in view of the close ties known to exist between the two.

Back in 1956, Volpe recommended to the then Governor Christian A. Herter that Attorney Tauro be made a judge. When Herter did not follow the recommendation and appointed someone else to a vacancy which existed at the time on the Superior Court bench, a decided coolness developed between Herter and Volpe.

GOP Lawmakers Are Included On Public Works Rental List

Quite a few Republican legislators may be embarrassed if there should be a thorough airing of the rental of equipment by the State public works department.

One of the things such an airing would reveal is that some GOP lawmakers, who have voted against just about every measure Governor Furcolo has sponsored in the past two years, have been instrumental in having various types of machines hired by the State.

If they were being rewarded for anything by the Furcolo administration, it would be pretty difficult to figure out what the reward was for.

One influential Republican legislator, who is affiliated with a company which rents equipment to both the State public works department and the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, has been unwavering in his opposition to practically everything Furcolo has proposed, although he has been much less vigorous in battling the matters in which Toll Road Chairman William F. Callahan is interested.

Some other GOP lawmakers also may have ties with companies which do business with the State, even though their names are not actually listed as officers of the firms involved.

What is more often the case, however, is that both Democratic and Republican legislators write or telephone to the public works department in behalf of some constituent who wants to rent a truck, a station wagon or some other type of machine to the department.

If the public works department happens to be in the market for that particular kind of vehicle, it is likely to be hired even though the legislator acting as sponsor for the owner is an arch-enemy of the administration in power at the time.

That has happened under the present State public works commissioner, Anthony J. DiNatale, and it has happened under his immediate predecessors, Republican as well as Democrats.

DiNatale is doing exactly the same thing that John A. Volpe, who came very close to being the substitute Republican candidate for Governor, did before him. DiNatale and Volpe both followed the same procedure. The only difference is that nobody ever made an issue of it before.

An examination of what records are available at the State House indicates that DiNatale is renting just about the same amount of equipment that Volpe did. If there is any increase, it does not seem to be of staggering proportions.

What many persons regard as wrong about the situation is the implication, at least, that equipment was hired at the request or recommendation of legislators in return for their votes on matters which Governor Furcolo desired passed.

If that is the fact, what is the explanation for doing the same thing for legislators who voted against everything Furcolo wanted?

And if it is a big favor to hire a truck, Commissioner DiNatale may wind up looking a little silly for doing such favors for lawmakers who have lined up consistently against his boss, Mr. Furcolo.

Some persons have been shocked by the disclosure that legislators and others rent station wagons to the State Public Works Department for $140 a week.

If it is shocking, it has been going on for a long time, but the owner of the station wagon doesn't reap quite the financial harvest that many newspaper readers seem to believe.

First of all, out of the $140 he has to pay the salary of the driver which amounts to about $80 a week unless, of course, he drives the vehicle himself.

Then he has to pay for the gasoline which probably comes to at least $10 a week. That leaves him $50 a week to cover the expense of insuring the vehicle, the depreciation and the profit.

If you owned a station wagon and someone offered you $50 a week for the use of it, would you jump at the proposition? The chances are you'd think it over pretty carefully if you didn't turn it down right on the spot.

That's how much the owner of the station wagon gets, aside from what he pays the driver and the cost of the gasoline to keep the vehicle running eight hours a day.

The $140 a week the Public Works Department pays for lawn mowers may seem a little more generous. But what that means is that the department pays $3.50 an hour to the men it hires to cut grass and the men supply their own lawn mowers and the gasoline and oil to fuel them.

If Commissioner DiNatale does get around to making public the names of persons from whom equipment has been hired or on whose recommendation it has been rented, you can be certain that the list will be well sprinkled with Republicans.

It is interesting to speculate on whether Governor Furcolo would be more embarrassed by the disclosure that the sponsors of equipment rented by the public works department have been legislators who were friendly to him or by the revelation that there also were legislators who were hostile to him.

Where You Save DOES Make a Difference

There are a lot of sensible people in America

by don herold

- Including, mainly, those who save over $20 billion

Sometimes you may think the human race has gone crazy in regard to money. You see people buying expensive luxuries for nothing down. You see nations spending billions for war. Are people crazy? Then you read that personal savings of Americans totalled over $20 billion last year. This sorta restores your faith in human nature. If there were that many people saving that much money, America is far from going to the dogs.

Americans now have a total of about $41.9 billion in associations like Watertown Federal.

Governor's Councillor Christian A. Herter, Jr., Republican candidate for Attorney General, today publicly expressed his thanks to Newton residents who took the time and trouble to cast complimentary votes for him in Tuesday's primary.

At the time, Councillor Herter promised to wage an aggressive and energetic campaign in the eight weeks between now and the Nov. 4 election.

"I am deeply grateful," Herter said, "to all the men and women who took the time to cast votes for me on Tuesday even though I had no opposition for the Republican nomination for Attorney General."

"In the time between now and the November election I intend to campaign in every section of Massachusetts and to do my utmost to bring about a victory for the entire Republican ticket," Herter declared.

Herter added that he was doubtful whether anything he would have to say about his opponent in the coming campaign "would be as devastating as the attacks leveled at him by his Democratic adversary in the recent primary."

Recently Elected Member Alfred Ferdinand Amendola of 14 Schofield drive, Newtonville, was recently elected to membership in the Boston Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Mr. Amendola is associated with the Genoa Packing Company, where he holds the position of office manager.

Isn't it amazing how quickly we fall back into routine... the early morning hustle and bustle... hi-schoolers lining the sidewalks, living with an enthusiasm that belongs exclusively to youth. Mrs. Abbott is back on duty, lovingly shepherding the students of the Rowen School across the busy streets, and it seems that summer is just about forgotten. There is a very special look to each youngster as they proudly assume the role of one grade higher. I just love watching them, like the group of teenagers that were looking over the "Ponytail" line of accessories at the B. S. Edward Store... There was Lois DiRusso, Kathy DelGrosso, Carol Prodopio, Angie Mastrianni and Sandra Sturiale all students at Warren Junior High. The "Ponytail" items are as cute and as fascinating as the girls who love them... including pretty pink plastic loose leaf covers, diaries, totebags, treasure boxes and autograph books... No wonder every girl wants the whole collection.

And speaking of young girls, I'll bet Miss Judy Baden from the Bigelow School was mighty happy when she learned that she was the lucky winner of the Parakeet and Cage at Newtonville's new pet shop... Debby's Pet Land... By the way, Judy, I picked the coupon that entitled you to go in and select whatever bird you want... Debby's is on the side street opposite the Newtonville Railroad Station and though it is off the beaten path, you will want to hear more about it... Of course, the children are fascinated by the variety of pets, from turtles and pet mice to kittens and tropical fish... And Dad will love to know that they will trim and bathe dogs, so you see the whole family will want to get acquainted with this shop... Walk along Bowers Street, and look for the window with the fluffy brown and white puppies... You can't miss it... I sympathize with the Mother who has learned for the first time that her child needs glasses. I know well the fears that confront you... but you haven't heard of the safety lenses... Visit the Newton Centre Optician and they will show you the safety lenses that are absolutely shatterproof. They can make up prescriptions with the full protection of safety lenses... and the combined beauty of modern fashion frames designed for youngsters...

There is a little shop called Troy Knitwear opposite the Newton Centre Railroad Station where wise Mothers have learned that they can purchase mill surplus socks, underwear, play clothes and baby things of an excellent quality at tremendous savings. There is no fanfare, and none of the glamour of the exclusive shops, but there is quality and value with every purchase...

Now Mother becomes secretary for a busy family schedule... There is nothing to compare with the convenience of a bulletin board in the kitchen... How wise the Mother, who uses this handy way of keeping her family posted... and how wise if she noticed that the Summer Frame Shop opposite the Newton Centre Post Office is once again offering a special price on Bulletin Boards with real cork face and sturdy oak frame... The extra large size costs so little, and promises to be worth its weight in gold for the busy homemaker.

Eventually all delightful youngsters grow up... and in the course of time, wedding bells begin to chime... When selecting a gift, remember one thing. Every gift no matter how large or Lieutenants William J. Bell and Albert Yanco, recently promoted, were assigned to Platoons 1 and 2, respectively. Lieutenant Richard Donahue, the third new lieutenant, will continue with Platoon 2, which he directed as a sergeant.

Patrolman Ralph H. Rich will be assigned to day relief duty until Dec. 1, when he will go on day duty. Patrolman William F. DeFlorio will be on relief duty at police headquarters during the early evening shift.

New sergeants have been given the following assignments: Robert R. Mahoney, Sector 2, Platoon 2; Charles W. Kennedy, Sector 3, Platoon 2; William F. Quinn, Sector 1, Platoon 3; Richard J. Nugents and Neal R. Dwyer, relief.

New assignments for other sergeants were as follows: Paul Donahue, Sector 1, Platoon 2; Martin F. Greeley, Sector 2, Platoon 2; John W. Foley, Sector 3, Platoon 3.

Patrolman Raymond J. Vachon is in section 7 and Patrolman Francis R. Daly will be in section 54, both in Platoon 2. Patrolman Aubrey F. Hill was assigned to Route 6 and Patrolman Thomas F. O'Halloran will cover Section 7, both in Platoon 3.

Allets have such a beautiful display it is hard to make a choice, but this week I was simply fascinated with the new shipment of bone china, in a variety of delicate pastel colors with a dainty gold leaf design... simple and exquisite, and oh, so lovely for entertaining... Any bride would love them...

Something to think about... It seems almost impossible for youngsters to concentrate on two things at once... So while they think about lessons... new classmates... and their nice new dress... you think about their safety... Please drive carefully...

museum where various relics of Smith's life and times could be preserved and exhibited.

Although born in Boston in 1807, most of his productive life was spent in Newton; as a result, the 100th anniversary of his birth was celebrated in Newton. It is anticipated that the 150th anniversary of his birth also will be marked by special ceremonies here.

During his life, he was a leading Newton citizen. He served as a Baptist minister here and was active as both poet and author. He wrote an 851-page "History of Newton," still the most comprehensive history of the city available.

The hymn "America" was written by Dr. Smith while he was a student in Andover Theological School in 1832. It was first sung publicly at an Independence Day celebration at the Park Street Church on the Fourth of July 1832.

The "Smith House" dates back to 1836 and was purchased by Samuel Francis Smith in 1847. He lived in the house for almost fifty years until his death in 1896.

The house was occupied by his direct descendants until vacated two years ago. A stone, erected by the Newton Centre Women's Club, is the only visible evidence that the house is associated with the author of the famed patriotic hymn.

Walter J. Kreske, one of the leaders of the movement to preserve the structure, is supported by an active committee of other interested local citizens. A number of substantial gifts have already been pledged in the campaign.

Kivlie Kaplan, 75 Hammond street and William Lincoln, 340 Hammond street, have called a meeting to organize the fund-raising drive to save the building on Thursday evening, September 18, at 8 o'clock at the Playground House, Tyler terrace, Newton Centre.

Director of Public Relations for the drive will be Gordon F. Bloom, 3 Woodside Road, Newtonville. All those interested in the civic and patriotic project are cordially invited to attend.

Local Women Police Patrol Well-Trained For Their Jobs

If the Newton auxiliary police women appear to have the situation very well in hand at all the crossings where they guard the city's school children—there's a reason.

They are probably the best trained women traffic police officers (f) and get the right idea—right away. They know their stuff.

This year's group of 36 officers didn't simply apply lipstick, powder their noses and hurriedly don their uniforms before taking over their duties for the 1958-59 scholastic year.

They were well-prepared and well-drilled. For the newest member as well as for the veteran, even before the school year got under way, the girls went to school.

The classroom was the guard room at police headquarters. The members of the faculty were Captain Charles E. Walker, Sergeant William H. Dowling and Safety Officers Charles E. Feeley and Gilbert J. Champagne.

The refresher and training classes lasted three days. The Newton policewomen for traffic duty idea was put into operation here in Newton nine years ago. The city is believed to have been the first in the East to adopt the idea. Now, there are 15 other communities in Massachusetts using women for such work.

Other cities and towns which have found it a good idea since include Waltham, Framingham, Natick, Lexington, Beverly, Marblehead, Melrose, Quincy,

Newtonville Sale "Biggest, Best"

Newtonville merchants are still looking at each other in amazement and asking "did you ever see anything like it" after the unqualified success of the first gala "Back-to-School Sales Days" event, held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Everyone was pleased. The customer, who walked away with values unequalled in past sales, and the merchant, who had the pleasure of being part of a successful sales promotion local patrons at the same time.

The sale could not have been better timed, since spring is a traditional time of worry for the anxious mother who all too often discovers that the clothes her children have not worn out, have been outgrown.

A large share of the credit for Newtonville's first "Back-to-School Sales Days" success must go to three men who worked tirelessly to see that the festival of bargains would not soon be forgotten by the Newtonville consumer. They are Nathan Lomes, chairman of the event; Justin Horan, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Phil Bram, an active member of the committee.

One of the high points of the sale, which was filled with high points as each new shopper found "just what she had been looking for," were the valuable prizes which were distributed to lucky buyers. These included a television set, an air conditioner and a bridge set.

It would be impossible to list the bargains that were available during the sale, but almost any housewife in Newtonville with small children could tell you of at least one, for, according to the happy merchants, they all seem to have turned out for the bargain bonanza.

Spokesmen for the Newtonville merchants credited co-operation between the shopkeeper and wholesale supplier, plus the overwhelming public acceptance, with the resulting "best sale in Newtonville history."

School Officials

He taught in Onset and in Sandwich before joining the Belmont school system in 1938. Cook taught fifth and sixth grades in Belmont, and served as elementary principal and director of home instruction there from 1945 to 1950.

Coming to Newton eight years ago, he served as principal at Emerson and Hamilton, as well as at the Franklin School for a time. He and his wife make their home in Belmont.

Our Lady's HS Lacks Game Time

Football players of Our Lady's High School of Newton bumped heads in their first intra-mural scrimmage Monday afternoon, and according to coach Jim Sullivan, there will be more of the same. He plans to stress contact work this fall as he seeks to develop new players.

Sullivan finds himself facing the prospect of starting the season with only three first stringers from last year's team, and much of the pre-season practice work will be devoted to forming a "hard core" of 15 or 18 players who will see most of the action this season.

Returning first teamers are quarterback Dick Lyons, fullback Jim Allison and halfback Steve Barlaano. Although some of the linemen have had a touch of experience, the forward wall is as green as grass.

Coach Sullivan contemplates some shakeups in his lineup which he feels will benefit the team as a whole. Ray Delaney has joined the staff as a line coach. A Boston College line man in the late '40's, he is a native of Rhode Island and coached there last season.

ward L. Swainson of Newtonville, Mrs. Clara Currie of Newton Centre and Mrs. H. Lewis Bray of Needham, one son, Arthur C. Osterberg of Newton, 21 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and a brother and sister in Sweden.

Funeral services were held at the William R. Miller Chapel, where the Rev. Carl A. Berquist, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, officiated. Cremation followed in the Newton Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Karff are the newly elected presidents of the P.T.A.

The school curriculum, which is under constant study and re-evaluation, is aimed at instilling Jewish values designed to meet the needs of each age level. ## Motel Expansion Hearing Monday; Plan 46 New Units

Company States Chestnut Hill Project Is Necessary

A petition seeking the right to enlarge the motor hotel at 196 Boylston street in Chestnut Hill was considered at a joint hearing held by the Planning Board and the Aldermanic claims and rules committee on Monday night.

Roger Sonnabend of 46 Melia terrace, vice president of the Hotel Corporation of America, which operates the motor hotel, testified that the company desires to build an additional 46 units.

No one appeared at the proceedings to oppose the application. Because of the Jewish holidays, however, the hearing was continued until next Monday night so that any one who desires to speak on the matter may have an opportunity to do so.

If the petition is approved, the motor hotel would be nearly doubled in size. At the present time it has 60 units. Present plans call for a total of 106.

In his testimony at Monday night's hearing Sonnabend indicated that the motel has proved a big success.

He said that its rooms were 98 percent occupied during the summer months and that most of its guests stay an average of two to three days.

Sonnabend declared that the public demand for motel facilities is great and that future expansion of the Chestnut Hill motor hotel is necessary.

He testified that the site on which it is planned to erect the 46 additional units is secluded from any neighboring streets and that a buffer area will be established between the motel and Belmont road in Brookline.

However, members of the Board of Aldermen said they understood that some Brookline residents desire to oppose the contemplated expansion of the motel and that it is expected they will appear next Monday night.

Fireman Fired After False Alarm Finding

Following his conviction in Newton district court of sounding four false alarms in 14 minutes on Aug. 23, Fire Chief Frederick A. Perkins, Jr., ordered the dismissal of James J. Maher of Pearl street, Newton, from the fire department.

Maier had been a member of the fire department for nine years. He was sentenced to concurrent sentences of three months each in the House of Correction by Judge David A. Rose, who ordered the sentences suspended and placed the defendant on probation for a year.

He was found innocent by the court of drunken driving. Maier had been suspended by Chief Perkins on Sept. 3 when the false alarm charges were filed.

Last March Maier was convicted in a false alarm case. He was dismissed from the department at that time but was later ordered reinstated by the Civil Service Commission.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Newton Graphic has for several years experienced the same heavy increases in wages, newsprint and other production costs common to the publishing industry, and must now reluctantly increase the yearly subscription rate. This increase will become effective with next week's issue, September 25, 1958.

The old familiar yearly subscription price of your favorite weekly newspaper has remained the same since 1872—the year the paper was founded more than three-quarters of a century ago. This in itself is rather remarkable, for our readers are familiar with the increases which have been made effective generally by newspapers and magazines in recent years. We have deferred this increase as long as possible, but rapidly rising present-day costs over which we have no control, make further delay impossible.

Thus, effective next week, the yearly subscription rate will be increased from $2.00 to $3.00 a year. Present subscriptions, of course, will be continued under the present rate until their expiration.

Persons desirous of subscribing can save $2.20 a year—or 42 percent, making the cost per copy slightly less than 6 cents—a substantial saving. The single copy price will be 10 cents.

We will continue in our efforts to make The Newton Graphic a more complete, interesting and up-to-the minute newspaper—worthy of the Garden City, that it is our privilege to serve.

6 Families Driven From Homes; 2-Hr. Fire Loss Is $5500

Fall Begins at 9:10 A.M. Tues.

Despite your conviction that we've had some "real Autumn mornings" and/or "evenings" recently, fall doesn't begin officially until 9:10 a.m. next Tuesday.

At that moment, Director John Patterson of the Hayden Planetarium at the Museum of Science, points out, the sun will cross the equator from south to north, ushering the autumnal equinox.

"There is equal day and night all over the world at this time," Patterson explains, "twelve hours of sunlight and twelve of darkness."

Come next March, the other equinox—the vernal equinox—will be with us when the sun crosses the equator from north to south and we in the northern hemisphere have our first day of spring.

Hot Plate Sets Off Blaze In Glass Company; Smoke Chokes Six Apartments

Six families were driven from their homes when an electric hot plate used in melting glue caught fire and started a blaze which caused damage estimated at $5500 at the Newton Glass Company, 302 Centre street.

Firemen battled the conflagration for more than two hours before finally bringing it under control and extinguishing it.

Heavy smoke poured into the apartments at 300 Centre street and into adjoining buildings.

Michael T. Connelly, 70, a retired police officer, was carried out of his smoke-filled apartment by Patrolmen John J. Kennedy and Francis DeVito.

Those forced into the street by the billowing smoke included the Herlihy, Maybay, Carey, Connelly, Beatty and Pappahatis families.

Persons residing at 312 Centre street also were obliged to quit their apartments while the blaze was at its height.

Damage to several nearby stores also was caused by the dense smoke.

Another fire started when an attempt was made to start a 1951 automobile in a garage at 18 St. James road in Newton.

Peter Wallace, Jr., of 28 Emerson street, and George Gallagher, of Watertown, were endeavoring to start the car when sparks from its motor set fire to the garage they had rented from George W. Page of 162 Lowell avenue, Newtonville.

Four engine companies and two ladder units were dispatched to put out the blaze.

Injured in Jump As Cement Truck Crashes on Side

Gene Romanell of 200 East Cross street, Norwood, was injured and a cement mixing truck was destroyed by fire when the vehicle tipped over while proceeding over an incline at the site of a house under construction at 39 Cottonwood road, Newton Highlands.

Romanell suffered back and chest injuries when he leaped from the cab of the truck as it toppled. He was a helper. The operator, Richard Stearns of 416 Grove street, Auburndale, also jumped but escaped injury. Romanell was taken to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

It is believed that the load carried by the big truck shifted on the incline causing it to crash on its side. Spilled gasoline quickly ignited.

Hail Centre Girl Champ of City's 10-Yr.-Old Hoopsters

Meet Dena Novick. She's charming. You can tell that by her picture. She's a pretty accomplished little miss, too—building with the joy of life and a spirit that's as infectious as her smile.

Dena's 10. When the first of those glistening hoops appeared in her neighborhood Dena said—"One of those I must have."

She got one, too. Before an hour had elapsed Dena could do more with that hoop than lots of those accomplished other little girls in her neighborhood, for before you could say "hula-hoop" three times it seemed that every child in the school owned one of those hoops.

Lots of them got to be pretty good, too. None of them as good as Dena, though.

One day recently they had a competition for every girl on the whole length of Tanglewood road. That's Dena's street. She lives at No. 10.

The boys heard about the tournament. They decided they'd get into the act, too. They were pretty good also. But none on the whole street was as good as Dena.

It wasn't long before Dena was giving lessons to all the

Texas Board In Tribute to New School Head Here

The "good judgment and sound educational philosophy" of Newton's new school superintendent, Eric N. Dendard were the subject of a resolution adopted by the Waco, Tex., school board. The resolution was forwarded to Newton School Committee Chairman Haskell Freedman.

Before his appointment to the Newton post, Mr. Dendard served in the Waco school system for eight years. He was presented a plaque by the Texas school board and also a silver punch bowl and tray by the negro faculty members in Waco.

4 More Boys Nabbed As Burglary Skein Unwinds

Police brought to a total of 46, the number of unsolved Newton robberies, with the arrest of four more teen-agers.

A break in a Newton Centre newspaper office and a house break in Auburndale where the loot consisted of a couple of packs of playing cards and a cigarette lighter proved to be the invaluable assists in aiding police to write "solved" against more of the long series of robberies which have plagued the city.

In each case two boys were taken into custody. In each case questioning of the apprehended teen-agers led to further solutions.

The Newton Centre break had been in the Charles Hall newspaper office on Union street. Nabbed for that was a 16-year-old boy from Newton Centre, and another 16-year-old whose home is in Randolph.

In the Union street break the robbers had carried off a box believed to have contained about $500. The arrested boys admitted that break and told an interesting story. They said they had carried the box from the scene to a point near the Newton Centre railroad station. There they took $140 and discarded the container.

When they read that the box was believed to have contained $500, they sent a third boy back to recover it. He couldn't find it.

The next big break for police came after Arthur E. Reed arrived at his house about 4 p.m. on a weekday and found two boys inside. He questioned them closely. They were evasive, but it appeared they had taken nothing. Reed took their names and addresses and permitted them to leave, warning them he would notify police if he subsequently found anything missing.

When he checked, Reed found the playing card decks and cig-

Aspect of Race for Governor Changed By Death of Fingold

The coming election battle between Governor Furcolo and former Speaker Charles Gibbons probably will be waged in altogether different fashion than would have been a contest between Governor Furcolo and the late Attorney General George Fingold.

For one thing Gibbons has indicated his intention of accepting Furcolo's challenge for a series of debates on the major issues of the campaign. That in itself would enliven and add color to their fight and in so doing arouse greater public interest.

An even greater difference, however, is that the voters will have a clearer choice between two sharply conflicting political philosophies and two public records which will be at variance on practically every partisan question.

The late George Fingold was a non-controversial figure as far as the issues which arose in the legislative branch of the State government were concerned.

By the nature of his duties Fingold was not called upon to take a stand on the hot questions which came up in the Legislature. His job was strictly an administrative one, that of seeing that the laws of the Commonwealth were enforced. He had nothing to do with making the laws, and he remained apart from the legislative battles except on matters relating to the enforcement of the law.

Gibbons, on the other hand, was a member of the House of Representatives for 14 years. He was its Speaker for two years, its Republican leader and spokesman for several years. In that time he stood up and voted on hundreds upon hundreds of major bills. Often he led the fights for or against the measures being acted upon.

When Governor Furcolo challenged the late Attorney General Fingold to a series of debates, he pointed out that Fingold, because of the nature of his job, had not become involved in the disputes on the hot issues which had arisen in the Legislature during the past two years. That isn't true of Gibbons who over a span of 14 years took a stand on far more issues in the State government than has Furcolo during his two years in the Governorship.

Furcolo's record will be an issue in the campaign to be waged across Massachusetts during the weeks between now and Nov. 4, but so will that of Gibbons.

Newton Educator Heads New B. U. Arts Center Project

The initial step in the plan to create an Arts Center program at Boston University, located at the University's School of Fine and Applied Arts but related to other schools and colleges within the University, was the appointment in September of 1957 of Dr. Max Kaplan to the faculty as director of the Arts Center program and associate professor of music. Dr. Kaplan is both a musician and a sociologist.

Now the University is ready for the second step in a long range plan to relate the arts to society and to develop a center which will train leaders, carry on research and give service to the community.

The Arts Center will offer its first courses for children, teenagers and adults this fall, according to an announcement by President Harold C. Case of the University and Dean Robert A. Choate of the University School of Fine and Applied Arts.

In commenting on the Art Center's first offerings, Dr. Kaplan said that one of the center's primary purposes was "to help to indicate ways in which the arts can enrich the lives of people."

The courses offered will range from music criticism to a Teen

Theatre, from folk singing to family lessons on a 16th Century wind instrument, the recorder. Classes for young people will be held on Saturday mornings, those for adults during the evening. The staff of the Art Center will consist of faculty members from Boston University, guest instructors from Boston and New York, and advanced students who have in many cases held important positions before entering their graduate studies.

Dr. Kaplan taught at the University of Illinois for 11 years, much of the time on a joint appointment in the departments of sociology and music. In 1952 he was the founder and first president of a large community organization which now consists of a symphony orchestra, chorus, theatre, painting group, dancers and a string quartet.

Dr. Kaplan received his Bachelor of Education degree from Milwaukee State Teachers College in 1933, a Master of Music from the University of Colorado in 1941, Master of Arts from the University of Illinois in 1948 and a Ph.D. from the same university in 1951.

Aside from his activities as lecturer, organizer and violin soloist and member of several quartets and community sym-

Those youngster's keeping count were all out of breath as the tabulation mounted. One thousand, one thousand and one, one thousand and two; one thousand and three; one thousand and four . . .

The count went up and up. Before Dena quit and the hoop fell to the sidewalk Dena had established the amazing record of 2597!

That's been the talk of the small fry along Tanglewood road ever since.

Now Dena has a challenge. She doesn't come right and claim that she's Newton's best hoopster, even though all her friends are convinced of it.

Dena's confident that she can beat any other 10-year-old—whether it's a boy or a girl any where in the city or in any of its village.

How about it? Has your neighborhood got a champ?

If you're 10 years old and you think you've got championship class, Dena's ready to match her skill. She's not confining the opposition to girls, either. Even if you're just a boy she's willing to consider your challenge.

For the moment at least, Dena appears to be Newton's champion 10-year-old hoopster.

arette lighter missin. He notified the police.

The names and addresses the boys had provided Reed proved "phony." However, the investigating officers obtained enough leads to bring about the apprehension of one of the pair. He was a 14-year-old Auburndale boy. He confessed participating in the break and said he had sold the cards to another boy. His companion in the Reed break was quickly picked up. He, too, proved to be a 14-year-old Auburndale boy.

The second Auburndale boy admitted he had broken into the home of Donald L. Willis, 138 Central street, Auburndale, on Aug. 2 and stolen $30. He returned later and found $150 more which he also carried away.

The Newton Centre investigation was carried out by Sergeant John J. Regan. Inspectors Francis W. Turner and Richard J. Bagley and Patrolman Francis B. Daly. The Auburndale probe was handled by Sergeant Robert F. Mahoney and Patrolman Charles F. Rivers and Charles E. Duffy.

The boys were arraigned in a session of Juvenile Court and held for further hearings while police pressed, their probe of other breaks.

Held with them were three other boys, previously arrested. The trio, aged 14, 15 and 16, were reputed responsible for 43 burglaries in Newton homes, stores, schools and libraries.

'59 Buicks Low, Long and Lovely With New Names And Many Features

The 1959 line of Buicks which go on display Friday at the Newton Buick Co. in Newton Corner represent the most extreme and most complete change he has seen in over 40 years as an automobile dealer, said Richard I. Dwyer, general manager of the local firm.

In keeping with the revolutionary new Buick, all of the old model designations were eliminated. Special, Century, Super, Roadmaster, Limited, names dear to generations of Buick owners, are no more.

Three distinct lines of 1959 Buicks replace the previous five lines. LeSabre, the thriftiest Buick, Invicta, the most spirited Buick and Electra, the most luxurious Buick are the names of the new Series.

Lowered profiles highlight the styling story for 1959, Mr. Dwyer stated. Hardtop models are up to five inches lower than those of the 1958 series and a new line of high ceiling and roomy sedans give those who prefer it old fashioned walk in and sit down comfort.

Magic Mirror, an acrylic lacquer which was available in 1958 at additional cost, is now standard in all Buicks. Developed by Dupont after 10 years of research, it resists blistering, cracking, bleaching and fading and holds its gloss almost indefinitely.

Two members of the Newton Buick Co. sales staff are now hi-fi fans. Ed Shaughnessy won a handsome new RCA Hi-Fi set at a Buick sales conference held recently and the following day Paul Goodwin, a senior salesman for the company, also won a Hi-Fi set.

Newton High Grad, Now Chief Justice Honored by School

Associate Justice Harold H. Burton of the United States Supreme Court, who was educated in Newton schools and married in West Newton, will receive the Bowdoin Prize for 1958, worth $4,700, at a special convocation to be held next Thursday. A summa cum laude graduate of Bowdoin in 1909, Justice Burton was Mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, from 1935 to 1940 and then served in the United States Senate until President Truman appointed him to the Supreme Court in 1945.

Justice Burton, although born in Jamaica Plain, attended Allen English and Classical School in West Newton from 1897 to 1901 and Newton High School, graduating in 1905. He was married to Selma Florence Smith in West Newton on June 15, 1912.

The selection of Justice Burton was made by a committee consisting of the Presidents of Harvard and Yale Universities and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine.

YMCA Athletic Field Restoration Project Completed By Spring

Strandberg, president of the Newton Association, who sees the project completed and the field ready for use in the Spring. The job entails the rebuilding of 85,000 square feet of land, Roto-hoed, limed, fertilized, graded, leveled and seeded. Over 1600 pounds of top-soil, 1800 of fertilizer, 3000 pounds of lime and 360 pounds of special seed will be used in restoring the area.

President Strandberg stated this week that it is expected that the athletic field will be available to the boys' classes and senior members by Spring.

TELEVIEWING THE NEWS

By LEE LOUMOS

Television means a lot of things to a lot of people. . . . but the thing it means most often, to most people, is FUN! So why don't we have a little fun with it in today's column?

As you know, the "picture" you see on your TV screen consists of 525 horizontal lines, scanning the screen from top to bottom and from left to right. Now suppose (just for fun, remember!) that these lines started running from right to left instead? What you see is a mirror image — with Ed Sullivan's left ear where his right one ought to be! The picture looks perfectly O. K., of course. But wait . . . here comes the title — and it's backwards! This might be fine during the commercials . . . but most of us like to know the name of the picture we're watching.

Can it be done? Sure . . . it's a simple matter of reversing a couple of leads inside the set. . . . Has it been done? As a matter of fact, it's a practical solution in narrow rooms where a large number of people want to watch TV. By placing a large mirror directly opposite the TV screen, the viewing distance is doubled, and the picture becomes easily visible from practically any spot in the room.

You can double your viewing pleasure . . . and it isn't done with mirrors! See the beautiful new models of Sylvania TV sets featuring Sylvania's finest taste in set appearance, as well as the highest qualities of engineering design.

Saltonstall Maps Plans for Coming Election Battle

Attorney John L. Saltonstall, Jr., winner of the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 10th district, this week began mapping his plans for his fall election battle.

He made it plain that he intends no letup in his drive and that as far as he is concerned the fight has just started.

Saltonstall expressed his gratitude both to the Democratic voters who nominated him as their party's candidate for Congress in the 10th district and to the volunteer workers who helped to make possible his nomination.

"I assure you all that the fight has just begun, and that with your continued support, I shall carry that fight to a victorious conclusion in November," he declared.

Atty. Saltonstall received congratulations from his two primary opponents, Joseph J. Mulhern, Jr. and City Councilman Edward F. McLaughlin, Jr. of Boston, shortly after the votes were finally tabulated on Wednesday morning of last week.

On last Thursday Mr. Saltonstall toured the Boston wards and Newton and Brookline in a sound car, thanking the voters. He was well-received everywhere he went.

Saltonstall received 13,853 votes in the primary, topping his nearest rival by 847 votes in one of the most exciting primary contests of the day.

Saltonstall is a Boston lawyer who makes his home in Brookline. He is a graduate of Harvard College, 1938; and the Yale Law School, 1941. He has served as a public official in the Federal government under Presidents Roosevelt, Truman, and Eisenhower, most recently as Associate General Counsel of the Department of the Army, 1952-53.

The Democratic nominee has long been active in the Democratic Party, having served as a Democratic State Committeeman and as a campaign associate of the late Governor Paul A. Dever and Senator John F. Kennedy.

On California Duty

Walter G. Billings, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter J. Billings of 19 Indiana terrace, Newton Upper Falls, is serving aboard the sea-plane tender, USS Salisbury Sound, based at Alameda, California.

Baseball, softball facilities and a six-of-a-mile track will be ready for use at that time.

For the current program year which will start the first of October, members will have use of the other facilities which include the gymnasium, swimming pool, tennis courts, handball and squash courts and indoor running track.

Initial research, prior to the rebuilding of the two-acre playfield, was carried out by the Clapper Company of West Newton under the guidance of Orville C. Clapper, president. The special seed and fertilizer mixture was arranged after careful consultation with Dr. J. A. DeFrance, prominent authority from the University of Rhode Island.

The actual rebuilding of the field is directed by Sig Borgeson and Son, landscape contractors of Newton Upper Falls. Mr. Borgeson has completed many similar projects in this area and in surrounding towns.

Girl Scouts Ask Volunteers Help

"Each One Ask One" is the theme the Newton Girl Scout Council will use in opening their campaign to recruit 75 qualified volunteers who are needed to assist the Girl Scout program. The recruitment drive, which opened this month, will continue until the end of the year's activities in June, of 1959.

In order to fill the vacancies in leadership, committees, and Council Board positions, every member will be asked to make a concerted effort to recruit one volunteer for scouting during the drive. The campaign is headed by Mrs. Dwight P. Merrill, vice president of the Newton Council.

Mrs. Merrill expressed the Council's hope that by October 31st, when Girl Scouts celebrate the birthday of Juliette Low, founder of scouting in the U.S., it can be announced that scouting ranks are being filled by women who will accept the challenging work of scouting.

A recruitment training institute sponsored by the Newton Council is scheduled for Thursday and Friday, September 25 and 26, at the Newton YMCA in Newtonville. The institute will be in session from 9:45 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

The Council's first board meeting this fall will open the first recruitment session on Thursday and all who registered are invited to attend. The purpose of this training institute is to help every member become more effective in her job as a recruiter through resources, skills and techniques and to help understand the Girl Scout organization.

Neighborhood chairmen, troop organizers, neighborhood team members, Council Board members, members of the standing committees, cookie sale personnel are urged to attend. These will be the key people in the drive.

Assisting in the training sessions are Mrs. Dwight P. Merrill, Mrs. Arthur T. Gregorian and Miss Elizabeth Richardson, director.

Mrs. Hardina New T. B. Association Exec. Assistant

Mrs. Robert F. Hardina, of 215 Herrick road, Newton Centre, has been appointed assistant to the executive of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association according to an announcement from Miss Hilda G. Hope, executive director.

Mrs. Hardina was graduated from Worcester Classical High School and received her B.A. in English Literature from the University of Massachusetts this year. In college, he was active in school affairs, was a class officer for two years and was a member of Phi Beta Phi sorority. She took her senior year in absentia at Boston University.

Enroll at Bowdoin

Four Newton area young men are among the 224 members of the Class of 1962 who arrived at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, last week to begin their freshman year. They are:

Edward C. Uehlein, Jr., of 217 Varick road, Waban; Charles D. Eurt of 49 Neholden road, Waban; Peter E. Mayer, of 278 Franklin street, Newton; and Michael H. Sherman of 1311 Commonwealth avenue, West Newton.

McCormack Takes Over Duties As Attorney General

Attorney General Edward J. McCormack, Jr., is dividing his time between his duties as chief law officer of the Commonwealth and his campaign for election to the office he now holds.

McCormack is devoting the daytime business hours to his job as Attorney General, a task which is arduous and time-consuming because of the work which piled up following the death of the late George Flin-gold.

At night he is out campaigning with other members of the Democratic State ticket, working with such party stalwarts as Senator John F. Kennedy and Governor Foster Furcolo.

McCormack now has three times been given the Democratic stamp of approval as the candidate for Attorney General.

He was endorsed at the Democratic State Convention in June. He was nominated by the Democratic voters in last week's State primary, and two days later he was elected by the legislature to serve as the interim Attorney General for the balance of the year.

As a gesture of his fairness, McCormack has retained all members of the late Attorney General Flin-gold's staff who desire to remain on the job.

McCormack as a result is in the position of working with the aides of the man who was the leader in the opposing political party. He is insisting only that they do the best possible job for the people of Massachusetts.

"It is my purpose and objective to serve in the office of Attorney General with honor, with integrity and with ability," McCormack declares.

"That is what I am doing now, and that is what I will continue to do if the voters of Massachusetts elect me to the office in November."

McCormack asserts that he will do most of his campaigning at night and on weekends but that he will expend every bit of energy possible to help achieve a victory Nov. 4 for the entire Democratic State ticket.

On his election by the Legislature to the office of Attorney General, McCormack resigned from his position in the Boston City Council, and his place in the municipal government was taken by Peter F. Hines.

Memorial Fund Suggested For Harold Wooster

James P. Gallagher, a trustee of the Newton Free Library, has announced that contributors to the Harold A. Wooster Book Fund whose contributions were made in lieu of floral tributes at the Chief Librarian's recent passing, have suggested that the funds be used to establish a permanent memorial to Mr. Wooster.

Approximately $1,000 has been contributed to date. The Library Trustees feel that an appropriate memorial would be a fund sufficient to yield an income large enough to purchase for the library books which Mr. Wooster were he alive, would be glad to see on the shelves.

Such a fund, the trustees feel, "would be a gracious and well deserved tribute to an efficient and dedicated public servant."

Contributions may be made to the Harold A. Wooster Book Fund and addressed to the Newton Free Library, Newton, Mass.

Political Highlights

Ironically, Gibbons has been planning to run for Governor ever since 1952. Each time, when there was an opening for a new Republican gubernatorial candidate, he stood aside for someone else until this month when the tragic death of George Fingold suddenly thrust him into the position as head of the GOP State ticket.

Back in 1953 Gibbons was a prospective candidate for Governor, but he stepped down when a group of top Massachusetts Republicans waited upon Christian A. Herter and persuaded him to abandon his seat in Congress and stand for the Governorship.

It isn't generally known, but if the late Robert A. Taft had been chosen as the Republican candidate for President at the 1952 GOP national convention in Chicago, Gibbons rather than Herter might have been the Republican nominee for Governor in the subsequent election in Massachusetts.

Even though he was endorsed for Governor at the unofficial Republican pre-primary convention at Worcester in June of that year, Herter had privately expressed a willingness to stand aside and allow Gibbons to make the run for the Governorship if Taft were the Presidential standard-bearer.

He could have done so by withdrawing after the primary and allowing the Republican State Committee to name Gibbons to run in his place. Whether any such thing would have happened if Taft had emerged the victor at the Chicago convention is, of course, a matter of conjecture. The forthright Herter believed that if Taft were the candidate for President it would have been only fitting that one of his supporters also run for Governor. The point is that Gibbons was considered gubernatorial timber as long ago as 1952.

At the 1952 Republican national convention in Chicago, Herter was one of the majority of the Massachusetts delegation which backed the then General Eisenhower. Gibbons was one of a handful of Bay State delegates who supported Taft.

Eisenhower won the nomination. Herter ran for the Governorship and was elected. Gibbons returned to his seat in the House of Representatives and became the Speaker of that body during the first two years of the Herter administration.

Again in 1956 Gibbons set his sights on his party's nomination for Governor but was persuaded to stand aside, to allow Sumner G. Whittier to become the gubernatorial nominee and to run instead for Lieutenant Governor.

At the start of this year Gibbons was again a candidate for Governor. When a contest developed between Christian A. Herter, Jr. and George Fingold, Gibbons revised his plans and for a time was a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Then the support he expected as the Senate candidate failed to materialize, and Gibbons shifted back into the gubernatorial field. The move came too late for a real test of his strength at the GOP convention held in Worcester three months ago.

At that convention Gibbons announced that he would run in the Republican primary. Once again he was prevailed upon to stand aside in the interest of party harmony and to seek a seat in the State Senate. As a result of an unexpected turn of events Gibbons is now making the fight for which he has been aiming for years.

Some political observers feel that Gibbons is at a disadvantage because he did not actually become his party's candidate for Governor until after Labor Day.

That, however, may not be the fact. Gibbons, as a result of the big sticker vote he piled up, commanded attention and received publicity he would not have obtained if he had been endorsed in routine fashion at the GOP convention in June.

It is true that if Gibbons had become the GOP gubernatorial standard-bearer two and a half months earlier, he would have been blasting away at Furcolo's record. But Furcolo undoubtedly would have been firing back at the Gibbons record.

Now two men with sharply contrasting records on major State issues are the opponents in a gubernatorial fight, and the interest of the general public obviously has been kindled in the battle they will wage in the weeks just ahead.

Primary May Have Shattered Political Sales Tax Bugaboo

Maybe the political bugaboo, which has prevented the adoption of a sales tax in Massachusetts, was shattered in last week's primary.

A good many legislators on Beacon Hill have been maintaining for years that a vote for a sales tax would be equivalent to committing political suicide.

When Governor Furcolo last year publicly advocated a sales tax as the answer to the State's financial problems, many of the legislative leaders in his own party were shocked and horrified.

Democratic law-makers, who would have lined up with Furcolo on almost anything else, backed gingerly away from his sales tax measure.

Yet, an examination of the primary returns reveals that not a single legislator was defeated for renomination because he voted for the sales tax.

In most legislative districts the sales tax was not even an issue, although the political education committee of the State Federation of Labor sought to inject it into the primary campaign.

Where candidates seeking to unseat present House members did make the sales tax a major issue, the legislators who voted for the tax almost invariably were renominated by big margins.

What does that mean?

Well, one thing it surely means is that a legislator can vote for a sales tax without sacrificing his political life by doing so.

The primary demonstrated pretty clearly that most persons aren't as strenuously opposed to a sales tax as the politicians have believed. If they were, it's reasonable to assume they'd have given the heave-ho to legislators who voted for a tax they don't want.

It isn't likely to be a subject of discussion in the coming gubernatorial campaign, but the fact is that the next Governor, whether he be Foster Furcolo or Charsel Gibbons, probably will have no alternative but to advocate a sales tax.

This time there presumably will be less squirming on the part of legislators to whom political self-preservation comes first.

Kennedy Sure of Re-election... Furcolo Surprised Experts

The fact that U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy polled a slightly smaller complimentary vote in last week's primary than did Governor Furcolo does not mean that Kennedy is in any danger of defeat in November.

Kennedy's great political strength actually flows from his ability to draw Republican as well as Independent votes which most other Democrats are unable to get.

About the only conclusion which can be drawn from an analysis of the vote polled by Kennedy and Furcolo is that Furcolo has more unified support in his own party than most political observers thought he had.

The explanation being offered that Kennedy lost some votes because his name was all by itself in the first column at the left of the ballot, where voters could easily miss it, especially if they didn't entirely unfold their ballot, is undoubtedly true. That, however, doesn't appear to be the entire answer.

A study of the vote totals received by Kennedy and Furcolo reveals that the returns did not follow any set pattern.

Kennedy was the top vote-getter in some communities, Furcolo in others.

If Senator Kennedy's place on the paper ballots was a handicap to him, as most of the political experts believe, then the location of his name on the voting machines, should have been a distinct advantage.

Kennedy for the most part received a higher percentage of the vote in the communities which had voting machines than he did in sections where paper ballots were used.

Yet, Furcolo ran ahead of Kennedy in some districts where the voting was done on machines.

That was notably true in some of Boston's heavily Democratic wards. And it wasn't confined to any one racial group.

For example, in East Boston, which has a large Italian-American population, the vote was 8591 for Furcolo and 6734 for Kennedy.

In Charlestown, where the residents are predominantly of Irish descent, the totals were 3995 for Furcolo and 3601 for Kennedy. In one of the South Boston wards the vote was 3996 for Furcolo and 3638 for Kennedy. The voting is completely mechanized in all three of those wards.

Some Democratic voters have reported since the primary that they didn't notice Kennedy's name on their paper ballots.

Unless they failed to unfold the ballot entirely it seems incredible that they could have missed it. Kennedy's name actually stood out more strikingly on the ballot than did the name of other candidates. It was in the column where the Presidential candidates are listed, and the voters usually manage to find their names.

But whether Kennedy was purposely cut or accidentally overlooked by some Democrats, there's not much doubt in the minds of Massachusetts Republicans that his reelection in November is about as certain as anything can be in politics.

ADA Support Turned Tide In Saltonstall's Victory

There is little doubt but that the ADA provided the balance of power which gave Attorney John L. Saltonstall, Jr., his spectacular victory over City Councilor Edward F. McLaughlin, Jr., and Attorney Joseph J. Mulhern, Jr., in the race for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 10th district.

Not only did the ADA give Saltonstall energetic support, but leaders of the organization did a tremendous job in getting their members out to vote in both Newton and Brookline. Saltonstall served for two years as State chairman of the ADA and undoubtedly will have its all-out backing in the coming election.

NJC Enrollment Creates Record

For the first time in its history Newton Junior College will have a student registration exceeding 200, according to Registrar Marcia Casavant. It is expected that registration in the school's evening classes will also break previous records. Classes will open next Monday.

Because the college's auditorium-library will no longer provide adequate facilities, meetings in the "Orientation 1" course, in which business, political, economic and educational leaders address the entire student body, will be held in the nearby Newtonville Women's Club on for the first session and at the new Clafin School for the second session.

A new art room will be opened at NJC under direction of Martha Hall Bliss of Stoneham, who conducted an art course at Mills College, California, before joining the Newton faculty.

Charles W. Fiedler, retired naval officer and graduate of Annapolis, will conduct the new History of Russia class from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The elementary Russian language course will be offered Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. Stocks and investments, a concentrated six-week course, will commence in October.

All other courses are semester or full-year courses and will begin next week.

Detroit—Michigan claims to be the first state to establish an agricultural college which dates back to 1859.

The first meeting of the court will be held September 22 in Our Lady's High School. Preceding the meeting members of the court will attend a holy hour at Our Lady's Church, to be held in conjunction with the Novena of the Miraculous Medal.

Other events being planned are a pot luck supper, a jewelry demonstration, and a whist party, proceeds of which will be donated to the church, school and other charities, including those of Archbishop Cushing.

Officers present at the meeting were:

Alice Langford Ballet School Re-opens Today

The Newton division of the Alicia Langford Boston Ballet School will re-open for its seventh season on September 18th at the Workshop, 72 Columbus street, Newton Highlands. As heretofore, graded classes in classical ballet technique will be taught by members of the Boston School faculty.

Mrs. Howard Hulsman, manager of the Newton Division of the school, is now taking registrations for classes. Please call her at Cedar 5-4387 for enrollment or for further information.

Because of her careful and thorough training in classical ballet, Miss Langford has deservedly earned for her school its recognized place as one of the finest. Her own training in the dance, in Boston and New York, was under such internationally well-known teachers and dancers as Anatole Vilzak, Muriel Stuart, Anthony Tudor, Aubrey Hitchens, Alicia Markova, Anton Dolin, and Ted Shawn. In Paris, both she and her co-director, Edwin Binney, studied under Mesdames Preobrajenska and Egorova.

After touring with dance companies of reknown throughout the United States, Miss Langford retired some years ago from the stage to found her own ballet school. Subscribers to the highly successful Newton Community concerts last season will remember with delight the superb and spirited dancing of Marie Paquet, who trained with Miss Langford for ten years. Upon her graduation from high school, Miss Paquet joined the Metropolitan Opera Ballet and thence the Robert Joffrey Theatre Ballet group, who entertained enthusiastic audiences at Newton High School last spring, and at the Boston Arts Festival this summer.

It has always been Miss Langford's policy not to present young and inexperienced pupils in a recital. Only when her boys and girls have studied for years and have attained near-professional competence does she feel that they are ready to dance before the public. It was for this purpose that Miss Langford and Mr. Binney founded their own Boston Ballet Company some years ago. They present this group of talented and proficient young people, of high school and college age, many times during each season to clubs, civic groups, parent-teacher and other organizations.

ALICIA LANGFORD

Construction Work Closes Two Streets

Portions of Randolph street, Newton Highlands, and Park street, have been closed for construction work. A stretch of Randolph street from Woodward street to Dickerman road, is closed for sewer construction work. Park street is closed to traffic from Vernon to Franklin street for reconstruction of its surface. The work in both instances is expected to require two more weeks.

Classical Ballet School Re-opens

Miss June Tushin will again open her School of Classical Ballet in West Newton and Auburndale. Registration is being held today between 3 and 5 p.m. at the Auburndale Club at 283 Melrose St., Auburndale.

Miss Tushin's background in the field of ballet is a distinguished one. She started her ballet training at the age of seven and is a graduate of the Washington School of Ballet, Washington, D.C. For three seasons she was a professional student in the School of American Ballet and Ballet Theater School in New York City. She is a former soloist with the Washington Concert Ballet Co. and was also a member of the St. Petersburg Operetta Co.

Under the direction of Mr. Leon Fokine, she was a soloist in the National Ballet Co. Miss Tushin also taught ballet classes for Mr. Fokine.

At present Miss Tushin is a member of the Dance Teachers' Club of Boston, and affiliated with the Dance Masters of America.

Her pupils are instructed in classical ballet and toe techniques in disciplined classes limited in size. Each year the students learn dance projection and stage presence by appearing in a visitor's night or small recital. During the past summer one of Miss Tushin's leading students, Miss Frances Burke, danced with the New England Ballet Co. at the Cape Ann Arts Festival in Gloucester, Mass.

This season Miss Tushin is accepting students from age six and is also offering a new adult class on Tuesday evenings. Classes are taught personally by Miss Tushin and are held Tuesdays Wednesdays and Thursdays at the Neighborhood Club in West Newton and the Auburndale Club in Auburndale. All classes are graded and the enrollment is limited. Miss Tushin may be contacted at the Neighborhood or Auburndale Club or at WA 4-1956.

2 Music Courses Will Be Offered

Mrs. Bernard Rogell has just returned from Lakeville, Conn. where she spent her third summer of intensive study with Mme. Wanda Landowska and Denise Resout of the piano and harpsichord.

A commuter during the rest of the year, Mrs. Rogell takes up residence in Lakeville each summer in order to be near Mme. Landowska. While there, she conducted children's and adult's classes in musicianship, and gave recital-lectures.

This year, she is offering two such courses in Newton. One, a workshop for Adults, requires no specialized knowledge of music. It is for the person who enjoys music but would make its language more intelligible. This will be done by approaching its component parts (rhythm, melody, harmony, composition) simultaneously through ear-training, analysis, and writing.

The other course will be a series of lecture-recitals tracing the growth and development of the sonata from its 16th century origins to Beethoven. The class will participate in the harmonic and structural analysis of all the musical material presented.

Mrs. Rogell received her A.B. at Radcliffe College as a music major. She pursued her theoretical subjects under Nadia Boulanger, Walter Piston, among others. After graduation, in addition to teaching she studied musicianship and music analysis with Stanley Chapple, and more recently with Julius Herford.

Mrs. Rogell will accept applications for these classes at DE 2-9890 beginning Sept. 12. The classes will start on Oct. 6.

Three Courses To Be Offered

Three courses will be offered during this season's Adult Education Program at Temple Shalom, of West Newton, comparative religion, Talmudic interpretation of the Bible, and Great Jewish Books. The courses were selected by most congregation members who responded to a questionnaire sent to all Temple families.

Classes will meet four Tuesday evenings during the fall, and again in the spring. Each group will meet individually for one hour, and then all will combine to hear a guest lecturer discuss Jewish attitudes in relation to various problems of life and death.

Registration will be limited to adult members and post-confirmation students. Committee members working to complete registration, select faculty experts, and make final arrangements are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Andelman, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Brower, Michael M. Cooper, Donald L. Daniels, Mrs. George J. Freedman, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Gladstone, Mrs. Sumner D. Greengross, Alexander Homonoff, Mrs. Frank Kaplan, Mrs. and Mrs. Jackson L. Parker (co-chairmen), Dr. Meyer Ritvo, Abe L. Rothstein, and Jack L. Yudin.

Dance Studio Starts Classes

Miss Vivian Bold, director of the Newton Conservatory of Dance and Related Arts, has announced the opening of the Fall Term at the Conservatory, 1643 Beacon Street, Waban. Registrations will also be accepted by phone, Bigelow 4-1534. Classes began on September 15.

Miss Bold spent the entire summer furthering her study and research of ballet and modern creative dance. She was one of the few American dancers invited to participate in a concentrated study program under the direction of Igor Moiseyev, director of the famed Russian Ballet Company. She also took part in a program of advanced ballet technique with Jean Ceburon of the Joos Ballet Company, and continued her study of modern dance with Hanya Holm, world-famed choreographer for "My Fair Lady" and other Broadway shows.

Appearing professionally this summer in several shows in New York and New England area, Miss Bold also created original choreography for a number of the contestants in the Miss America Pageant, and for a variety of TV shows emanating from New York.

Her extensive background in the field of dance also includes study with Margaret Cranks of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet; Ted Shawn, known as the father of Modern Dance in this country; Martha Graham, and many other greats in the dance world.

The Conservatory Fall Program includes classes in Ballet, Modern Creative, Modern Jazz, Calypso, Tap and Ballroom Dancing. ## Curtis Declares Experience Vital To Congressman

Congressman Laurence Curtis declared today that the experience he has gained on Washington's Capital Hill during the past six years should prove of tremendous value to the voters of the 10th congressional district during the two years immediately ahead.

Curtis emphasized the importance of and need for sound experience in meeting the critical present-day problems confronting both Congress and the nation.

"Experience is a tremendous asset in Congress, as it is in virtually every other line of endeavor," Congressman Curtis asserted.

Curtis pointed out that he himself served in a number of public offices before he first stood for election to Congress in 1952.

Official recognition of the quality of his work within the Congress was provided earlier this year when he was named a member of the extremely important congressional committee on foreign affairs. Previously, Curtis had been a member of the distinguished House Judiciary committee.

He is a graduate of Harvard

College and the Harvard Law School and following his graduation from law school served as secretary to the late Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The political apprenticeship he served before going to Congress was a long and impressive one.

Congressman Curtis served in the Boston City Council, the Massachusetts House of Representatives, the Massachusetts Senate and as State Treasurer.

In 1950 he was the Republican nominee for Lieutenant Governor and made an extremely strong run despite the Democratic trend which prevailed at the time.

Curtis has been active in the affairs of the Disabled American Veterans, has served as State commander of that organization and also as its national vice commander.

Truck Tip-Over Brings Firemen

A runaway truck brought the fire department to the Andover Newton Theological School. The truck travelled downhill, after a drive-shaft broke, and turned on its side. The fire department was called out to remove the hazard caused by spilled gasoline.

He has kept in close touch with the people of his district during his six years in Congress.

Not only has he sent out a weekly newsletter reporting on happenings in Washington, but he also has held periodic clinics in his district to meet personally with his constituents and discuss any problems of a federal nature with them.

Herter Steps Up Campaign For Attorney General

Governor's Councillor Christian A. Herter, Jr., who made an outstanding showing in his first State-wide campaign, this week began to step up the tempo of his drive for election as Attorney General.

Herter proved to be the top Republican vote-getter in last Tuesday's primary.

His feat in his first State-wide run of polling more votes than any other Republican candidate in Massachusetts marked another colorful chapter in the career of one of the Commonwealth's outstanding young public leaders.

Herter served three years in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, is now serving his second year in the Governor's Council and also has held positions of high trust and responsibility in the federal government.

He served for two years as General Counsel for the Foreign Operations Administration in Washington and for one year was administrative assistant to the Vice President of the United States.

In private life he is an active practising attorney, and his legal talent and ability gained him widespread attention and respect during the period he worked as General Counsel for the F.O.A.

Councillor Herter is a graduate of Harvard College and the Harvard Law School. He achieved high scholastic honors at Harvard and gained membership in Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society.

He is a combat veteran of World War II, was wounded in action and was decorated for valor. Decorations conferred upon him include the Croix de Guerre and the Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster. He also was awarded the Purple Heart.

Herter entered the army as a private. When he was discharged from the service after the war he held the rank of major. He is the oldest son of Under Secretary of State and former Governor Christian A. Herter, is married and the father of three children.

Herter declared today that it is his intention to wage an extremely active campaign right down to the time the polls close on election night.

He said that he intends to meet as many voters personally as is possible.

"If I am elected," he asserted, "I would live up to the highest principles of public trust and would endeavor to run the office of Attorney General in a manner that would best serve and protect the interests of all the people of Massachusetts."

'SHOPPING AROUND WITH RITA'

What's in a name . . . That wonderful new household product that I told you about was well named when they called it E-Z-Glide . . . say, just one spray along the side of the window sash, and that stubborn window glides along so smoothly . . . In a few months you will be using this marvelous homemaker's aid for hundreds of things . . . from frying pan to squeaky door . . . It will be in the stores soon, but for now drop in at the Sumner Frame Shop opposite the Newton Centre Post Office, or call DE 2-2420 . . . And while you are at the Frame Shop look at the exceptional value they are offering in Cork Bulletin Boards . . . They are so handy to have in the home, club rooms or place of business, and this is a good opportunity to buy one with cork face, and sturdy oak frame at a very reasonable price.

Would you be interested to know how Allets Gift Shop got its name . . . This unique gift shop was a lifelong dream of Jean O'Connell, and when her dream came true she used her mother's name Stella in reverse and came up with Allets . . . By the way this would be a good time to FALL into fashion with all sorts of jewelry. Allets have reduced the prices on hundreds of ropes, pins, bracelets and earrings. There is just about anything you would wish for all those clever quick changes with basic fall outfits . . .

Esty Farm . . . is just what the name implies . . . A harvest of good eating from the farm owned and operated by the Esty family for generations . . . why would you believe that one of those farmhouses is over two hundred years old. If you are just a country girl at heart, and have a deep down longing to shop country style, this is the place for you . . . You will find this typical farm store right at the Newton-West Roxbury line on Dedham St. . . . Do go over for a wonderful visit, and treat yourself to farm fresh chicken and eggs, fruits and vegetables . . . It's quite a place.

I do not know how the name Atwood's Camera Shop originated, but I do know this . . . The name of Atwood's has come to mean the nicest, friendliest folks you would ever meet, always anxious to serve you with the fastest and best service possible. Have you seen the clever film drop on the back door facing the Parking Lot (Newton Centre) . . . It is designed in a huge flash camera with convenient slot to deposit film for quicker than ever weekend or evening service.

Debby's Pet Land is certainly a land of pets for the children . . . I met cute little Margery Burns there the other day . . . She was buying food for her pet rabbits . . . and adorable little Vicky Field was simply entranced with those cuddly little brown and white puppies in the window . . . they loved her, too, and were scrambling over one another to be patted. Debby's is having a big Parakeet Sale, but it is just for 3 days only . . . so hurry down for that pet bird that the whole family has been waiting for.

Something to think about . . . (Many thanks to the thoughtful reader who reminds us of the thought provoking quotation by Grantland Rice) When the One Great Scorer Comes to write against your name . . . He marks, not that you won or lost, but how you played the game.

Gibbs Explains His Shift On Withholding Bill

State Senator Donald L. Gibbs of Newton, campaigning for reelection, today explained why he voted against Governor Furolo's withholding income tax bill this year after sponsoring a withholding measure last year.

Gibbs declared that the main reason for his shift was that he discovered, as the withholding controversy developed, that a majority of the people in his senatorial district were opposed to the Governor's measure.

"I consider it my duty and obligation to reflect as accurately as possible the sentiment and wishes of the people I represent, when I cast my vote in the State Senate," Gibbs asserted.

He said that where he received scores of letters favoring the Governor's withholding bill, he received hundreds upon hundreds of communications opposing it.

"My purpose is to vote as a majority of my constituents wish me to vote, not to force a law upon the people that they don't want," Gibbs emphasized.

Senator Gibbs pointed out further that the withholding tax bill he filed last year was not the same as the one which Governor Furolo submitted this year.

Gibbs cited that his bill proposed that the State withholding law be modeled after the federal law which contained a forgiveness provision so that there would not be an overlapping of taxes.

The Newton Senator expressed the conviction that the people would accept the withholding system of paying their State income taxes if they were not obliged to pay both their 1958 and 1959 taxes early next year.

At the same time Senator Gibbs declared that the average person is simply getting hit with more taxes than he can stand and is looking to his elected public officials to start saving money instead of seeking more ways to spend money.

"We are just spending ourselves down the drain," Gibbs explained.

Lasell Junior Registration

Lasell Junior College will register students for the 1958-59 scholastic year today (Thursday).

Nine new members have been added to the school's faculty, it was announced by Raymond C. Wass, president. They include: Mrs. Kathleen McCann, Belmont; Miss Claire Barry, Arlington; Mrs. Elaine C. Cavanaugh, Auburndale; Miss T. J. Fantasia, Somerville; Miss Marion F. Kennedy, Lexington; Miss Jean M. LaBella, Everett; Miss Jane Stonberg, Brookline, and Mrs. Mary S. Woodland, Auburndale.

the residents of his home city, Gibbs declared that Newton should be represented in the State Senate. "There certainly should be someone in the Senate to fight for the interests of the people of Newton," he elaborated.

Gibbs during the past two years has been serving on seven different Senate committees. He was given the largest number of committee assignments of any first-term Senator.

2 House Breaks Reported in N.C.

While police checked on nearly 50 burglaries attributable to teenage boys, householders reported two more home burglaries.

From the house of Louis Silveri, 55 Oakmont road, Newton Centre, burglars took three watches, valued at $150, a wedding band, a portable radio, valued at $49.95, and a camera valued at $25.

The home of Joseph Cohen, 70 Jackson street, Newton Centre, was entered while Mr. Cohen and his daughter were watching TV in the basement. Entrance was gained by forcing a casement window in the bathroom. A check indicated nothing was taken, the intruder apparently being frightened away when he heard the occupants in the cellar.

Official Primary Returns Indicate Furcolo Strong

An analysis of the State-wide primary returns indicates that Governor Furcolo is extremely strong in the Democratic party.

A study of the primary figures leaves the impression that Furcolo is stronger, at least in his own party, than was the late Paul A. Dever in 1950, when Dever sought reelection to a second term in the Governorship. Dever was reelected by 250,000 votes that year.

Following are the figures which create that impression and which reveal that Democratic cutting or bypassing of Furcolo's name was much less than might normally be expected.

A total of 500,872 Democratic ballots were cast in the recent Democratic primary. Furcolo polled 396,654 votes. There were 577 write-in votes for other candidates and 103,641 so-called blanks.

In the 1950 Democratic primary 445,602 ballots were cast. Dever polled 286,063 votes, with 22 write-in votes for other candidates and 159,517 blanks.

In other words, with 55,000 more Democratic ballots cast this year than in 1950, Furcolo polled 110,000 more votes and 56,000 fewer blanks than did Dever under almost identical circumstances eight years ago.

Political experts frequently express the belief that the incidence of blanks and the evidence of cutting of the late Governor Dever in the 1952 primary foretold the defeat he was later to suffer in his fight with former Governor Christian A. Herter.

The contrast between the primary returns this year and in 1952 is striking. A total of 517,616 Democratic ballots were cast in '52. Dever received 310,505 complimentary votes. There were 37 write-in votes and 207,074 blanks.

The most significant thing about those figures is that with only 17,000 more ballots cast in 1952 than this year, 103,433 more persons passed by Dever's name.

Newton Opens Grid Season Against Everett Saturday

Equipped with a giant forward wall; a backfield with a strong ground and air potential, plus its finest supply of reserve strength in years, the Newton Tiger football team opens its quest for the 1958 Class A title in Everett Saturday.

Coach Bud Hawkes is making no predictions. Less diffident, or perhaps, less given to finger-crossing, are Tiger supporters who think the N.H.S. grid cast for the season ahead is "loaded."

The squad is superbly balanced for the coming gridiron campaign.

The pre-season workouts have indicated that necessary replacements for holes caused by graduation will be plugged. In scrimmages with such schools as Gloucester, Chelsea and Weymouth—the Tigers have shown amazing spirit. The competition for the "open jobs" has been fierce.

The team will be able to field two strong lines, and there'll be no long drop between the first string backfield and the reserves such was the case too often a year ago.

In past years Everett has always proved one of the toughest opponents on the Newton schedule. Often Everett has been the difference between success and a mediocre season for the Newton boys.

Hawkes has no exact line on what to expect in the opener at Everett Stadium. One thing is certain. It will be no breather. It may well serve as an indication of just how far this Newton team can go.

The Tigers have impressed in the live scrimmages against Chelsea, Weymouth and Gloucester.

For one thing it seems pretty certain that Coach Hawkes will not be plagued with a lack of effective replacements, a problem which proved more than a little handicap in recent years. Even on the high school level today the need for good reserves is a paramount consideration.

Petitions Seek Dump Ouster In Auburndale

Demands that the Pine street dump in Auburndale be abandoned during the next year are contained in a petition signed by residents of the area.

The petition was circulated among residents who cited nuisances created by the dump. Many claimed that fires in the dump had sent smoke and flaming refuse swirling over their properties.

The petitions went into circulation after a protest meeting attended by more than 50 neighbors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh, 163 Pine street, Auburndale.

At first it was planned to limit the circulation of petitions to those families with properties abutting the dump site. However, when it was discovered

2 Dead Following Turnpike Accident

The death of Joseph C. Brownell Tuesday in Newton Wellesley Hospital brought to two the number of fatalities resulting in an accident on Route 9 at the Centre street by-pass in Newton Highlands. Mr. Brownell's wife, Marion, died in the wreckage after the car skidded on the rain soaked highway and crashed into an abutment.

Mr. Brownell, 54, was placed on the danger list at the hospital as soon as he was admitted, suffering from fractures of the chest and nose and internal injuries. His wife, who was 49, was thrown against the windshield by the force of the collision. Both had to be removed by firefighters.

The couple made their home at 57 Birch Tree drive in Westwood. The accident, which brought to four the number of traffic fatalities in Newton this year, occurred at 9:20 p.m. Sunday night while Mr. Brownell was proceeding west on the turnpike. Police called firemen to help remove the couple from the wrecked car, which was wedged against the stone wall that separates the turnpike from the Centre street access road.

Although Mr. Brownell was unconscious several hours after being brought to the hospital, he later rallied enough to be questioned by police concerning the tragedy. Dr. William A. Richards, associate medical examiner, said that Mrs. Brownell's death was caused by a fractured skull and a broken neck. Previous traffic victims in Newton this year were an elderly woman pedestrian who was killed in Newton Highlands and a small boy, struck down in Newton Centre. The Brownells are survived by a son, David, 23.

$2,000 In Jewels Reported Stolen

Sidney G. Rubin, of 20 Marshall street, Newton Centre, reported to police this week that more than $2,000 worth of jewelry had been taken from his home.

Stolen from a jewel box in the bedroom of Mr. Rubin's home was a 2 1/2 carat diamond ring valued at $2,000, a wedding band worth $265 and costume jewelry valued at $50.

Some time ago the Board of Directors of the Newton Chamber of Commerce recognized the need of having a complete printed story on Newton which could be given free to the many prospective residents and firms which inquire yearly at the Chamber office.

A committee was appointed by President Dwight Colburn to compile such a booklet, and now a wealth of data, statistics and photos have been condensed into a six fold, 12 page brochure.

Baby's Cries Arouse Family As Fumes Threaten 7 Lives

Doreen Berkeley, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Berkeley, was accredited with saving herself and five other members of the household at 33 Central avenue, Newtonville, when she woke up and cried lustily.

She lapsed into unconsciousness when her father picked her up. Almost immediately he became aware that deadly fumes were filling the bedrooms of the house—threatening the lives of its seven occupants.

Another daughter, Donna, 13, came out of her bedroom as Mr. Berkeley cradled Doreen in his arms. She took a few steps and collapsed. As he moved to aid her, his wife called out that her father, John Fitzgerald, 67, who lives with the Berkeleys, had collapsed in his room.

Berkeley had no idea of the exact cause of the swift developments. "I thought he (Mr. Fitzgerald) had a heart attack," he said.

City-Wide Appeal For Save "America" House

The movement to save the Smith House, home of the author of the hymn "America," gained momentum as a large group of aroused Newton residents met last Thursday evening at the Playground House, Tyler Terrace, Newton Centre, to plan a campaign for funds.

William Lincoln, 34 Hammond Street, and Kivie Kaplan, 75 Hammond Street, co-chairmen of the drive, sparked the fund raising efforts by each delivering to Walter Kreske, president of the association, checks for $1,000.

Pledges to raise $1,000 were also announced by Mrs. Charles Pinanski Schiff, 34 Tyler terrace, Philip Lowe, 125 Cedar street, and Walter Kreske, 50 Tyler terrace, all of Newton. Many other pledges of money, services and other items were also volunteered at the meeting.

Mr. Kreske read to the meeting a letter from Mrs. Peter F. Coogan, chairman of the Newton Campaign Committee offering the services of the Campaign Girls, with capable supervision, to restore to beauty the

Newtonville Boy Wins 1st Prize In Auto Contest

A student at Newton Technical School has won a first prize in a national automobile company's 1958 Industrial Arts Awards. He is Roy A. Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Butler of 470 California street, Newtonville.

The award includes a check for $100, a gold pin, and certificates for himself, his instructor, and his school.

His project, a post lantern complete with sign and post, was made in the Sheet Metal Department under the direction of Nicholas A. Penta. This same department won awards in 1958 for products made by its students.

More than 4,500 projects were entered in the contest, which included schools in Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, as well as all 48 states. The following paragraphs are quoted from the letter received by young Butler announcing his achievement:

"Your project, as an example of the finest work being done in the school systems of this country, will be on display in some of our largest cities during August and September. It will be returned to you in care of your principal by November 1.

"We are very proud of you and the other talented young people whose work will be on exhibit with yours.

tion in turning out a winning team.

The forward line not only has size but maneuverability. And better than that it appears that Bud has at least two frontiers of more than passing worth.

The backfield will be operating without the genius of Charlie Vento. In his shoes will be Captain Buddy Russo, who'll bring all the necessary spark-plug attributes to the job of quarterback.

Buddy spent most of his 1957 grid work on defense. He was a bearcat despite his lack of weight—he tips the scales at 150—and now he must assume the tough job of the offensive-minded quarterback.

He has been working hard on the intricacies of T-formation ball-handling. The coaching staff seems to think he'll do.

On the basis of his showing in the Chelsea, Weymouth and Gloucester scrimmages he has good play judgment. In both those pre-season tests he displayed an accurate forward passing talent and he turned in some good gains on the keeper-plays.

The starting backfield quartet will include Pete Thompson, a veteran, and Dave Connors, who showed all kinds of promise last year as a sophomore, at the halves. Dave Rand, sidelined by a serious eye-injury, last season, will handle the fullback duties with the starting eleven. If he lives up to his brilliant promise before he was shunted aside by the injury-jinx, the starting four will be more than adequate.

The starters have been getting most of their competition for regular jobs from a host of good-looking backs. The best of the reserves appear to be Tony Lavelly at quarter; Gerry Kenney, Steve Gordon and Ralph Guzzetti at the halves and Cliff Gaysunati and Gerry Marchand at fullback.

It's the forward wall, however, that delights most Orange supporters at the moment. It could very well be that in the matter of size alone Newton High will field the biggest inside line high school football in the Greater Boston area has known since the latter years of Denny Gildes' stewardship as Everett High coach.

From tackle to tackle two sets of forwards can show an average of 200 pounds, inside the tackles. The boys aren't the roly-poly, over-fed type either. They come rangy and some are equipped with more than a little speed.

Dick Perkins and Dick Monforte are around 230 pounds. Other candidates include John Impeduglia, 190; Don Lawrence, 190; Chris Lee, 190; Don LaTona, 195; John O'Brien, 200; Tom Martin, 210; Tom Tobin, 210, and John Whalen, 210.

Right now it appears that Perkins, LaTona and Impeduglia will be starters. Perkins got a wealth of experience last year. LaTona and Impeduglia were ineligibles a year ago, but both were extremely promising as soph.

Martin has been slowed down in practice by a groin injury, but he's fast recovering and looks like a regular. Also tabbed for a starting berth is Tom Tobin, a transfer from Our Lady's High.

yards and gardens of the Smith House, Mrs. Coogan stated that the Campfire Girls would be happy to keep the premises tidy until a caretaker was appointed, and that thereafter they would cooperate in any other way in which they could be helpful.

Kivie Kaplan acknowledged the importance of the large pledges announced at the meeting and stressed that the campaign could only be successful if many small pledges were obtained from a great many people. He emphasized that pennies would count and that since "America" is a song that all youngsters know and sing, they should have a part in the campaign to save the Smith House.

Indicative of the interest of youth in the project was the offer by Tony Summers, 1175 Centre street, and Arthur Sudater, 216 Country Club road, seniors at Newton High School, to organize a campaign to raise funds from high school students.

Plans were discussed at the meeting for the establishment of a Dr. Samuel Francis Smith Day on which a celebration will be held in honor of the 150th anniversary of the birth of the author of "America". Committees are also to be organized to contact organizations, business institutions and citizens in the Newton area.

Gordon F. Bloom, director of public relations for the drive, stated that initially the campaign would be conducted in the City of Newton but that, in view of the broad appeal of the project, it would undoubtedly be extended on a state-wide basis and perhaps would eventually become a national campaign for a national shrine.

A report meeting to review the progress of the campaign will be held in the Playground House on Tyler terrace on Thursday, October 2, at 8:00 p.m.

Many Volunteers Badly Needed By United Fund

More than 2,000 volunteer solicitors are needed for Newton's 1958 United Fund Drive to help raise the community's share of the $10,000,000 goal, according to Philip K. Brown, area chairman.

"All our workers," said Brown, "must be enrolled by Monday, Oct. 6, the date of our fourth enrollment meeting. During the past year 17,519 Newton residents received direct aid benefits from 669 of the 288 Red Feather agencies, all of which are partly financed by United Fund contributions."

Brown also noted that 6,400 Newton residents received Red Feather benefits at 21 Greater Boston hospitals. This included 4,117 Newton patients at the Newton Wellesley Hospital.

Three Red Feather agencies used by 1,356 people, while 10 Family Services and Relief agencies provided assistance to 888 Newton residents in need. Employment bureaus and aid agencies helped 170 handicapped Garden City people, while more than 300 children were assisted by 11 Children's Service agencies.

Seventeen Youth Agencies provided recreation for 14,412 Newton teenagers. The Norumbega Council, Boy Scouts of America, gave 4,225 Scouts opportunities for greater participation in scouting, and the Girl Scout Council has 2,761 participants while the Newton YMCA provided recreational facilities for 3,516 youths.

The names of various divisional directors were announced by Brown. They are: Residential Division, Charles Garfinkle, 18 Baker place, Newton Lower Falls; General Business Division, Robert Sliney, 32 Langley road, Newton Centre; Administration Division, Miss Adelaide Ball, 35 Waban street, Newton Centre; Worker Education Division, Chester Tracy, Jr., 46 Cherry street, West Newton; Public Relations, William Robert Haney, 797 Washington street, Newtonville.

Chairman Garfinkle announced the names of Area Chairmen. They are:

Area A (Auburndale, Newton Lower Falls, Waban and West Newton) — Simon Scheff, 40 Orchard avenue, West Newton. Area B (Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, Newton Upper Falls, Oak Hill) — Francis J. Vaas, 538 Ward street, Newton Centre. Area C (Chestnut Hill, Newton Corner, Newtonville, Nonantum) — George H. Malone. Area A requires 12 district chairmen, 45 captains and 639 workers; Area B needs 15 district chairmen, 57 captains and 734 workers, while Area C's quota is 10 district chairmen, 49 captains and 627 workers.

Edward J. McCormack, Jr., Praised By Late George Fingold's Top Aide

EDWARD J. MCCORMACK JR.

Attorney General Edward J. McCormack, Jr., the Democratic nominee for the post, began his interim term as the State's chief law enforcement officer with unexpected praise from the man who served the late George Fingold as first assistant attorney general.

"From personal observation of Attorney General McCormack," said Fred W. Fisher of Dedham, a Republican, "I can say he is going to administer the office in accordance with the highest tradition possible. I am sure that the high traditions of the attorney general's office will be maintained."

Fisher is one of 19 assistants who accepted McCormack's offer to stay on in office as a tribute to Fingold's memory. However, Fisher will not continue as first assistant attorney general.

His praise for Attorney General McCormack was expressed at a luncheon tendered by the latter for all legislators and members of the press. Fisher lauded Attorney General McCormack for the "absolute fairness" of his treatment of Fingold's staff.

The luncheon, held in the Boston Club, gave McCormack his first chance to meet with Senators, Representatives and Democratic party leaders since his election by the Legislature as interim attorney general. McCormack, greeted with an enthusiastic ovation, said he conferred with members of Fingold's staff individually.

"At no time," he said, "did I ask any one of them to campaign for me. But I asked that they not campaign against me since that would mean they were not loyal to me as the attorney general. I want their loyalty to me as attorney general, not as a Democrat."

McCormack then promised the legislators that he will carry out "the duties of my office in a manner that no act of mine will be embarrassing to you for having elected me."

The legislators heard brief addresses also by House Speaker John F. Thompson, who presided; Senator Maurice A. Donahue of Holyoke; Rep. John J. Toomey of Cambridge; Rep. Leo Sontag of Roxbury; Rep. Charles Artesani of Allston; Rep. Alvin Tamkin of Dorchester, and others.

Rep. Artesani, who will soon become presiding justice of the Brighton District Court, hailed the Legislature's election of McCormack as "the greatest day in my 18 years in the State House." He described Attorney General McCormack as "clean, decent, honorable and very capable."

On the question about the advisability of McCormack accepting election as the interim Attorney General, Artesani said: "If it was going to be bad for McCormack to take the job, then every Republican in the Legislature would have voted for him on the first ballot. But they didn't."

Wellesley Concert Series To Open at College October 29th

The Wellesley Concert Series opens its 1958-59 season at Alumnus Hall, Wellesley College, on October 29, with a concert by Blanche Thebom, famous mezzo-soprano star of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Miss Thebom's singing has been widely hailed throughout the international musical world and she has made outstanding successes in Europe and South America. Last season, she was the first American singer to take part in the cultural exchange program with the Soviet Union, created a new role in the revival of Berlioz' "The Trojans" at London, made a seven-week tour of Latin America for the State Department and represented the United States at the Brussels World Fair.

The second concert will be given by the Beaux Arts Trio on November 19. Composed of Daniel Giletti, violinist, Bernard Greenhouse, cellist, and Menahem Pressler, pianist, the Beaux Arts Trio has played the Beethoven Triple Concerto with the Boston Symphony at Tanglewood and with the Chicago and Cincinnati Symphonies.

They have recorded for MGM the Ravel Trio (which they have included on their Wellesley program) as well as trios by Faure, Haydn and Mendelssohn.

On February 17, Paul Badura-Skoda, known throughout the world as Austria's foremost pianist, will make his first Wellesley appearance. In 1948, he won the Bartok Competition in Budapest and a year later, the Paris Competition.

His brilliant recordings for

BLANCHE THEBOM

Westminster, especially of the music of Mozart, had made him famous in America even before his debut here and his first New York and Boston recitals in 1953-54 fulfilled every expectation. Since that time, he has toured America from coast to coast and appeared with the symphony orchestras of New York, Boston, Los Angeles, Washington, Cincinnati and Detroit among many others.

The final concert, on April 21, will present Andres Segovia, one of the greatest musicians of the present day. It has been justly said that Segovia is to the guitar what Casals is to the cello.

Through his concerts and recordings, Segovia is the main reason for the present interest in the "classical guitar", but his renditions of national Spanish music are equally exciting. His concert will be a fitting end to an unusually fine series.

Since the Wellesley Concert Series is a non-profit organization, designed to serve the community, subscriptions may be had at very reasonable rates.

Several of the officers administered oxygen to the older man and carried him to the waiting ambulance for transfer to Newton-Wellesley Hospital. David Berkeley, 6, aroused by the commotion, got out of bed and staggered to the hallway, where he collapsed. He, too, was taken to the hospital.

Also affected by the fumes were Doreen's twin brother, Dana, and her sister, Diane, 10. Mr. Berkeley highly praised police and firemen for their assistance. "They were wonderful," he said.

Assistant Fire Chief Henry L. Murphy found that the fumes were issuing from the charcoal fire because a damper in the fireplace was closed.

Herter Outlines Qualifications For Service as Attorney General

Governor's Councillor Christian A. Herter, Jr., today reviewed in detail his qualifications for service as Attorney General of the Commonwealth, the office he is seeking in the State election.

He pointed out that he has served in both the legislative and executive branches of the State government, that he filled a position of high responsibility and trust in the federal government and that in private life he has been an active practicing attorney.

In each capacity in which he has served Herter has been regarded as an outstanding young public leader.

During his three years as a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives he demonstrated a keen and sound understanding of legislative problems.

For the past two years as a member of the Governor's Council he has commanded respect and recognition for the qualities of leadership he has shown in meeting the problems which have arisen in the executive end of the government.

His legal talents and ability were tested and proven during the two years he served as General Counsel for the Foreign Operations Administration in Washington. His work in that capacity commanded widespread attention in the capital.

Even his wartime service in the Army, he showed his ability as a leader, enlisting as a private and rising to a rank of major.

A number of the veterans who served with Herter during the fighting across France and Germany in World War II are working to help achieve his election as Attorney General.

A combat veteran who was in the thick of the fighting with the 14th armored division, Herter was wounded in action and decorated for bravery. The French government conferred the Croix de Guerre upon him. He also received the Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster and was awarded the Purple Heart.

Herter is an honor graduate of both Harvard College and the Harvard Law School. His scholastic attainments at Harvard won him membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

"I am standing for election as Attorney General because I believe I can be of greater service to the people of Massachusetts," Herter declared at meeting this week held in a number of communities.

"During my service in the House of Representatives, the Governor's Council and General Counsel for the Foreign Operations Administration I hope I have demonstrated both my ability and my sincerity of purpose," Councillor Herter stated. ## Political Highlights without giving him a complimentary vote than went by Furcolo's name two weeks ago.

It should be understood that some persons just don't take the time or trouble to cast complimentary votes so that a certain percentage of blanks can be expected when a candidate is unopposed.

Some news reports have declared that the proportion of blanks for Governor Furcolo and Senator Kennedy in the Sept. 9 primary was higher than usual and that normally about 11 percent of the votes are blanks when a candidate has no opposition.

That is true of a Republican primary, but the records clearly show that it is not the case in a Democratic primary where the average number of blanks for an unopposed candidate under favorable circumstances is in excess of 20 percent.

Republicans are more disposed to cast complimentary votes than are the Democrats, possibly because the Democrats ordinarily have more fights to settle in their own party than do the Republicans and are more interested in the outcome of primary contests than in the size of the vote for unopposed candidates.

In the case of Furcolo the cold political fact of the matter is that the incidence of blanks was surprisingly and unexpectedly low.

That also places a somewhat different light upon the fact that Governor Furcolo ran 6733 votes ahead of Kennedy.

Kennedy actually polled a very good complimentary vote. Furcolo simply rolled up a slightly better one.

The theory that Kennedy lost a substantial number of votes because many persons didn't notice his name at the side of the ballot does not stand up in the face of the figures which reveal that Kennedy ran about 8000 votes ahead of Lieutenant Governor Robert F. Murphy.

Vincent J. Celeste, the Republican nominee for U. S. Senator, trailed his party's candidate for Lieutenant Governor by 31,000 votes.

These figures don't mean that Furcolo is certain of gaining reelection. What they do reveal beyond any question is that Furcolo is extremely strong in the Democratic party at a time when a Democratic tide is flowing.

Gibbons Sticker Vote Amazing Herter Is Strong Man of GOP

Official figures disclose that the sticker vote recorded for former Speaker Gibbons on the Republican side was amazing.

Political experts usually figure that about one out of every two persons who endeavor to cast sticker votes will fail to do so either because they put the sticker in the wrong place, fail to mark a cross beside the candidate's name or make some other mistake which causes the vote to be invalidated.

The GOP figures, however, show that more than 60 percent of the Republicans who went to the polls cast valid sticker votes for Gibbons and that, taking into consideration the complimentary votes for the late George Fingold and the returns for the candidates who unsuccessfully challenged Gibbons, only about 30 percent of the Republican ballots contained blanks for Governor.

Governor's Councillor Christian A. Herter, Jr., GOP nominee for Attorney General, piled up a remarkable complimentary vote. Even though Herter's name was the last of the State-wide candidates to be listed on the Republican ballot, he polled the largest vote total, with about 89 percent of the Republicans casting complimentary votes for him.

The other GOP candidates were closely bunched except for Vincent J. Celeste, the Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate, who ran somewhat behind his ticket mates. In Celeste's case the conclusion is that some Republicans passed by his name either because they were intent on casting sticker votes for Gibbons or because they intend to vote for Senator Kennedy in November. A combination of the two factors probably kept his vote down.

One of the surprises was the showing made by former Republican State Committee Chairman Elmer C. Nelson who has been something of a stormy petrel in the GOP. Although he trailed fairly substantially behind Herter, Nelson was the second highest Republican vote-getter.

Furcolo-Gibbons Fight Looms As Rugged, Two-Fisted Battle

Political observers, who differ on just about everything else concerning the campaign now beginning to gather momentum, are in agreement that the contest for the Governorship between Governor Furcolo and former Speaker Charles Gibbons will be a rugged, two-fisted fight.

Furcolo and Gibbons both are forceful and seasoned campaigners who know how to strip off the gloves and battle in bare-knuckle fashion when the occasion demands it. In their case the occasion seems almost imminent.

Gibbons already has levelled an attack upon the Furcolo administration, using phrases which ordinarily come at the height of a campaign as nerves grow taut and tempers frayed.

Furcolo up to this point hasn't done much hitting back, but he isn't likely to remain long in the role of political target without firing back with both barrels.

The overriding issue of the gubernatorial campaign

DeNucci Wins 14th Straight; Enrolls at B.U. to Study $$$

If and when he reaches the top echelon of big-gate boxing returns, Newton's Joe DeNucci will be able to count the in-coming green stuff and put it to work where it will do the most good.

The Pride of Nonantum has registered at Boston University. He plans to take a course in economics and finance.

That should stand him in good stead if he'll be able to keep on adding to his win streak; cops the middleweight crown and gets himself involved in nice, juicy ring encounters which will pack the stadia and transfer the TV showings out of the living room into the theatres.

Joe added another to his list of victories in the semi-final of the Pep-Bassey bout at Boston Garden. The win was No. 14.

His opponent was the veteran wheelhorse from Baltimore—Johnny Cunningham. Johnny, who once juggled garbage cans as a public works department employee in his home city, was a repeat in the Newton boy's climb up the ladder.

Cunningham, whose much longer ring record lists a win and a draw with Carmen Basilio, a win over ex-lightweight boss, Jimmy Carter, and a near-miss in a torrid bout with Kid Gavilan, again carried Joe to a decision.

Their first bout went eight rounds. They went eight again in their latest meeting. Joe was returned the winner on each occasion.

Accordingly, Joe remains on the ascent. Now the boys are talking about catching Johnny Saxton for him in another build-up bout. If it can be done, Joe and Saxton will be trotted out up to now has been developed by the Boston Herald in its news stories and editorials on the rental of equipment by the State Public Works Department.

Some uncertainty exists, however, in the minds of political onlookers as to exactly what impact that issue has had upon the gubernatorial contest and whether the voters consider that Governor Furcolo is responsible for what happens in the public works agency.

Certainly, there was no evidence that Furcolo's vote in the primary was affected by the public works controversy, and the Herald had been publishing stories about the rental of equipment for several weeks prior to the primary.

On the basis of the primary returns—and they offer the only tangible thing now on which to shape an opinion—some experts suspect that the public works department may be a little too remote from Furcolo to be used effectively as an issue against him.

That undoubtedly has not escaped the attention of Republican strategists who are mapping their party's plans and are seeking to determine what arguments might be employed with most telling effect against Furcolo.

As the campaign moves along, the likelihood is that the political battling will gradually veer away from the public works department and centre more on what Furcolo has and hasn't done as Governor and on what Gibbons did and didn't do during his 14 years in the House.

One thing which may be said for both Furcolo and Gibbons is that they don't dodge issues. They meet them head-on. And they normally would be on opposite sides of most controversial questions concerning the State government. That in itself should enliven their campaign and generate greater public interest in it.

Before the gubernatorial clash boils to a close early in November both Furcolo and Gibbons undoubtedly will be called upon repeatedly to defend the public stands they have taken.

Furcolo and Gibbons each will have certain factors working in his favor in their race to election day.

Furcolo should be aided by the fact that a Democratic tide is running, even though Massachusetts is what is known as a ballot-splitting State.

Gibbons may be helped by the fact that this is a so-called off-year election, which means that no President is being chosen and that the Democratic vote ordinarily falls off more sharply than the Republican vote.

In the last six State elections held in non-Presidential years the Republicans have captured the Governorship four times and the Democrats twice. The Democratic victories were rather far apart, James M. Curley winning in 1934 and Paul A. Dever gaining a second term in 1950.

Atty. Gen. Race Overshadows Fight for U. S. Senate Seat

Ordinarily, a fight for a seat in the U. S. Senate would have equal political billing with a clash for the Governorship.

Senator John F. Kennedy, however, is going to have a difficult time convincing anyone that he has a battle on his hands, even though he did trail-Governor Furcolo slightly on the primary returns.

Kennedy apparently intends to run "scared." But his contest with Vincent J. Celeste of East Boston probably will not arouse as much public interest as the fight between Attorney General Edward J. McCormack, Jr., and Governor's Councillor Christian A. Herter, Jr., for the right to serve as the next Attorney General.

Herter on the strength of the primary figures shapes up as the strong man of the Republican ticket. McCormack probably strengthened his position by becoming the interim Attorney General, although the political pundits are not in complete agreement that that is so.

Some observers believe that the benefits accruing to him through the prestige, power and title of the Attorney General's office may be offset by the fact that the newness of his duties will keep him at the State House during the business day and limit his campaign activity largely to nights and weekends.

McCormack engaged in three fairly rugged fights before even starting his final drive for election. He won the endorsement of the Democratic State Convention on the fourth ballot last June. He beat back a stiff challenge by former Governor's Councillor Endicott Peabody in the primary a fortnight ago and then won election as interim Attorney General on the third ballot at a joint session of the two branches of the State Legislature.

Herter started out as a candidate for Governor early last winter. He conceded the nomination of the late George Fingold midway through the voting on the first ballot at the Republican pre-primary convention in Worcester and then at Fingold's urging agreed to accept the endorsement for Attorney General.

Sometimes a candidate benefits from primary victory and gains momentum for his campaign, as Governor Furcolo did two years ago. Other times he may be hurt by the rifts and wounds which a hard fight can open. Only time will tell which was the case for McCormack.

Chairman of the newly created Rating Committee, Mr. Landers will be responsible for the evaluation of contributions to the annual CIA campaign.

Technical Student Wins Top Prize

Roy A. Butler, a student at Newton Technical High School, has won a first prize in the Ford Motor Company's 1958 Industrial Art Award competition.

Roy's achievement was for him a $100 check, a gold pin and certificates for himself and his instructor at the school, Nicholas A. Penta of the sheet metal department.

The boy's entry was a post lantern complete with sign and post. In 1956, the same department of the Technical High School won both first and second awards for projects turned out by its students.

More than 4500 projects were entered in the contest. Students participating came from all the 48 states, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

"Your project," the boy was informed in a letter announcing his selection, "as an example of the finest work of its kind being done in the school systems of these countries, will be on display in some of our largest cities. It will be returned to your principal by Nov. 1.

"We are proud of you and the other talented young people whose work will be on exhibit with yours. May we wish you the best of success in the future and express the hope that you will continue to develop your singular abilities."

Democratic Leaders Pledge United Support to John L. Saltonstall, Jr.

Democratic political leaders in the 10th Congressional District pledged a unified campaign to elect John L. Saltonstall, Jr. as congressman, at a meeting held Tuesday in the Hotel Kenmore.

Among the invited guests were Gov. Foster Furcolo, U.S. Senator John F. Kennedy and Congressman John W. McCormack, majority leader in the U.S. House of Representatives, as well as other state constitutional officers.

Pledging their support to Saltonstall were his two primary opponents—Joseph J. Mulhern Jr. and City Councilman Edward F. McLaughlin Jr.

"I feel greatly honored that Joe Mulhern and Ed McLaughlin are here today," Saltonstall declared. "They have been very generous in offering their support to me in this fight to gain the 10th Congressional District seat for responsible Democratic leadership. I am most grateful."

Saltonstall said his organization was working with the entire Democratic ticket.

"We are cooperating in every respect, from registration to election day. We are working in unison with Senator Kennedy and Governor Furcolo, and with the ticket from top to bottom and from bottom to top, to achieve a sweeping Democratic victory in November," Saltonstall asserted.

Saltonstall said he would soon set up headquarters in various parts of Boston, Brookline and Newton, and that all other Democratic candidates in the district were welcome to display their signs or literature in his headquarters.

Among Democratic candidates invited to the Saltonstall meeting were: Lt. Gov. Robert F. Murphy; Secretary of State Edward J. Cronin, State Treasurer John F. Kennedy, Auditor Thomas J. Buckley and Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr.; Abraham H. Kahalas, and Patrick J. McDonough, candidates for Governor's Council; Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne, Clerks of Superior Court Thomas Dorgan and William M. Prendible; Register of Deeds Joseph D. Coughlin and Register of Probate John F. Collins.

Also the following state senatorial candidates—John F. Melia, Middlesex and Suffolk; Peter M. McCormack, Norfolk and Suffolk; Richard R. Caples, 3rd Suffolk; Senator James W. Hennigan Jr., 5th Suffolk; and Senator A. Frank Foster, 6th Suffolk District.

State Representative candidates invited were: Alfred R. Guzzi and Francis M. Morris of Newton, 4th Middlesex; Harold Rosenwald and Robert Shaw of Newton, 5th Middlesex; Reps. John W. Costello and James J. Craven Jr. of Boston's 18th Suffolk; Reps. Edmund J. Donlan, Charles Robert Doyle and Joseph M. O'Loughlin of West Roxbury's 19th Suffolk; Rep. Norman S. Weinberg of Brighton, Peter J. Ciocherty and William F. Joyce, also of Brighton, candidates in the 20th Suffolk District.

N.C. Man Seeks Justice For Sherlock Holmes In Russia

Acting as counsel in a case certain to attract attention of the entire free world, Harold J. Berman, 64 Homer street, Newton Centre, a professor at Harvard Law School, is in Moscow.

His mission will go a long way toward determining whether it is possible for a litigant from outside the Iron Curtain to obtain a fair hearing in the courts of Russia.

Actually Professor Berman will be appearing as attorney for the estate of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes. It is estimated that Russians have been liking their non-Communist mystery stories so well—especially the Sherlock Holmes variety—that Russo publishers have cleaned up some $3½ million.

For some time Adrian M. Conan Doyle, son of the noted author, has been trying to get some return in the form of royalties. He believes that the Russian publishers owe the estate about $500,000.

Recently, Adlai Stevenson on his tour of Russia brought up the matter of fair royalty payments and some sort of international agreements which would safeguard the work of authors, artists, etc., on a world-wide basis.

Apparently he didn't get very far with his appeal to reason and fairness.

Professor Berman went to Russia early in 1957 on the Sherlock Holmes case. At that time he conferred, among others, with President G. T. Cheburakhin of the Moscow bar's foreign division. Cheburakhin offered aid.

However, the Harvard Law professor heard nothing from the Russian courts on a formal complaint he lodged in July. The complaint was based on his interpretation of general Russian law to the effect that persons or organizations unjustly enriched may be obliged to make restitution.

The professor is a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Yale Law School. He studied at the London School of Economics for a year. He served with the Army Signal Corps Intelligence during World War II.

Large Group To Welcome All GOP Candidates Here

Mrs. David M. Schulman, chairman of the "Candidates' Night" being sponsored by the Newton United Republican Victory Committee on Thursday, October 9th, announced this week that 108 Newton citizens would act as host and hostesses for the G.O.P. candidates.

The auditorium of the Beethoven School will be sectioned off so that every candidate for national, state and county office will have one particular spot in which to greet interested citizens. The corridor leading to the auditorium will also be arranged so that the host and hostesses will have an opportunity to assist those in attendance.

This G.O.P. Candidates' Night is expected to attract one of the largest gatherings that the local Republican groups have ever had. Of particular interest will be the Republican candidate for United States Senate, Vincent J. Celeste. Mr. Celeste has previously attended a meeting of the Republican City Committee last May, but has not had the opportunity to meet others within the city.

In accepting the invitation to attend, Mr. Celeste stated, "I am looking forward with great anticipation to meeting with the citizens of Newton and hope that many will avail themselves to the opportunity of meeting and talking with the Republican candidate for United States Senator. I fully realize that my opponent for this high office is as well known as any candidate in either party. For this reason, it is my desire to meet as many persons as is possible so that they might become familiar with the basic issues of this contest as well as to fully realize that I shall conduct a hard-hitting campaign throughout Massachusetts."

New Brochure—

Including John McCarthy, Charles Martell, Edmund J. Shae and Justin T. Horan, weighed each item for its importance before giving it a place in the finished brochure.

The result of the efforts of the committee is a compact booklet which includes 15 photos, a map showing the main routes in the city, public buildings, villages and schools, seven articles describing the many aspects of Newton and a statistical review of the city.

Plans call for this brochure to be made available to all members of the Chamber, their salesmen and representatives, and all prospective and existing residents and firms on a limited basis.

In a statement, Mr. Colburn said, "The Newton Chamber of Commerce is extremely proud of this new brochure. It is through this and numerous projects which the Chamber is working on that benefits accrue not only to Newton business, but to the entire community as well."

Religious School Opens Wednesday

Dr. Harrell Beck will be the featured speaker at the Newton Centre Falls School of Religion, which will be held on four consecutive Wednesday evenings, Oct. 1-22, at Parish Hall of the Trinity Church in Newton Centre.

The meetings will open at 7:45 each Wednesday evening with an address on the "Religion of the Prophets" by Dr. Beck, associate professor of Old Testament at Boston University. A choice of topics, "Introduction to the New Testament" and "Understanding and Practicing Prayer" will be offered.

Red Cross To Train Women For Hospitals

The Newton Red Cross will interview interested volunteers at the Chapter House next Wednesday evening between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

Each year qualified women from this area are afforded an opportunity to receive without charge the training required to work in hospitals.

The Newton-Wellesley hospital with its increased facilities finds need for additional volunteers who can mature up to the high standards currently maintained.

The local Red Cross chapters will recruit and train those people who possess the talents and disposition to become qualified hospital workers. Nurses Aides are also trained for varied programs in the community.

Those interested may contact Mrs. Joseph C. MacDonald, chairman, at DE 2-0293 or the Chapter House, LA 7-6000.

Adams Says Auditor Buckley To Be Eligible for Pension if Reelected

Thomas H. Adams, Republican candidate for State Auditor, declared today that his Democratic opponent, Auditor Thomas J. Buckley, will become eligible for a "generous" State pension in 1961 if he is reelected in November for another two-year term.

In a statement today Adams said: "Unless the voters of Massachusetts take immediate action against the political impersonators who have gained and held state office on the reputations

Dr. R. Emerson Sylvester Heads Halloween Committee

Dr. R. Emerson Sylvester of 81 Woodland Rd., Auburndale, will serve as General Chairman of Newton's city-wide Halloween celebration for the third consecutive year it was reported today.

The Chairman has scheduled a preliminary meeting at the Beethoven School, Waban, on Tuesday, September 30, at 7:30 P.M. Program organization will be discussed at this meeting.

Those invited to attend include Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., Recreation Commissioner C. Evan Johnson, Charles E. Brown, Assistant to the Superintendent, representing the School Department and Mrs. Ragna Hovgaard who will again serve as Program Chairman.

City Clerk Monte G. Basbas, Vice Chairman of the Halloween Committee, will show a documentary film of past celebrations.

Refreshments will be served by the Hospitality Committee of the Hyde School Parent-Teacher Association under the direction of its Chairman, Mrs. Charles Thompson.

Presiding at the tea table will be Mrs. Howard Whitmore, Jr., Mrs. Worthing L. West, Chairman of the Recreation Commission, Mrs. R. Emerson Sylvester, and Mrs. Charles Brown.

Dr. Sylvester, who will head Newton's 18th Annual Halloween observance, was born in Boston, son of a doctor. Educated in the Somerville Schools, he was graduated from Browne and Nichols School in Cambridge and the Huntington School, Boston. He received his B.S. from Tufts University and is a graduate of the Boston University School of Medicine.

Dr. Sylvester served a year with the United States Army and then joined the staff of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. He is a Fellow of the American Medical Association and a Director of the Massachusetts Academy of General Practice.

The father of three children, Dr. Sylvester is a Past President of the Williams School Parent-Teacher Association, President of the Board of Trustees of the Centenary Methodist Church, President of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health As-of more respected namesakes, the Commonwealth's much-abused pension system will suffer another body blow two years hence.

"I am referring to the present and future plans of Thomas Buckley, who has served our State as Auditor since 1941. A political unknown then, he was elected because too many Massachusetts voters mistook him for another Thomas Buckley who had served in that office from 1935-39 and unfortunately for good government too many voters still have the Buckleys mixed up.

"Auditor Buckley No. 2, if reelected in November, will be starting on the last lap of his goal—a generous state pension that will become payable in 1961. Two more years in office will insure him a lavish reward for his minor contributions to our state government. He will merit it only because of longevity.

"The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, actually a gigantic business concern that employs 34,000 men and women in its many departments, has a total payroll of about $140 millions. Most of us know about the abuses inflicted on the Department of Public Works' payroll. Unfortunately, for the state, Auditor Buckley No. 2 does not appear to share our knowledge, strange as that may seem.

"If he did know about the rented station wagons and $50 lawn mowers, the duties of his office would force him to take immediate and drastic action.

"But during his entire state auditor's career, Buckley No. 2 has concerned himself with and become excited about only such foolproof political subjects as the MTA ever-mushrooming annual deficit. Next to the weather, the Metropolitan Transit Authority's deficit is the safest possible topic for political discussion.

"Every election year since 1941, Auditor Buckley has made the MTA deficit his political whipping boy. It is his way of assuring the voters that he still is among the living.

"When a business firm gets into financial difficulties, it must be reorganized. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, owing $1¼ billions, is on the verge of bankruptcy. All of its elected executives must be changed immediately. When business experts take over an ailing concern, they generally concentrate on its auditing department. A sick Massachusetts is in dire need of a new state auditor. It is the Auditor's duty to protect the Commonwealth against its elected wastrels. He can keep them on the road to economical government by calling public attention to the waste, extravagance and payroll padding his audits uncover in all of the state's departments.

"Massachusetts can regain solvency only under new management."

Congressman Curtis' Experience, Seniority Important to District

The seniority attained by Congressman Laurence Curtis in the national House of Representatives during the past six years will enable him to be of greater service to his district and its people during the next two years.

That was pointed out today in a statement issued by a group of civic leaders who warmly praised Curtis' public record and urged that he be re-elect to Congress for another term. They characterized Curtis as "a full-time Congressman who is dedicated and devoted to the public service and who gives all his time, energy and talents to his congressional duties."

Congressman Curtis, they cited, is in an especially unique position to be of service to the residents of his district on any problems which are international in nature.

Earlier this year, Curtis was appointed to the highly important House Foreign Affairs Committee. In effect, this was a congressional promotion in recognition of the calibre of his work in performing both his general duties as a Congressman and his assignments as a member of the House Committee on the Judiciary.

As a Republican, Congressman Curtis has access to the White House during the Eisenhower administration and will continue to be in that fortunate position for at least the next two years.

He is in constant contact not only with Senator Leverett Saltonstall but also with UN Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Under Secretary of State Christian A. Herter because of the nature of his work on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The civic spokesmen advocating the reelection of Congressman Curtis called attention to the fact that he has kept in close touch with the people of his district and that he has held regular clinics to give them an opportunity to confer with him on any problems of a federal nature.

"We need Laurence Curtis in Congress," they asserted. "The seniority he has achieved and the experience he has gained should be of tremendous importance during the two years just ahead."

Congressman Curtis, in his speeches to groups backing his candidate, also emphasized that the experience he has gained should stand him in good stead during the next two years.

Curtis pointed out it takes time for any new Congressman, however broad and extensive his previous public service may have been, to familiarize himself with the widely diversified operations of the federal government.

Experience and seniority are tremendous assets to any Congressman," Curtis said, "and I am certain that, with six years in Congress behind me, I can be of even greater service to the people of the 10th congressional district during the next two years."

Before his election to Congress Curtis served as State Treasurer, as a member of the Boston City Council, the Massachusetts House of Representatives and the State Senate. He is a graduate of Harvard College and the Harvard Law School and at one time also served as an Assistant U. S. Attorney.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton High School

By JUDY ARNOLD

HIGHLIGHTS . . . With the advent of the new school term teachers and pupils alike are looking forward with great anticipation to the events of this year. Newton High's centennial. To begin with, many things have been changed for 1958-59. All plans are emphasizing new and unusual activities and interesting ways of presenting old ideas.

Chronologically, next Friday's Tigerama is the first all-school event of this year and it will start off the centennial celebration with a motorcade. The prize will be seventy-five, fifty and twenty-five gallons of gasoline for first, second, and third places, respectively. There have been many entrants and different types of floats are expected. The motorcade will be followed by the usual dancing and entertainment and games and rallying in the school gym. Howie Levine heads the Tigerama Committee for this year.

Even the book covers and orange books have been changed for this special year. The book covers are designed on a centennial theme and have had a very successful sales campaign. The same success holds true for the Orange Book, whose editor is Judith Cohen. David Ballen is business manager and Jerry Kenney, assistant business manager. Robert Baker, Irma Barron, Maxine Cohen, Fred Doctoroff, Katharine Dynes, Mike Greenwald, Richard Hession, Toni Kadetsky, Sylvia Katsenes, Joanne Kneeland, David Levine, Marshall Levine, Margaret Rapp, Steven Rosenberg, Ruth Sheper, Gail Sloane, Amy Stellar, Carol Stellar, Robert Welch, and Barry Wish constitute the staff, and the cover was designed by Claudia Smith.

Assemblies were held for all three classes of the school in order to inform them of the important roles they will be playing in the events this year. Speaking at the Senior Class Assembly were the class officers: Bill Doyle, president; Jerry Kenney, vice-president; Marcia Kerr, secretary; and Diane Fay, treasurer. Jerry mentioned the very unusual fact that this year the senior class is without a second vice-president. The reason for this is that the elected second vice-president, Dave Gilvar, is no longer attending Newton High School.

According to the constitution, this means that the person who had the second highest total of

Newton YMCA To Offer Series Of 14 Adult Classes

Fourteen educational classes will be offered this year by the Newton YMCA's Adult Division, according to Maynard L. Moody, chairman of the Adult Program Committee.

Most of the courses will be offered three or four times during the program year with the first sessions starting during the first week in October.

Courses which are under the direction of Leonard D. Garfield, Adult Program Secretary, will include: Auto Driving, Contract Bridge, Golf, Modern Creative Dancing for women and children, Skating, Ballroom Dancing, Theatrical Production, and Investments for Laymen. Registrations are now being accepted for all of these courses.

In addition to the above educational classes, the Adult Division will again conduct the following clubs with experienced leaders: Chess Club — Lester Gee; Norumbega Stamp Club — Frederick E. Seeton; "Y" Bowling League — Malcolm Farquhar; and the Charles River Industrial Management Club — William Welch.

Hughes, executive director of the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

displayed. Evening discussions will also be held. On the final day there will be no classes, and a symposium on education will be the main feature.

A change of schedule has been made for the senior play this year. Instead of being in November as it always was, it has been rescheduled for October 17 and 18. This is in order that the play will come immediately after a football game, and give all graduates the opportunity to spend a full day at Newton High School. The performance on Friday night will be for students, and the one on Saturday night for adults, primarily; although students will be allowed to come. "Anastasia," this year's play, is expected to have a very successful run on the high school stage.

Clubs and committees are just now being formed for this year and in these activities no major change is anticipated. However, the senior class committee, and the legislature, which heretofore has always been a body of two representatives from each homeroom, will now have only one representative from the twelfth grade homerooms.

There have also been many severe changes in the daily program and the physical appearance of the school. The school day now begins at 8:25, in place of 8:30 and ends at 2:45, fifteen minutes later than previously. Seniors with last period studies and underclassmen with Honor Studies last period are again being permitted to leave school at

TELEVIEWING THE NEWS

By LEE LOUMOS

In the months when the light stays with us longer into the evenings, you may find that your television picture doesn't seem as bright as normal. If there's a lot of light coming in from outside, this is quite natural. Try pulling the shades in your TV room . . . this will help to provide more contrast between the light that makes up your picture and the light in the room. But don't watch your set in total darkness, either. Result of this is harsh contrast, very hard on the eyes. Do have a soft light on in the room, preferably not shining directly on the face of the screen.

Your TV picture should never have a washed-out look unless there is a great deal of sunlight in the room. If it does, check the brightness control to make sure it isn't set too high. If it's set properly, then the washed-out picture might be due to an inadequate or broken aerial, a bad lead-in, or even a failing picture tube.

Or it might result from a dust-covered picture tube . . . a condition that can be corrected on most sets only by removing the whole chassis to clean the face of the tube. Washed-out pictures will be somebody's problem, but not yours, when you call on our technicians to check your set and your antenna installation. Whatever the problem, we'll solve it in a hurry!

Gibbons Claims Furcolo is Evading Veterans' Preference Requirements

Charles Gibbons, Republican candidate for Governor, charged this week that Governor Furcolo "is denying jobs and career opportunities in state service to veterans by using tricky devices to evade veterans' preference requirements."

During the first week of his campaigning, Mr. Gibbons, who received a record-breaking sticker and write-in endorsement of his candidacy in the September primary, toured nearly every section of the state.

In talks before groups large and small, Mr. Gibbons detailed "the looting of our resources to provide unearned income through fantastically high wages and fees for loafers and incompetents."

Mr. Gibbons charged the present Governor with violating the spirit and intent of Civil Service laws and regulations by hiring expensive "consultants" for work "which should and could be done properly and more efficiently by people working under normal Civil Service titles."

He went on to say that the present State Administration has tripled the use of consultants in less than two years.

Promising a campaign which would "expose in all its black detail the squandering of our tax revenues," Mr. Gibbons said "the times are too crucial for our state to engage in anything but an all-out fight."

To Address Symposium

The president of the Association of Professional Religious Educators of Greater Boston, Mrs. John H. Lavelly of Newton, will address a symposium of womanpower as part of Boston University's week-long Homecoming celebration on Friday, Oct. 3, at 10:30 a.m. at the University's School of Fine and Applied Arts.

Mrs. Lavelly's topic will be "Women and the Community."

Recreation Dept. Classes for Fall Begin Oct. 14-15

Classes are now forming under the auspices of the Newton Recreation Department in the fall and winter programs drawn up for adults.

In addition to the evening classes which have proven extremely popular over the years, the department announces a continuation of those scheduled in the morning. The morning classes, an innovation introduced two years ago, have also proved worthwhile.

This year's instructor will be Carl F. Ockerbloom, a 15-year veteran of the Recreation Department.

The classes are operated as recreational rather than a purely educational project. Many attractive and interesting articles are turned out by the classes, including waste baskets and letter holders covered with gleaming copper foil; trays and bowls of copper or aluminum in various shapes and sizes; lamps, candle sticks, sconces and bookends.

Opening days are Oct. 14 and 15. Classes will be held at the Burr Playground fieldhouse on Waverly avenue, Newton Corner, on Tuesday mornings from Those interested in joining one of the classes should contact the Newton Recreation Department at City Hall for further information. Enrollment is limited. A small registration fee is charged.

On-The-Job Classes For Newton Police

It's "back to school" for Newton's finest, as a new year-round in-service training program was started this week which will require every member of the Newton Police Department to attend a two-hour class every week. The sessions will be held in the guard room at Police Headquarters, Chief Philip Purcell reported.

The two-hour classes will be held every Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. All of the 160 members of the department, no matter what their rank, will be required to attend one session each week.

The courses will include such subjects as first aid, police practice and procedure, and criminal law.

Registration For Lower Falls Cubs

Parents of all boys between 8 and 11 living in Newton Lower Falls who wish to be Cub Scouts this year must register for their sons at the Lower Falls Library on Monday evening, Sept. 29, at 8 p.m.

Parents of boys who will become Cubs for the first time must register, as well as parents of boys who were Cubs last year, so that the Village Chairman can plan the size and the location of the dens.

the near future on the new 1500-pupil south side High School before the end of November, also were disclosed at Monday night's School Board session.

The purpose of the study being made by a group of educational leaders is to ascertain how Newton schools may best provide for its "problem" children—those boys and girls whose I.Q.'s are so high as to place them almost in the genius class.

It was pretty well agreed at the School Board proceedings that the city's schools are meeting the needs of most of its brighter students.

The big problem, it was explained, is what to do for those children whose I.Q.'s are in the top two percentiles.

Members of the School Committee explained that they are seeking means by which the city's schools—especially the elementary schools—may offer greater opportunities for the most gifted youngsters.

Ideas which have been utilized in other progressive cities and towns throughout the United States are being scrutinized and screened by Newton school authorities.

One of the methods attempted elsewhere is the grouping of elementary school pupils on the basis of their ability. Another is the establishment or acceleration or enrichment programs.

Members of the School Committee have given tentative approval to plans for the proposed new campus-style south side High School which is to be erected on a 38-acre lot at Greenwood street, near Parker street in the Oak Hill section.

Final plans, however, must be given an official okay before the actual work can be started. A few revisions were suggested in the plans considered Monday night.

The new school will actually be comprised of four so-called houses, to which students will be assigned. It also will include an auditorium, a physical educational building and a circular library.

Plans call for the utilization of the most modern construction methods and techniques.

As an economy step to trim expenses a proposed swimming pool was deleted from the plans, and the library building was made slightly smaller.

School Committee members anticipate that the work of installing the foundations for the new structures will be started in November.

Civic, Business Leaders Stress Need for Newton Man in Senate

Newton needs and should have a spokesman in the State Senate.

That assertion was made today by a group of Newton business and civic leaders as they urged the reelection of Senator Donald L. Gibbs to a second term.

"It hardly seems necessary to point out," they said, "that a city such as Newton, with a population of 90,000 persons, should have a State Senator who lives in Newton and who knows and understands the problems of the city and its people."

"A number of matters directly affecting the well-being of Newton and its citizens—matters on which a State Senator has an important voice—will arise during the next two years."

"One of them is the proposed extension of the Massachusetts Turnpike which, if improperly planned, can raise havoc with a substantial section of Newton," they continued.

"During the coming year the MTA will begin rapid transit operations to Newton, providing a service formerly supplied by the Highland branch of the Boston & Albany railroad. Problems undoubtedly will develop on which a Newton Senator can help to protect the interests of his home city and its people."

"We are urging the reelection of Donald L. Gibbs because we believe Newton needs him in the State Senate and because we feel he has made a good record as our State Senator."

"In urging his reelection we are motivated not by partisan politics but by a serious consideration of what we consider is best for our city and our citizens," the civic and business leaders declared in their statement.

Senator Gibbs, in talks this week at meetings held in his behalf, said that some means must be found of stemming the rising tide of State expenditures.

He asserted that taxes have reached the saturation point and are now imposing a burden that is heavier than many persons can carry.

"Instead of imposing new taxes, we must seek means to trim down the taxes we already have," Gibbs told the groups he addressed. "Unless we do so, Massachusetts is going to become a tax-poor State."

With more time in school, there are now six, rather than five, daily periods and students are able to take five majors or several minors much more easily than in the past.
Also, pupils taking biology are encountering a new system. One biology lab period a week is scheduled for each class. This gives the teacher an opportunity to have her classes learn by actual experimentation.
Lunch schedules are different. Although there are still four lunches, the first one begins at 11:23 and the last one ends at 12:53. Last year lunches began at noon and ended at one-thirty. Hunger pains have ceased to be so acute lately.
A major program change is the omission of S-Block which was a study or activity period in the middle of the day when all students reported to their homerooms or to various activities.

going to the library. Students who wish to use the school library during a study period may do so only if they have previously obtained a slip from one of their subject teachers stating that work on that subject was to be done in the library that period. These slips were not used for a while last year, but are back in operation again.
In addition, seniors and juniors have been just as confused as sophomores this year as far as room numbers and daily programs go. The rooms were numbered altogether differently, for the most part. This is because several large rooms were made into two smaller classrooms.
The rooms could not be simply classified as a certain number with an A or a B on it, because much secretarial work is being done by IBM machines this year, and the machines cannot work with letters.
The program itself does not go according to alphabetical order, as it has in the past. A, B, and C blocks are always in the morning, and the rest of the blocks share the other periods. This was done so that students in some curricula who work in the afternoons will be able to have all their major subjects in the morning every day, instead of at different times each day. Also added to the schedule are two X-blocks, or home-room periods. They occur on Tuesday and Thursday and are used as assembly periods, activity periods and study periods.

As soon as the mornings are chilly, and the leaves are tipped with brilliant color, it is just natural that we are attracted to the knitting counters of our favorite store... I stopped at the B. S. Edward Store in West Newton, because I was sure I would find a complete stock of virgin wools, rug cottons, yarns with metallic threads, variegated yarns... and those "soft as a kitten" orlons and nylons... The luscious colors make you want to get busy, so pick your project whether

Bobby Doerr Tip Enables Hamill To Hit Nice .310

Will Hamill, ex-Tiger star would like a shot at a regular job at Fenway Park, and a chance to disprove the growing impression that Red Sox farm teams offer one answer to "What's the matter with 'em" thinks Bobby Doerr's a great guy.

Will wound up his season's farm work with the Corning, N. Y. club of the Pony League, a Class D Red Sox incubator. He came home a bit early to get ready for a six-month tour of duty with the U. S. Marine Corps. In subsequent years he'll be able to discharge his military duty by putting in a month with the Leathernecks at the end of each baseball season.

When he left Corning for Newton he was battling a respectable .291 for his season's work. But for a poor start at Raleigh it would have been better.

It didn't look as though he'd get that close to the 300-mark while he was with Raleigh earlier in the season. He was no sensation with the stick. The Raleigh management decided he'd hit the long ones only by changing his style. He labored hard and long with the new style, but his batting average shrunk and shrunk until he was sent to Corning.

Bobby Doerr, making a tour of the Sox farm clubs, happened in one day and looked Will over along with the rest of the Sox hopefuls. First thing, the great second base master did was to change Will's batting style back to its original form. After that Will was in the groove.

The ex-Newton star began hitting almost immediately. His season record for his work at Corning alone was a neat .310.

Over 600 Attend Four "Y" Camps

Over 600 different boys attended the four Newton YMCA camping programs during the 1958 season, according to reports heard at the first fall meeting of the YMCA Board of Directors, held at the Association building.

There were twenty-three people in attendance at the meeting, presided over by Vice President Fred A. Hawkins, including four camp directors and four chairmen of camp committees. The chairmen were Fred A. Hawkins, Camp Frank A. Day; Robert H. Cobb, Camp Massasoit; Sidney A. Marston, Camp Chickami; and Raymond Fields, Camp Vagabond.

Frank M. Simmons, director of Camp Frank A. Day located in East Brookfield, indicated that 220 boys were enrolled for the camp's 43rd season. New programs included a new "Indian Village" for overnight campouts and increased emphasis on archery and crafts.

Physical improvements saw new living quarters erected for camp staff, a new craft shop capable of handling 40 boys and installation of a new hot water heater.

Camp Chickami conducted its fourth season at the camp site in Wayland with 217 boys taking part in the activities. The outdoor swimming pool was remodeled at a cost of $1200 and the archery and crafts programs were enlarged. Campers were driven to camp each day by the two camp buses. The camp was directed by Russell E. Ball, Youth Work Secretary, and Donald J. Eacmen, Associate Youth Work Secretary was the associate director.

Camp Massasoit, the building centered day camp, opened for its fifteenth season on June 23 and served 214 different boys from 20 different communities. Special events included trips to the South Weymouth Naval Air Station and to the Needham Nike Base. In addition the campers conducted an all day carnival with the proceeds going to the "Buildings for Brotherhood" effort. Edward R. Di Persio, Newton YMCA physical director, was the camp director.

Eight boys were enrolled in Camp Vagabond, the trip camp, directed this year by Ronald A. LaMar, Associate Youth Work Secretary. The campers toured through the Rangeley Lakes region of Maine and saw such points of interest as the Quogusoc Fish Hatchery, Appalachian Trail and Saddleback Mountain. Other items on the agenda included announcement of the Committee's Dinner to be held on Tuesday, October 21, and the fun carnival sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to be held on Saturday, September 27.

Sebastian's Faces Thayer in Opener With 8 Lettermen

With a likely-looking squad ready to offer evidence that Sebastian's will be able to overcome the handicap imposed by a slate which includes only two games at home, followed by five on the road, the Arrows will open their 1958 gridiron campaign with Thayer Academy on Saturday.

Tom Green has a squad of 34 which includes only five starters from the 1957 team. However, in scrimmages against Boston Tech and Dedham High School, the Arrows looked extremely alert on the line and fired some fast and classy running backs.

Coach Tom Green's five returning starters are Captain Ed Ennis, Joe Corsette and Ed Lenahan, all backs; Harry Downes, a capable end, and John Archibald, an excellent guard. Three other lettermen are Harry Roche, Tom Daley and Jim Hayden.

Downes and Dave Barlow will probably be the starting ends against Thayer; Ken Reardon and Mike Cronin will open at the tackles; John Mulien and Archibald will be at the guard posts and Paul Daley at center.

The starting backfield quartet looks like Lenahan at quarter; Corsette and Ennis at halfback spots and Tom Forry at fullback.

Governor Dummer comes to Newton Oct. 4. The next five opponents, all away from home, will be Cranwell Prep, Oct. 11; Taber Academy, Oct. 18; Hudson High, Oct. 24 (night game); Nov. 2, St. Clements; Nov. 9, St. John's Prep.

Bob Morse Gets Rave Notices for New Movie Role

Robert Morse, who started taking bows for classy stage performances back in his Newton High School days—and not so far back either—is drawing rave notices from movie critics.

In Thornton Wilder's romantic farce, "The Matchmaker," Shirley Booth is billed as the star. Judging from those critics who have seen the picture's bow hereabouts, Shirley isn't cast in a completely perfect role for her lavish talents.

Morse, however, playing the secondary role of a shy apprentice, does better than good. In fact, viewers consider his performance as the happy factor which could bail the picture out of the class of mediocrity.

Bob played in the original stage production of the Wilder piece. He was the only member of the Broadway cast chosen for the movie version.

Newton's new superintendent of school Eric N. Dennard will be introduced to parents, teachers and others attending the first fall meeting of the P.T.A. Council to be held next Thursday evening, Oct. 2, at the Meadowbrook Junior High at 3 p.m.

Chairman of the Newton School Committee Haskell C. Freedman will make the introduction, and will speak on "How a New Superintendent Is Chosen."

Workshops for home room mothers, presidents and PTA board members, ways and means chairmen, secretaries and treasurers, program chairmen, Council delegates, and Hallowsend chairmen will comprise the remainder of the evening's program.

Schedule Planned By Woman's Club

Broadway will be brought to Auburndale Wednesday, Oct. 8, when "Theaterlogues" is presented at the first meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club, to be held at 283 Melrose street.

Barbara Warren Shure, who has appeared in radio, television and the legitimate stage, will present the entertainment part of the program and it is promised that "Theaterlogues" will include a good share of comedy and drama.

Mrs. Thomas E. Crosby will act as day chairman and Mrs. Harold B. Smith, assisted by Group Two, will be hostess. The coffee hour will be held at 1:15 p.m., the business meeting at 1:45 and the program will begin at 2 p.m.

Three important dates should be noted by Club members for the first part of October. The Garden and Conservation Committee Workshop will meet at the home of Mrs. Peter Jan, chairman, at 24 Windermere road on Wednesday, Oct. 15.

The American Home Committee will sponsor a trip to Towle Silver in Newburyport on Wednesday, Oct. 22. Reservations are to be made by contacting Mrs. George A. Renaccio, chairman, at DE 2-2262, or Mrs. Timothy G. McCarthy, co-chairman.

The Art Committee has announced that State Federation Day will be held at Sturbridge Village on Tuesday, Oct. 23. Members and guests should call Mrs. LeRoy A. Faulkner, chairman, at BI 4-1315 for transportation arrangements.

Red Cross Seeks Volunteers Who Will Help Vets

The Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross is organizing a specially trained group of qualified women to serve disabled veterans who are still hospitalized. The program is being undertaken in conjunction with neighboring communities.

Programs are planned at the Boston Veterans Administration Hospital, and the Paraplegic Veterans Administration Hospital in West Roxbury, as well as one for the active servicemen at the Chelsea Naval Hospital.

It was not many years ago, the Red Cross points out, when the entire community was eager to mobilize to help the servicemen and the disabled veteran. The need is as great as ever today, the local chapter said, but "community awareness lags behind this ever present and increasing human need."

The women who volunteer from Newton will visit the respective hospitals and have the program explained to them during the week of Oct. 6. Those interested should call Mrs. Philip K. Brown at either LA 7-6000 or LA 7, 3195 to arrange for an appointment.

The training required consists of two 2-hour sessions, Oct. 14 and 21, at the Wellesley Chapter House. The following two sessions will be held at the hospital of the volunteer's choice and work assignments will be ready for Veteran's Day, Nov. 11.

Mind Reader At Oak Hill Assn.

A novel program has been planned for the next meeting of the Oak Hill Park Association on Tuesday evening, Sept. 30. The business portion of the meeting will be held from 8 to 9:30, followed by a demonstration by Professor Richard Ross, hypnotist and mentalist.

Professor Ross will demonstrate his hypnotic powers and will do a mind-reading act. He will also discuss the subject of hypnosis and answer questions from the audience. Herbert Goodman is chairman for the meeting.

The appointment of Beverly Linsky, of 8 Early Path, Newton Centre, as the new chairman of publicity for the Association was announced by Edward M. Hallett, Jr., president.

FitzGerald Says Register Of Probate Should Be Appointed

Warren J. FitzGerald of Belmont, Republican candidate for the office of Register of Probate for Middlesex County, declared last night in an address at a house party in Newton that in his opinion it would be in the public interest if the Register of Probate were appointed by the presiding justices of the various Probate Courts as are the Assistant Registers.

Mr. FitzGerald, who has been an Assistant Register for the past 16 years, assured the gathering that the Probate Court not only is an important part of our county government but also a very technical branch. Those in the legal profession would readily agree that to have an efficient office the Registry should be entrusted only to those who by education, training and experience have qualified themselves, FitzGerald asserted. He said the Registry of Probate also should be administered by career personnel.
